Mobster Held As Narcotics Law Violator

T-Men Nab Wexler In New York City

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—U. S. Treasury agents tonight arrested Irving Wexler, 62, alias Waxey Gordon, notorious bootleg era racketeer, as a narcotics law violator.

The former Broadway bootlegger had 17 ½ ounces of heroin in his possession when picked up with two other persons at 68th Street and York Avenue, on Manhattan's East Side, Treasury agents notified police.

All three men were taken to the East 67th Street police station where they were held pending arrival of New York Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan.

One of the men arrested with Wexler was identified as Sammy Kass, described by Treasury agents as "another notorious character."

The other was said to be Benjamin Katz, not further identified.

The arrest was made by James Ryan, head of the Treasury's narcotics division in New York City and his men at 8:15 p. m. (EST).

In Washington the Treasury said four automobiles also were seized.

A graduate of a number of prisons—Leavenworth, Sing Sing, Holmesburg (Pa.), Elmira (N. Y.) Reformatory, Lewisburg (Pa.) and the Tombs in New York, Wexler was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's first big victim when Dewey was a young gang-buster.

Dewey's public career got a tremendous boost when he won a conviction of Wexler for income tax evasion in 1933. Wexler got a 10-year sentence and was released in 1940 after serving seven years.

The mobster, who once drove around New York in an armored car with bodyguards, took a subway train as he left New York's federal courthouse at that time.

He popped up in San Francisco a year after his release from Leavenworth and was booked on a vagrancy charge with two associates.

A police judge advised him, "the climate here is not good for men like you," and Wexler came back to New York.

In New York, Wexler was booked on a vagrancy charge again and advised that New York police would arrest him on sight. But Wexler, a native New Yorker, won a court fight to stay in the city so long as he behaved himself.

In October, 1942, he was arrested for black market operations in sugar.

He pleaded guilty to the indictment, with two co-defendants. In January, 1943, Wexler was sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

In November, 1947, he and two others were arrested for the alleged sale of $40,000 worth of stolen wrist watches. But he won a dismissal of the charge in New York's felony court.

Mental Test Law For Reporters Is Sought By Mayor

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP) — Mayor Ralph J. Morissette wants Northern New York city to prohibit newspapers from hiring reporters unless they pass a mental test.

The Mayor asked the Common Council last night to enact a law, and he ordered an Ogdensburg Journal reporter not to enter City Hall again.

The council took no action.

The reporter, Charles Saunders, covered his City Hall beat today. He said Morissette was not there. The Journal declared that Saunders would continue on the beat.

Saunders said he'd be glad to take a mental test, if the Mayor would, too.

Morissette indicated that his indignation was aroused by an article Saunders wrote about a military police riot drill at Pine Camp. Saunders reported that the "rioters" had hollered "Down with Morissette."

Lausche Urges Truman To Run

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) —Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, noted "lone wolf" Democrat, started the 1952 political pot boiling in a big way today by urging President Truman to run for reelection in 1952.

Emerging from a conference with Mr. Truman at the White House, Lausche told newsmen:

"I told him I thought he should be the candidate for president in 1952."

He said the President smiled and thanked him.

Lausche made plain to the newsmen that he wasn't stopping at just stating his opinion to Mr. Truman. He said he had "expressed my views in the matter" to leading Democrats in Ohio.

Lausche's announcement came as a surprise to reporters, particularly in view of his record for playing a lone hand in Democratic Party affairs, often ignoring party organizations.

"Ike" Duties No Bar To Politics, Truman Asserts

Sure General Will Put Country First

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Truman said today that he doesn't think Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European duties will interfere if the General is in a political frame of mind in 1952.

A restrained and indirect discussion of the possibility that Eisenhower might be a 1952 presidential candidate—something the General won't comment on himself—dominated the weekly White House news conference.

Eisenhower is doing a magnificent job in Europe as head of the North Atlantic defense forces, Mr. Truman said, and he thought he would continue there as long as necessary.

Will Attend Jap Pact Signing

The President declined to speculate on how long that might be. He said that under any conditions, Eisenhower would put duty to the country first.

On other matters, Mr. Truman said:

1. He plans to fly to San Francisco for the opening of the conference called for signing the Japanese peace treaty, September 4. Asked whether this would preclude any presidential "whistle stop" campaigning across the country this fall, the President replied it would at this particular time.

2. His statement on wages, in his denunciation of the new controls law Tuesday night, speaks for itself. In that statement, Mr. Truman said that "to the extent that this act permits prices and the cost of living to rise, it will be necessary to allow reasonable adjustments in wages."

Baruch Helps Bring Up Question

The Eisenhower question came up in the light of statements by Bernard M. Baruch and Sens. Murray (D-Mont) and Brewster (R-Me). Murray, who wants Mr. Truman to run for reelection, and Brewster, who is generally regarded as a backer of Sen. Taft of Ohio for the Republican nomination, have said they thought Eisenhower's job in Europe would keep him out of the presidential field next year.

Baruch, longtime adviser of presidents, said in New York today that it would be "a great disservice to Gen. Eisenhower to put him into the political arena."

Redhead Jailed For Posing As WAF, Hitching Air Rides

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 2 (AP)—An attractive redhead who has been riding military aircraft around the country was in jail today on charges of impersonating an officer.

Col. Ben Lichty, commander of Bergstrom Air Force Base here, said it was "very embarrassing" that pretty Medalo Frances Evans, 26, had been able to spend four days at the jet fighter training base as a WAF officer.

He also was embarrassed because she was able to get a temporary identification card without proving she was an officer. A Berbstrom information spokesman explained:

"She got the card from a corporal in the pass section. There are two factors to consider: She is an attractive woman, and she was posing as a lieutenant. There's lots of difference between the rank of corporal and the rank of lieutenant, and like I said, she is an attractive woman."

The 120-pound redhead called on Col. Lichty Monday to ask that he help obtain a waiver of college credit so that she could become a WAF officer — something she already was pretending to be.

The colonel was impressed until she mentioned casually that she had flown in Monday from Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, where her husband is stationed. Non-military personnel don't fly in military aircraft without official clearance. Tuesday night she was arrested by the FBI.

Post New Bail Or Go To Jail, 39 Aliens Told

"Red" Congress Bonds Outlawed

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — The government today outlawed Civil Rights Congress bail for 39 aliens fighting deportation. They were told to produce new bonds or go to jail.

It was another sweeping blow at the congress — termed subversive by the government — which bankrolls Communists when they get in a legal jam.

Earlier this month, congress bail was outlawed in federal courts in New York City.

The congress posted a total of $110,000 in bond for the 39 aliens, all of whom face deportation proceedings because of alleged subversive or Communist connections.

Some Aliens Make Deadline

The government moved briskly to rearrest the aliens, ordering them to turn themselves in by 2 p.m. (EST) — less than an hour after the decision was made public in Washington.

Some of the aliens made the deadline. A few were given a little more time for various reasons. Some could not be located in time to make the deadline and straggled in later.

They were directed to surrender in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit.

In a statement in Washington, Attorney General McGrath made it clear the Justice Department no longer regards as acceptable bonds offered by the Civil Right Congress.

Congress Labelled Subversive

The congress has been labelled Communist and subversive by the Attorney General's office.

Bonds totaling $260,000 were posted by the congress for the 11 top leaders of the U. S. Communist Party. They were convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate violent revolution.

Seven of them now are serving prison terms. But four never showed up, jumping $80,000 in congress bail. They were Robert Thompson, Gus Hall, Gilbert Green and Henry Winston.

Byrd Urges End To Delay In Case Of Boyle And RFC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called today for faster action on the case of Democratic National Chairman William Boyle, saying Boyle should resign or be fired if he profited from an RFC loan.

"Why the delay?" Byrd asked in a statement. He noted that last week and again today Mr. Truman told his news conference he was looking into the charges that Boyle got fees for using influence to obtain a loan for a St. Louis firm.

"Either Boyle is guilty or not guilty. Either he peddled his influence to his own advantage or he did not," Byrd said.

He said that if Boyle had influenced a government loan, he should immediately resign his party chairmanship or the National Committee "should be assembled and Mr. Boyle should be dismissed."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has published stories saying that the American Lithofold Corp., of St. Louis received a $565,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1949, after retaining Boyle. The loan had been rejected three times previously. The Post-Dispatch said Boyle received $8,000 from the firm. Boyle has said he had nothing to do with the loan, although he had once been a lawyer for the company.

U. S. Blocks Delivery Of Ships To Russia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The State Department disclosed today the United States is blocking delivery of 13 small German ships to Russia. It said the Russians have probably got more than their "rightful share" of Germany's war-end merchant marine anyway.

The U. S. action was reported with the release of an exchange of notes between the Soviet embassy and the State Department. The whole controversy dates back to a war-end agreement among the United States, Britain and Russia to split up the German merchant marine.

A special commission proposed in 1947 that the Russians receive 13 small vessels totaling 7,500 gross tons in addition to what they already held. This has never been done because the U. S. never gave formal approval to the report.

Man, Tummy Ache Cured, Hustled To Mental Hospital

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP) — British doctors cured a man of his severe stomach ache and hustled him to a mental hospital, the magazine Nursing Mirror said tonight.

Inside his stomach they had found:

Six ounces of hay, four pieces of metal, a razor blade, a piece of porcelain, a steel file, two stones, a pin, four pennies, three matches, a ladies' hair clip, a key, two nails, a pen, a knife handle, and two broken knife blades.

McCracken Case Ends In Mistrial

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP)—Henry Ford McCracken, 34, was found guilty of child stealing in the fatal beating of Patricia Jean Hull, 10.

A Superior Court jury acquitted him of kidnaping and failed to agree on a murder charge.

A mistrial was declared and the jury was discharged after Foreman W. H. Wilder said there was no possibility of agreement.

Superior Judge Robert Gardner set Aug. 13 for a new trial on the murder count.

Wilder said one juror refused to vote and another cast an unmarked ballot on the murder charge. The court said this was a violation of a juror's duty.

The jury had deliberated two days. The trial started July 9.

McCracken was charged with luring Patricia Jean from a Buena Park theater last May 19, beating her to death in his motel cabin and burying her body in a canyon.

McCracken told the jury that the girl died accidentally. She was trying to kick her way through a window in his cabin, he testified, when she fell from a table.

Virginia Hill's Coats, Etc., Sold For Taxes

The Internal Revenue Bureau, claiming she owes $161,0000 in back income taxes, held the auction on the front lawn of her $25,000 house. In 90-degree heat, it drew 2,500 persons.

The former girl friend of gangland big shots had a little .25 caliber pistol with two boxes of shells. The government got $36 for it. That was about average for the odds and ends.

Defense Housing Bill Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The House Banking Committee tonight approved a $1,700,000,000 bill to ease housing shortages in key defense areas.

Only $200,000,000 of the money, however, would be in the form of outright grants and loans. The remaining $1,500,000,000 would be in the form of authorized mortgage insurance and would not require any appropriation of government funds.

The bill relaxes some restrictions imposed by a similar bill already passed by the Senate. It also increases the Senate-approved housing aid by $65,000,000.

Committee Chairman Spence (D-NY) called the House measure "a real bipartisan effort that is really going to put a roof over the people's heads."

Some committee members said they thought chances for passage were good, but several Republicans indicated they would offer amendments when the bill reached the House floor, probably in about two weeks.

A somewhat similar bill died in the House last April.

The $1,500,000,000 in mortgage insurance provided by the new bill is the same amount voted by the Senate but is only one half what the administration asked.

The House bill provides $75,000,000 in loans and grants for government building of houses in defense areas where private builders are unable to construct them. The Senate voted $50,000,000 for this purpose.

Girl, Found Sane, Released From Jail To Wed Ex-Priest

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 2 (AP) —Claire Young was pronounced sane tonight and freed from jail to marry Luciano Negrini, the Roman Catholic priest unfrocked and excommunicated as a result of their Chicago-born romance. Negrini met her at the jail.

The permit of the blonde, 21-year-old daughter of a Loyola University professor to remain in Italy was extended three months. It was due to expire Aug. 5.

Deputy Police Chief Gabriele Mundo announced these developments after summoning a psychiatrist, Dr. Mastrangelo of Milan's mental asylum, to check a report of the girl's mother, Mrs. James J. Young, that Claire was not rational.

Impulsiveness got Claire in a jam last Saturday.

She was jailed for slapping a police officer after she was informed that her residence permit would not be renewed, meaning her trip across the Atlantic had been in vain. Police arranged to deport her on the American liner Independence Aug. 6. She apologized yesterday for the slapping episode.

Negrini first said his priestly vows would never permit him to marry, but later said he would marry her. His excommunication followed.

A Vatican spokesman said Claire, a Catholic who met Negrini when he visited Chicago last year, also faces excommunication if she marries the 41-year-old former missionary.

McMahon Dares Russia To Allow Americans' Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) today dared the Kremlin to let a congressional delegation visit the Soviet Union "to tell the Russian people about the peaceful and friendly desires of the American people."

McMahon also suggested that in turn Congress invite the 14 members of the Soviet Politburo to this country "so they could breathe the clean air of democracy and decide for themselves whether the American people want war or peace."

In a Senate speech, McMahon proposed that Congress pass resolutions endorsing both trips but he did not indicate whether he plans to introduce such legislation.

Red Recruiter Says Noel Field, Duggan In Fold

Ex-State Dept. Aides Had Been "Cleared"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Hede Massing, a Viennese who said she worked in Washington as a Communist spy, told Senate investigators today that she enlisted two State Department aides in her organization in 1933 and 1934.

She identified the men as Noel Field and Lawrence Duggan. Field has disappeared behind the iron curtain, while Duggan plunged to his death from the 16th floor of a New York office building in 1948.

At the time Field consented to enter her "apparatus," Mrs. Massing testified, she believed he was employed in the State Department's Western European division. Duggan was connected with the department's Latin American division, she said.

Top-Level Communist

Mrs. Massing was called before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee, which is trying to ascertain whether subversive influences at home have affected United States policy in the Far East. Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) described the witness as an ex-Communist who "operated on the higher level and who was in the know."

After Duggan's death, the Justice Department said an FBI investigation showed he was a "loyal employe" of the government. Sen. Nixon (R-Calif), then a representative, reported the House Un-American Activities Committee also had given Duggan a clean bill of health.

Mrs. Massing testified that Duggan was much easier to "reach" than Field. She said she was able to suggest to Duggan "that he could be of help to us" after only a few meetings, but that it required about nine months to bring Field into the fold.

Pair Knew She Was Red

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) asked whether the two men had any doubt that she was a Communist.

"Oh, no," Mrs. Massing replied emphatically.

She added that it was clear to the pair that she was engaged in espionage and wanted to obtain information "relative to the Soviet Union." Not military information, she explained; that was not her job.

Mrs. Massing is the former wife of Gerhardt Eisler, once described by the Un-American Committee as the No. 1 Communist in the United States. Facing charges of passport fraud and contempt of Congress, Eisler fled the country in 1949 and turned up as propaganda chief of the Soviet-controlled East German government.

Radio Attacks May Pave Way For Backdown

Claim U. N. Demands Line North Of Front

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators adjourned talks today on the tough issue of a Korean armistice buffer zone amid indications the Reds might be ready to compromise.

The delegates scheduled another meeting tomorrow at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Friday).

Today's session lasted more than two hours and was the longest in several days. This gave hope that some progress might have been made in eight days of deadlock over the issue.

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—A high United Nations source expressed belief today the Reds might be preparing to accept the Allied stand on a Korean cease-fire line despite their vocal insistence on the 38th parallel.

This view was based on Peiping and Pyongyang broadcasts which distorted the Allied attitude, making it appear the Allies were demanding a line much farther north than the present fighting front.

Thus, the U. N. sources theorized, the Communists would be able to accept the fighting front as the cease-fire line and still foster the impression they had wrung concessions from the Allies.

18th Meeting Begins

(The Peiping radio quoted the Kaesong correspondent of the Tientsin Progressive Daily as saying that U. S. senators, American radio announcers and the press were "howling" for establishment of the buffer zone between Pyongyang and Wonsan—roughly 65 to 90 miles north of 38.

(Actually the battle lines were far south of these points, and there was no official or unofficial word that a line ever had been proposed between Pyongyang and Wonsan.)

U. N. and Communist peace negotiators began their 18th meeting promptly at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Thursday). The Allied delegation flew to the Kaesong talks in helicopters, arriving there 20 minutes before the starting time set for the critical conference.

The very fact that the talks have not broken down, despite seven fruitless meetings, appeared significant to most observers at this headquarters. Both sides still seemed willing to keep trying for an armistice.

Nam "Rejects" U. N. Stand

The Communist radio at Peiping Thursday night announced that Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate at Kaesong, had "repudiated" the U. N. buffer "deep across the 38th parallel."

A later Peiping broadcast Friday morning quoted Nam as saying ". . . demands which attempt to push the military demarcation line deep into the positions of our side . . . are absolutely unacceptable."

The news in that announcement seemed to be the Communist choice of the word "deep." It would indicate the Communists might agree to a buffer zone that was not too "deep" inside North Korea.

Allies Advance Two Miles

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—Advances of more than two miles on the Central Korean front were recorded by attacking Allied troops Thursday against slight Red resistance.

Size of the Allied movement on the front south-southeast of Kimsong was not disclosed by an Eighth Army communique, but it referred to "patrols ranging forward of attacking forces."

Only platoon-sized Red elements were found, with contact light.

German Inter-Zone Trade Halts Today

BONN, Germany, Aug. 2 (AP)—All legal trade between West and East Germany will come to a standstill tomorrow because of a dispute over Russian restrictions on West Berlin's exports.

The interim agreement for trade between the West German federal republic and the Soviet-occupied east zone expires at midnight tonight.

A new inter-zonal trade agreement has been drawn up but both the Western Allies and the Bonn government have refused to allow it to be signed until the Russians lift their restrictions on the shipment of goods from West Berlin to West Germany.

Some Aliens Make Deadline

The government moved briskly to rearrest the aliens, ordering them to turn themselves in by 2 p.m. (EST) — less than an hour after the decision was made public in Washington.

Some of the aliens made the deadline. A few were given a little more time for various reasons. Some could not be located in time to make the deadline and straggled in later.

They were directed to surrender in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit.

In a statement in Washington, Attorney General McGrath made it clear the Justice Department no longer regards as acceptable bonds offered by the Civil Right Congress.

Congress Labelled Subversive

The congress has been labelled Communist and subversive by the Attorney General's office.

Bonds totaling $260,000 were posted by the congress for the 11 top leaders of the U. S. Communist Party. They were convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate violent revolution.

Seven of them now are serving prison terms. But four never showed up, jumping $80,000 in congress bail. They were Robert Thompson, Gus Hall, Gilbert Green and Henry Winston.

Byrd Urges End To Delay In Case Of Boyle And RFC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called today for faster action on the case of Democratic National Chairman William Boyle, saying Boyle should resign or be fired if he profited from an RFC loan.

"Why the delay?" Byrd asked in a statement. He noted that last week and again today Mr. Truman told his news conference he was looking into the charges that Boyle got fees for using influence to obtain a loan for a St. Louis firm.

"Either Boyle is guilty or not guilty. Either he peddled his influence to his own advantage or he did not," Byrd said.

He said that if Boyle had influenced a government loan, he should immediately resign his party chairmanship or the National Committee "should be assembled and Mr. Boyle should be dismissed."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has published stories saying that the American Lithofold Corp., of St. Louis received a $565,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1949, after retaining Boyle. The loan had been rejected three times previously. The Post-Dispatch said Boyle received $8,000 from the firm. Boyle has said he had nothing to do with the loan, although he had once been a lawyer for the company.

U. S. Blocks Delivery Of Ships To Russia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The State Department disclosed today the United States is blocking delivery of 13 small German ships to Russia. It said the Russians have probably got more than their "rightful share" of Germany's war-end merchant marine anyway.

The U. S. action was reported with the release of an exchange of notes between the Soviet embassy and the State Department. The whole controversy dates back to a war-end agreement among the United States, Britain and Russia to split up the German merchant marine.

A special commission proposed in 1947 that the Russians receive 13 small vessels totaling 7,500 gross tons in addition to what they already held. This has never been done because the U. S. never gave formal approval to the report.

Sgt. Michael P. Moore, 24, New York City, looks shaky, and is, as he gets one of those welcomes GIs dream about. Yolande Betbeze, 1950 Miss America, gave him a hero's hug as he debarked from the transport Gen. M. C. Meigs yesterday at Seattle. He was the 20,000th veteran to return from Korea.

Man, Tummy Ache Cured, Hustled To Mental Hospital

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP) — British doctors cured a man of his severe stomach ache and hustled him to a mental hospital, the magazine Nursing Mirror said tonight.

Inside his stomach they had found:

Six ounces of hay, four pieces of metal, a razor blade, a piece of porcelain, a steel file, two stones, a pin, four pennies, three matches, a ladies' hair clip, a key, two nails, a pen, a knife handle, and two broken knife blades.

McCracken Case Ends In Mistrial

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP)—Henry Ford McCracken, 34, was found guilty of child stealing in the fatal beating of Patricia Jean Hull, 10.

A Superior Court jury acquitted him of kidnaping and failed to agree on a murder charge.

A mistrial was declared and the jury was discharged after Foreman W. H. Wilder said there was no possibility of agreement.

Superior Judge Robert Gardner set Aug. 13 for a new trial on the murder count.

Wilder said one juror refused to vote and another cast an unmarked ballot on the murder charge. The court said this was a violation of a juror's duty.

The jury had deliberated two days. The trial started July 9.

McCracken was charged with luring Patricia Jean from a Buena Park theater last May 19, beating her to death in his motel cabin and burying her body in a canyon.

McCracken told the jury that the girl died accidentally. She was trying to kick her way through a window in his cabin, he testified, when she fell from a table.

Virginia Hill's Coats, Etc., Sold For Taxes

The Internal Revenue Bureau, claiming she owes $161,0000 in back income taxes, held the auction on the front lawn of her $25,000 house. In 90-degree heat, it drew 2,500 persons.

The former girl friend of gangland big shots had a little .25 caliber pistol with two boxes of shells. The government got $36 for it. That was about average for the odds and ends.

Defense Housing Bill Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The House Banking Committee tonight approved a $1,700,000,000 bill to ease housing shortages in key defense areas.

Only $200,000,000 of the money, however, would be in the form of outright grants and loans. The remaining $1,500,000,000 would be in the form of authorized mortgage insurance and would not require any appropriation of government funds.

The bill relaxes some restrictions imposed by a similar bill already passed by the Senate. It also increases the Senate-approved housing aid by $65,000,000.

Committee Chairman Spence (D-NY) called the House measure "a real bipartisan effort that is really going to put a roof over the people's heads."

Some committee members said they thought chances for passage were good, but several Republicans indicated they would offer amendments when the bill reached the House floor, probably in about two weeks.

A somewhat similar bill died in the House last April.

The $1,500,000,000 in mortgage insurance provided by the new bill is the same amount voted by the Senate but is only one half what the administration asked.

The House bill provides $75,000,000 in loans and grants for government building of houses in defense areas where private builders are unable to construct them. The Senate voted $50,000,000 for this purpose.

McMahon Dares Russia To Allow Americans' Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) today dared the Kremlin to let a congressional delegation visit the Soviet Union "to tell the Russian people about the peaceful and friendly desires of the American people."

McMahon also suggested that in turn Congress invite the 14 members of the Soviet Politburo to this country "so they could breathe the clean air of democracy and decide for themselves whether the American people want war or peace."

In a Senate speech, McMahon proposed that Congress pass resolutions endorsing both trips but he did not indicate whether he plans to introduce such legislation.

Red Recruiter Says Noel Field, Duggan In Fold

Ex-State Dept. Aides Had Been "Cleared"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Hede Massing, a Viennese who said she worked in Washington as a Communist spy, told Senate investigators today that she enlisted two State Department aides in her organization in 1933 and 1934.

She identified the men as Noel Field and Lawrence Duggan. Field has disappeared behind the iron curtain, while Duggan plunged to his death from the 16th floor of a New York office building in 1948.

At the time Field consented to enter her "apparatus," Mrs. Massing testified, she believed he was employed in the State Department's Western European division. Duggan was connected with the department's Latin American division, she said.

Top-Level Communist

Mrs. Massing was called before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee, which is trying to ascertain whether subversive influences at home have affected United States policy in the Far East. Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) described the witness as an ex-Communist who "operated on the higher level and who was in the know."

After Duggan's death, the Justice Department said an FBI investigation showed he was a "loyal employe" of the government. Sen. Nixon (R-Calif), then a representative, reported the House Un-American Activities Committee also had given Duggan a clean bill of health.

Mrs. Massing testified that Duggan was much easier to "reach" than Field. She said she was able to suggest to Duggan "that he could be of help to us" after only a few meetings, but that it required about nine months to bring Field into the fold.

Pair Knew She Was Red

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) asked whether the two men had any doubt that she was a Communist.

"Oh, no," Mrs. Massing replied emphatically.

She added that it was clear to the pair that she was engaged in espionage and wanted to obtain information "relative to the Soviet Union." Not military information, she explained; that was not her job.

Mrs. Massing is the former wife of Gerhardt Eisler, once described by the Un-American Committee as the No. 1 Communist in the United States. Facing charges of passport fraud and contempt of Congress, Eisler fled the country in 1949 and turned up as propaganda chief of the Soviet-controlled East German government.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2 (AP) — Betty Hutton showed up on her studio lot today with a huge diamond ring on the proper finger and admitted to questioners that she and Flim Producer Norman Krasna plan to be married in four months.

Radio Attacks May Pave Way For Backdown

Claim U. N. Demands Line North Of Front

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators adjourned talks today on the tough issue of a Korean armistice buffer zone amid indications the Reds might be ready to compromise.

The delegates scheduled another meeting tomorrow at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Friday).

Today's session lasted more than two hours and was the longest in several days. This gave hope that some progress might have been made in eight days of deadlock over the issue.

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—A high United Nations source expressed belief today the Reds might be preparing to accept the Allied stand on a Korean cease-fire line despite their vocal insistence on the 38th parallel.

This view was based on Peiping and Pyongyang broadcasts which distorted the Allied attitude, making it appear the Allies were demanding a line much farther north than the present fighting front.

Thus, the U. N. sources theorized, the Communists would be able to accept the fighting front as the cease-fire line and still foster the impression they had wrung concessions from the Allies.

18th Meeting Begins

(The Peiping radio quoted the Kaesong correspondent of the Tientsin Progressive Daily as saying that U. S. senators, American radio announcers and the press were "howling" for establishment of the buffer zone between Pyongyang and Wonsan—roughly 65 to 90 miles north of 38.

(Actually the battle lines were far south of these points, and there was no official or unofficial word that a line ever had been proposed between Pyongyang and Wonsan.)

U. N. and Communist peace negotiators began their 18th meeting promptly at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Thursday). The Allied delegation flew to the Kaesong talks in helicopters, arriving there 20 minutes before the starting time set for the critical conference.

The very fact that the talks have not broken down, despite seven fruitless meetings, appeared significant to most observers at this headquarters. Both sides still seemed willing to keep trying for an armistice.

Nam "Rejects" U. N. Stand

The Communist radio at Peiping Thursday night announced that Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate at Kaesong, had "repudiated" the U. N. buffer "deep across the 38th parallel."

A later Peiping broadcast Friday morning quoted Nam as saying " . . . demands which attempt to push the military demarcation line deep into the positions of our side . . . are absolutely unacceptable."

The news in that announcement seemed to be the Communist choice of the word "deep." It would indicate the Communists might agree to a buffer zone that was not too "deep" inside North Korea.

Allies Advance Two Miles

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—Advances of more than two miles on the Central Korean front were recorded by attacking Allied troops Thursday against slight Red resistance.

Size of the Allied movement on the front south-southeast of Kimsong was not disclosed by an Eighth Army communique, but it referred to "patrols ranging forward of attacking forces."

Only platoon-sized Red elements were found, with contact light.

German Inter-Zone Trade Halts Today

BONN, Germany, Aug. 2 (AP)—All legal trade between West and East Germany will come to a standstill tomorrow because of a dispute over Russian restrictions on West Berlin's exports.

The interim agreement for trade between the West German federal republic and the Soviet-occupied east zone expires at midnight tonight.

A new inter-zonal trade agreement has been drawn up but both the Western Allies and the Bonn government have refused to allow it to be signed until the Russians lift their restrictions on the shipment of goods from West Berlin to West Germany.

Redhead Jailed For Posing As WAF, Hitching Air Rides

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 2 (AP)--An attractive redhead who has been riding military aircraft around the country was in jail today on charges of impersonating an officer.

Col. Ben Lichty, commander of Bergstrom Air Force Base here, said it was "very embarrassing" that pretty Medalo Frances Evans, 26, had been able to spend four days at the jet fighter training base as a WAF officer.

He also was embarrassed because she was able to get a temporary identification card without proving she was an officer. A Berbstrom information spokesman explained:

"She got the card from a corporal in the pass section. There are two factors to consider: She is an attractive woman, and she was posing as a lieutenant. There's lots of difference between the rank of corporal and the rank of lieutenant, and like I said, she is an attractive woman."

The 120-pound redhead called on Col. Lichty Monday to ask that he help obtain a waiver of college credit so that she could become a WAF officer — something she already was pretending to be.

The colonel was impressed until she mentioned casually that she had flown in Monday from Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, where her husband is stationed. Non-military personnel don't fly in military aircraft without official clearance. Tuesday night she was arrested by the FBI.

Girl, Found Sane, Released From Jail To Wed Ex-Priest

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 2 (AP) —Claire Young was pronounced sane tonight and freed from jail to marry Luciano Negrini, the Roman Catholic priest unfrocked and excommunicated as a result of their Chicago-born romance. Negrini met her at the jail.

The permit of the blonde, 21-year-old daughter of a Loyola University professor to remain in Italy was extended three months. It was due to expire Aug. 5.

Deputy Police Chief Gabriele Mundo announced these developments after summoning a psychiatrist, Dr. Mastrangelo of Milan's mental asylum, to check a report of the girl's mother, Mrs. James J. Young, that Claire was not rational.

Impulsiveness got Claire in a jam last Saturday.

She was jailed for slapping a police officer after she was informed that her residence permit would not be renewed, meaning her trip across the Atlantic had been in vain. Police arranged to deport her on the American liner Independence Aug. 6. She apologized yesterday for the slapping episode.

Negrini first said his priestly vows would never permit him to marry, but later said he would marry her. His excommunication followed.

A Vatican spokesman said Claire, a Catholic who met Negrini when he visited Chicago last year, also faces excommunication if she marries the 41-year-old former missionary.

Magazine Says Scientists Find Evidence For Existence Of God

NEW YORK — (AP) — Does a modern scientist, unravelling the secrets of the physical universe, find any evidence there for the existence of God?

A national magazine said "yes" to the question today.

The report was contained in an article in Colliers, based on a series of interviews with atomic physicists, astronomers, biologists, anthropologists and mathematicians. It was headed "What Scientists Believe." The reporter, Howard Whitman, quoted all but a few of those he interviewed as saying they believe in a supreme being.

Their reasons, the article said, are varied.

Some of them, after years of studying the patterns and laws of physical life, have arrived at the conclusion that a superior intelligence must have arranged these systems. Whitman quoted Dr. Jan Schilt, head of the astronomy department at Columiba University as saying:

"The hope and faith of astronomers is that eventually we will find that it is so because it couldn't be otherwise. The greatest shock would be to find that it all just happened by chance."

One researcher, Dr. J. B. Rhine, of Duke University, told the reporter that the spiritual quality of man could be proved, scientifically, in the laboratory.

Dr. Rhine, a psychologist, has devoted most of his life to a series of experiments in "extra-sensory perception." They have attempted to determine whether the human mind can reach out and obtain information beyond the limits of the five physicals — whether an "extra-physical" factor exists in human beings.

Colliers said Dr. Rhine replied: "The question of the human soul boils down to this: Is there anything spiritual in human personality? We have proved in our laboratory that there is. We now have experimental evidence that such an extra-physical factor exists in man."

For centuries, the questions of proof, evidence and demonstrability have constiuted an abyss lying between the scientist and the man of religion.

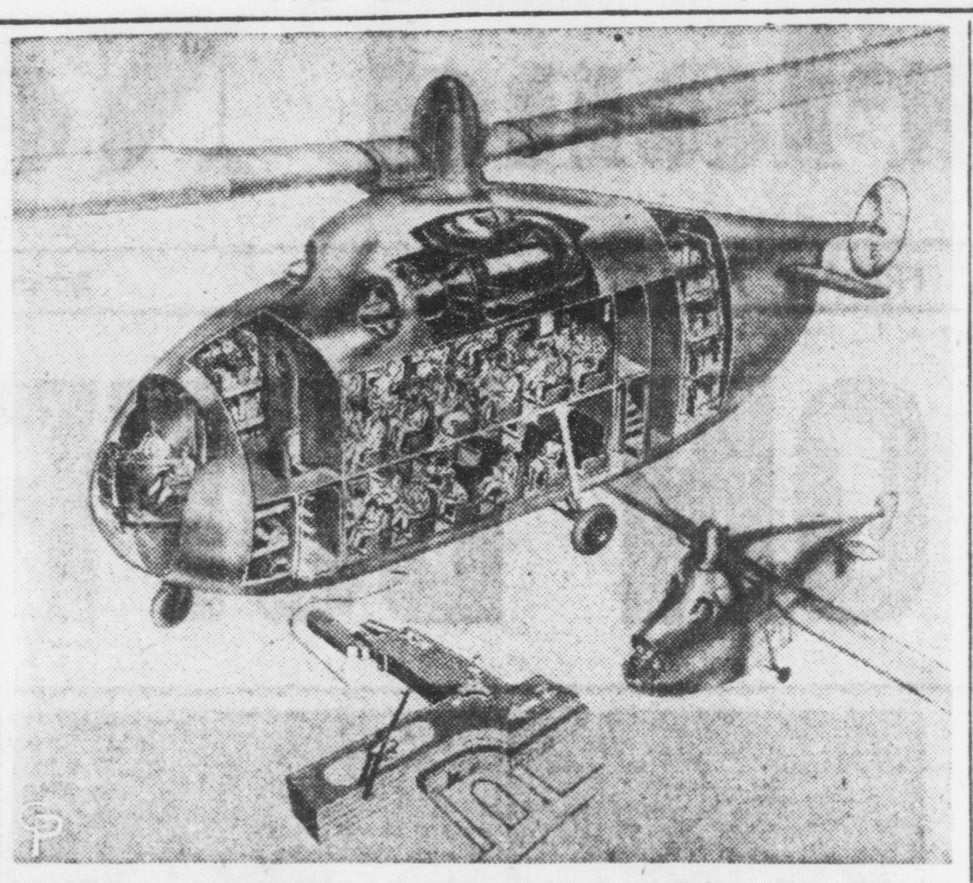
The scientist refused to accept anything on faith. If a phenomenon could be measured, set down in formula, and repeated invariably, he believed it. Without this evidence, he rejected it. Therefore, religious experience was considered non-scientific, and the existence of God — since it could not be scientifically demonstrated — was denied.

Some researchers still hold to that position, the article said. One told the writer that a god of love would not have permitted the existence of the materials from which the a-bomb is made.

Another said, however, "as I work at the atomic pile, I feel that God is there. I have faith that in the long run atomic energy will be beneficial."

Still another replied: "Where did mass and energy come from? We know we can't make it. We have found laws to prove we can't make it. There must be a higher power who can make it."

The magazine quoted Dr. Robert A. Millikan, widely-known California physicist, as saying "just how we fit into the plans of the Great Architect and how much He has assigned us to do, we do not know — but fit in we certainly do somehow, otherwise we would not have a sense of our own responsibility."



DESIGNED BY ENGINEERS of Hughes Aircraft at Culver City, Cal., the revolutionary, new Model 205 Twin-Jet helicopter would carry 70 or more passengers at speeds greater than 100 miles an hour. It would have a range of about 200 miles. The cutaway shows the long jet engines, eye-like air intakes and giant, jet-exhaust rotor blade amidship above the twin passenger decks. A special feature is a revolving baggage elevator aft. (International)

Sgt. Biehn said there are many new recruiters on duty in the area covered by the Martinsburg main station, and that his duties will be to coordinate their work. The area covered by Martinsburg is in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Sgt. Biehn is a veteran of almost 30 years of recruiting service.

"The hope and faith of astronomers is that eventually we will find that it is so because it couldn't be otherwise. The greatest shock would be to find that it all just happened by chance."

One researcher, Dr. J. B. Rhine, of Duke University, told the reporter that the spiritual quality of man could be proved, scientifically, in the laboratory.

Dr. Rhine, a psychologist, has devoted most of his life to a series of experiments in "extra-sensory perception." They have attempted to determine whether the human mind can reach out and obtain information beyond the limits of the five physicals — whether an "extra-physical" factor exists in human beings.

Colliers said Dr. Rhine replied: "The question of the human soul boils down to this: Is there anything spiritual in human personality? We have proved in our laboratory that there is. We now have experimental evidence that such an extra-physical factor exists in man."

For centuries, the questions of proof, evidence and demonstrability have constiuted an abyss lying between the scientist and the man of religion.

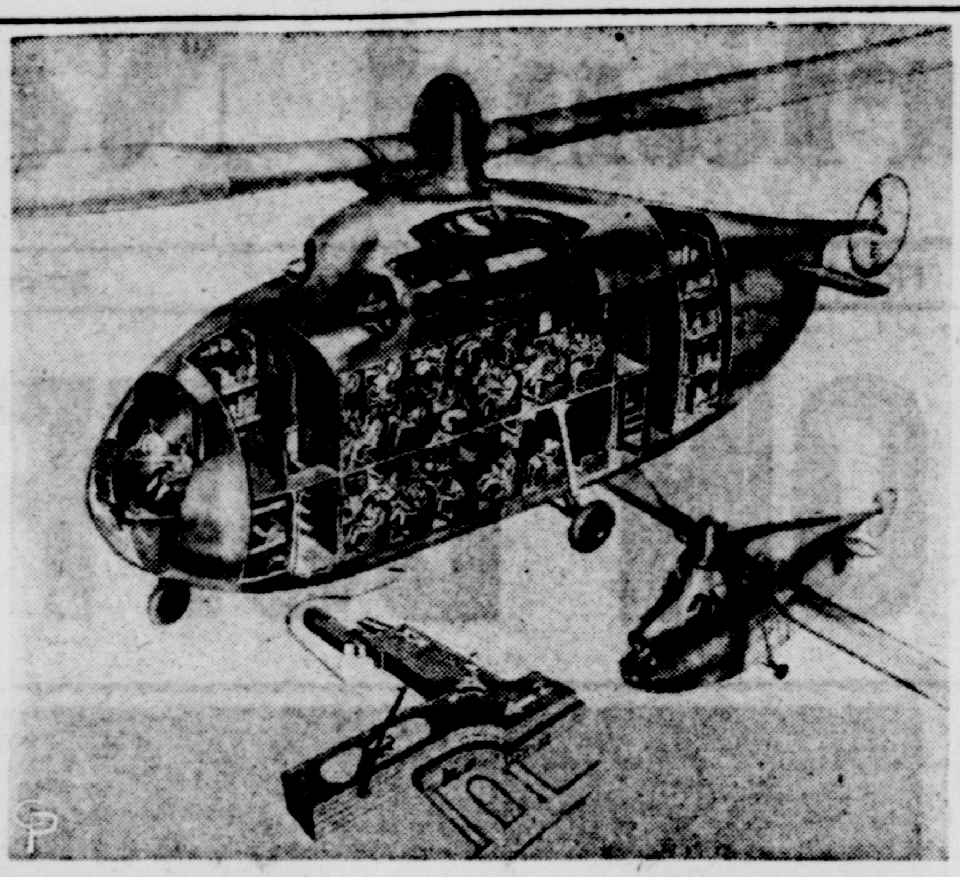
The scientist refused to accept anything on faith. If a phenomenon could be measured, set down in formula, and repeated invariably, he believed it. Without this evidence, he rejected it. Therefore, religious experience was considered non-scientific, and the existence of God — since it could not be scientifically demonstrated — was denied.

Some researchers still hold to that position, the article said. One told the writer that a god of love would not have permitted the existence of the materials from which the a-bomb is made.

Another said, however, "as I work at the atomic pile, I feel that God is there. I have faith that in the long run atomic energy will be beneficial."

Still another replied: "Where did mass and energy come from? We know we can't make it. We have found laws to prove we can't make it. There must be a higher power who can make it."

The magazine quoted Dr. Robert A. Millikan, widely-known California physicist, as saying "just how we fit into the plans of the Great Architect and how much He has assigned us to do, we do not know — but fit in we certainly do somehow, otherwise we would not have a sense of our own responsibility."



DESIGNED BY ENGINEERS of Hughes Aircraft at Culver City, Cal., the revolutionary, new Model 205 Twin-Jet helicopter would carry 70 or more passengers at speeds greater than 100 miles an hour. It would have a range of about 200 miles. The cutaway shows the long jet engines, eye-like air intakes and giant, jet-exhaust rotor blade amidship above the twin passenger decks. A special feature is a revolving baggage elevator aft. (International)

Sgt. Biehn To Aid Area Recruiters

Master Sgt. Clarence Biehn, recruiter in charge of the local Army and Air Force station at the Post Office, will spend two days each week traveling to recruiting stations under the jurisdiction of the Martinsburg, W. Va., main station.

Sgt. Biehn said there are many new recruiters on duty in the area covered by the Martinsburg main station, and that his duties will be to coordinate their work. The area covered by Martinsburg is in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Sgt. Biehn is a veteran of almost 30 years of recruiting service.

Polio War—1951

Hunt Pressed For Vaccine Or New Drug To Check Annual Epidemic

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK —(AP)— A penicillin for polio is one of this year's research hopes in the annual epidemic now threatening.

The new one won't be named penicillin, if discovered, but it will come from the same source, the good earth, and it will act on the same principles. Like penicillin, it will be an antibiotic.

This search centers at the New York Botanical Gardens with financial support of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Antibiotics are substances made by germs, molds and other invisibly small organisms that inhabit the soil. These creatures produce chemicals for their own private use, to get their food or defend their lives.

Theoretically, these microorganisms produce just about every chemical possible. It is virtually certain that somewhere there is a microfamily producing one that can kill the virus which causes polio. It may take a very long time, however, to find one that is also non-poisonous for human beings.

The botanical gardens are making the tedious search in thousands of samples of soil, gathered from all over the earth and flown to New York.

The foundation is investing four million dollars in research this year. One project is a synthetic chemical to kill polio virus. This will be something you can take in a spoon or pill. It will kill polio virus in your stomach. This aim is based on the medical belief that people get polio via food, drink or contamination entering their mouths.

A third chemical is sought to bolster the human serum that comes from the blood of polio patients. This serum has slight retarding effects on Polio. The chemical it is hoped, will add to the potency of the serum.

Another research is on gamma globulins, the fraction of your blood containing the antibodies by which your body fights all sorts of infections, including polio. This globulin comes from Red Cross blood donations. It is the same globulin that made the famous wartime measles remedy. Someone may find the key to making globulin work on polio.

The hope for a polio vaccine is still vague. By the end of this year the national foundation expects the first step will have been completed in the vaccine program. This is the census of the different kinds of polio viruses. Three are known. There may be others. Each one can cause the disease, but polio caused by one of them does not protect you from getting polio from a different virus. A vaccine will have to be made from all the polio viruses.

A vaccine already has been made for each of the three known polio viruses. Each one protects monkeys, but it may take years to find out whether vaccines will work for humans. Monkeys can be vaccinated and then given a dose of polio that will kill them if the vaccine fails. No one will take such a chance on human beings. In human outbreaks, the cases are too scattered for either speedy or accurate vaccine tests.

Another vaccine research seeks better ways of inactivating the viruses whose bodies must be used to make a vaccine. Inactivate means either to kill or to render harmless. The trouble is that inactivators destroy some of the immunity sought in the vaccine. The old ways of inactivating are formaldehyde and ultra-violet light. One new way is nitrogen mustard, the poison gas made for the last war. Another is super-sounds, the waves too high-pitched for human ears. These waves kill germs. They probably will kill viruses, and maybe not destroy so much of the vaccine powers.

AT THE ANNUAL FRECKLES CONTEST in New York, Mrs. Eileen Hoffman counts the "sun spots" per square inch on the face of Freckle King, Martin O'Connell, 13, as the Queen, Irene McLaughry, 8, looks on. The event was sponsored by the Children's Aid Society. (International)

675 Marylanders Face Induction In October

The State Selective Service office reported yesterday 675 Maryland men will be drafted in October.

A spokesman said the nation's draft call for that month is 41,000. Approximately 5,000 will be sent to the Marine Corps and the others will head for the Army.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, director, said Maryland's draft quota for August is 688. Local boards will send 18 selectees to Martinsburg, W. Va., for induction.

Improved methods helped North Carolina farmers produce 81,995,000 bushels of corn in 1950 on the same acreage that grew 77,525,000 bushels in 1949.

Offshore Lands And Education

The big fight to tie federal aid to education to federal title to offshore lands will come in the Senate, according to Rep. Mansfield (D., Mont.). Mansfield had attempted by amendment in the House on July 30 to have moneys paid for mineral leases on the continental shelf turned over to the Treasury for "urgent developments" essential to national defense in the present period of emergency and thereafter for aid to education.

The Mansfield proposal was thrown out on a point of order. The House then went on to pass a bill which would give to the states undisputed title to submerged lands lying between low-water mark and a line three miles off shore. The federal government would keep control of land on the continental shelf beyond the three-mile limit, but any individual state would get 37½ per cent of moneys received for leases on such land lying off its seaward boundary.

The House vote was 265 to 109, more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a presidential veto. President Truman in 1946 vetoed a measure to give the states control over off-shore lands. The House sustained the veto, failing to override by 17 votes. Proceeds from the lease of offshore lands under the Mansfield proposal eventually would have gone to the states as "grants-in-aid" to primary, secondary, and higher education. In the Senate Senator Hill (D., Ala.) has offered a similar amendment to the offshore lands bill.

The language of the Mansfield amendment may have been intentionally vague. Thus would have been avoided the controversy over money for parochial schools which twice has bogged down Senate-passed aid to education bills in the House.

The Senate voted for federal aid, 59 to 22, in 1948, and 58 to 15, in 1949. Its measures were blocked in the House Committee on Education and Labor as the result of irreconcilable differences over aid to parochial schools. Rep. Barden (D., N. C.), a bitter foe of aid to any except public schools, is chairman of that committee.

Barden in 1949 offered a substitute for the Senate aid-to-education bill which would have specifically forbidden use of federal funds to provide transportation or health services for either public or parochial schools. Cardinal Spellman characterized the substitute as discriminatory against parochial schools and said its advocates were "conducting a craven crusade of religious prejudice."

Chiefly to benefit under the offshore lands bill as passed by the House would be Texas, California, and Louisiana, where submerged oil deposits are known to exist. Texas is particularly favored, for the bill would extend to that state rights to land 10½ miles (three leagues) offshore. The special provision for Texas recognizes the language of the treaty by which Texas was admitted to the Union.

The Supreme Court on June 5, 1950, ruled that the federal government had "paramount rights to and full dominion and power over" lands under marginal seas. The Court did not, however, determine whether actual title to those lands rests with the states or the federal government. Rep. Celler (D., N. Y.), an opponent of the pending bill, has declared that, "The President has no choice but to veto it."

Probably Inevitable

Human nature being what it is, racketeering could have been expected to develop in the veterans education program. It did. According to the report of the Government Accounting Office, federal overpayments of at least $20,000,000 were made during the past five years to schools and colleges participating in the program.

While the GAO is charitable enough to say that some of the excess payments were the result of accounting errors, it cites enough sharp practices to indicate that there was a widespread effort by individuals and institutions to feather nests at the government's expense. Some colleges, on joining the program, raised tuition fees as much as 300 per cent. Others were guilty of gross overcharges for books and equipment. Still others made the government pay for such items as "entertainment and banquets" and "flowers for funerals."

Perhaps the worst feature of the program was the overnight creation of schools which had no other purpose than to "cash in" on a market that was swollen by the demand of some 7,000,000 veterans for education of one sort or another. Many of these schools were started by men without educational background.

They lacked ordinary facilities and equipment. They taught courses which plainly were of no practical value to anybody. In innumerable cases it was clear that both schools and students were around just for a free ride.

It is unfortunate that an enterprise which was designed to help veterans get a start in life—and which of course did help millions of them—should have been tainted with so much scandal. But that was probably envitable.

A Patron Of The Arts

The world of art lost one of its leading patrons and one of its stormiest figures in the automobile accident which killed 78-year-old Dr. Albert Coombs Barnes. He was irascible and unpredictable. He was acid and arrogant with those with whom he disagreed. He barred all but a selected few from the magnificent collections of art house in the private museum on his estate at Merion, Pa.

But as a connoisseur of paintings he had few peers. He was a generous patron of modern artists, and he has left behind him one of the world's finest collections of modern masterpieces.

His first claim to fame was as the discoverer of an antiseptic, argyrol. If this was a long way from the field of art, his discovery furnished him with the millions with which he indulged his taste for paintings.

He spent perhaps $5,000,000 in amassing a collection which includes the staggering total of 200 Renoirs, 100 Cezannes, 75 Matisses, 35 Picassos, and hundreds of other treasures of all periods beginning with the Sixth Century before Christ. It is a tribute to his discernment that this collection is valued at somewhere between $20,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Many people found it difficult to understand why Dr. Barnes refused to let anyone see his fabulous collection except a few intimate friends just as they found it difficult to understand his innumerable feuds. But, whatever the reason, the public is the gainer now. The works of art which Dr. Barnes devoted much of his life ad fortune to amassing are now to be opened to public view.

Future generations will owe Dr. Barnes a debt of gratitude.

How To Keep Well

DDT And Other Insecticides

DDT still is one of our most popular insecticides. The housewife finds it just as effective for her purpose as does the farmer and fruit grower. The public health aspects of DDT are well known. The compound has contributed toward the downfall of malaria laden mosquitoes in a large part of the world. A recent report from Mexico stated that annual spraying of houses with the product during the past four or five years has reduced the incidence of malaria by 75 to 95 per cent in certain communities.

Mixtures of DDT and other substances are proving excellent remedies in other ways. When the insecticide is combined with benzyl benzoate, it makes a good scabies treatment. DDT larvicides, dusts, and sprays also have been used against disease carrying ticks, fleas, and lice. The same can be said of the filth and nuisance insects such as flies, roaches, bedbugs, and beetles. DDT controls many plant pests including the species that attack vegetables, fruit, shade, and forest trees as well as field and grain crops. Most food growers are acquainted with the dangers associated with its use along this line; but the consumer never should take chances. Fresh fruit and vegetables must be washed thoroughly before they are eaten.

DDT is insoluble in water but mixes moderately well in mineral and vegetable oils and is readily soluble in organic solvents such as kerosene. It comes in many forms and the concentrations employed vary from 1 to 75 per cent. Some manufacturers sell DDT in oil solutions or petroleum; others prepare emulsion concentrates that are diluted with water before using. Powders are available so that DDT can be applied as a dust or added to a wetting agent mixed with water and utilized later as a spray. Aerosol bombs also are popular; these are oil solutions that are dispersed as mist or smoke. DDT also has been incorporated into paints, polishes, and waxes.

During World War II the Germans developed another type of insecticide while they were searching for nerve gasses to be used in chemical warfare. These organic phosphate compounds include parathion, TEPP, and HEPT, which are used chiefly in controlling aphids, mites, and other fruit and vegetable pests rather than in combating insects that attack man and animals. They are so potent they must be employed only by experts; otherwise fatalities will occur. Up to a year ago, more than 198 deaths had been reported, all traceable to improper use.

Absorption takes place through the skin, eyes, and the gastrointestinal tract. Of the three, parathion is the most dangerous. Symptoms of poisoning include giddiness, headache, nausea, vomiting, excess salivation, tearing of the eyes, confusion, and weakness. In severe cases convulsions, marked constriction of the bronchi, and heart failure may occur. Users of these products must take every precaution by wearing protective clothing and a face mask while spraying, followed by thorough washing of the hands and face after finishing the job. Now that we are aware of the hazards of the products, the incidence of fatalities will decrease.

SETS OF TEETH

Mrs. V. writes. How many teeth can the average person expect to get in a lifetime?

REPLY

Twenty at first and later, 32. The store variety usually contains 28. The first and second sets come free, but the third does not unless you go to England.

POISON IVY

C. P. writes: Is it safe to handle poison ivy with rubber gloves?

REPLY

It may be, if the person is only mildly susceptible to the plant. The gloves should be washed well with soap and water before removing them. Otherwise touching them with the bare skin may result in a skin eruption. Moreover, the poisonous substance may remain on gloves, shoes, and other pieces of wearing apparel for a long time unless they are washed or cleaned before putting them away.

KNUCKLE CRACKER

B. T. writes: How can I get over the habit of cracking my finger joints? This annoys me as well as everyone else about me.

REPLY

Concentrate on something more in keeping with your age — not thumbsucking, nail biting, or hair pulling.

CHILD TIPTOES

Mrs. L. writes: A 14 month old boy walks and runs on tiptoes. He falls and stumbles frequently. Will this be outgrown?

REPLY

Yes as a rule, but the child should be examined for the existence of abnormalities to account for these manifestations.

Truman Bends An Ear To 1952; Assistant Army Secretary Fishes By Helicopter; Grand Mufti Paid To Assassinate Arabs Friendly To West

WASHINGTON—President Truman has sent a confidential memo to all Cabinet officers orderng them to clear their out-of-town appearances with Democratic National Chairman Bill Boyle. Some folks consider this a tip that HST plans to run again, since this is the first time he has sent formal political instructions to his Cabinet. Anyway here is the confidential letter:

"Mr. Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, made a suggestion to me which I think is worthwhile. He would like very much to be notified when Cabinet offcers, secretares and undersecretaries go into any community outside of Washington for the purpose of making a speech, so he can arrange a proper reception for them when they get into town.

"He thinks that would not only help their prestige in the community, but would give our local leaders a chance to be in the limelight to some extent, and that is a very necessary procedure in a political organization.

"I'll appreciate it very much if this procedure can be followed," the President concluded in what amounts to a polite, but positive order.

Free Fishing Trip

If it's hot in Washington and you are high enough up in the Pentagon, it's fairly easy to go fishing in cool, far-off Newfoundland. Or at least Assistant Secretary of the Army Earl D. Johnson found this to be so the other day.

Mr. Johnson has the excuse that his mobilization assignment is with MATS, the air transport agency of the armed services, so he slips away for flights with MATS from time to time. Accordingly last July 10 found him on a hospital plane from Westover, Mass., flying to the air base at Stephensville, Newfoundland.

The hospital plane is equipped with stretchers for flying wounded out of Korea, and just what it was doing on the run to Europe is not known.

Arriving at Stephensville, Assistant Secretary Johnson was entertained by the commanding officer, Col. Clayton Hughes. Another colonel, Andrew Cannon, a MATS transport group commander, whose headquarters is Kelly Air Base, Texas, also had some time to kill in the cool of Newfoundland, so the three cooked up a fishing trip.

An air force helicopter, normally used for air rescue operations, was on hand, and Col. Hughes arranged to give Assistant Secretary Johnson a demonstration. The rescue demonstration featured a flight to a salmon stream where they attempted to rescue some salmon.

Assistant Secretary Johnson, when queried about the incident, explained that he also made a helicopter inspection of the air force's installations, but admitted he spent most of the time fishing—about six hours.

"However," he added a little ruefully, "I didn't catch any fish."

Congressional Grandparents

Three-month-old Kristie Lynn Cavalcante of Uniontown, Pa., whose two grandfathers served in the House of Representatives at the same time, will add a grandmother to the congressional list when Congresswoman-elect Vera Buchanan of Pennsylvania is sworn in this week.

Kristie Lynn is the granddaughter of Mrs. Buchanan and the late Rep. Frank Buchanan of Pennsylvana. After her husband's death this year, Mrs. Buchanan was elected to his seat in a special election.

Kristie Lynn also is the granddaughter of former Rep. Tony Cavalcante of Pennsylvania, who was a colleague of Buchanan for one term in the House. Some day her dad, William Cavalcante, a Uniontown law student, hopes to succeed his father in Congress.

If this happens Kristie Lynn really will have something to brag about—three grandparents and one father in Congress.

Communism In Arab World

Though it was known that an agent of the ex-Grand Mufti of Jerusalem assassinated King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, it is not generally known that the Grand Mufti, having been Hitler's paid agent in the Near East, has now taken over the same job for Moscow.

The Mufti has turned up at various Pan-Islamic meetings throughout the Middle East as the tool of Moscow and stager of revolt against the West. And to show that Moscow is the great friend of the Arab world, the Mufti has been given the job of establishing an Arab university in Communist Warsaw.

Furthermore it is now beginning to look as if the Grand Mufti and his agents were behind the agitation against the British in Egypt, the assassination of the late pro-British premier of Iran and the murder of other leaders friendly to the West.

One significant aspect of the Mufti's operations is the way the Nazis and the Communists not only are using the same tactics, but bet their money on the same man. During the war, Hitler and Mussolini paid the Mufti nearly half a million dollars. And on April 5, 1945, just one month before the war ended, the Nazis signed a contract with him to continue stirring up trouble in the Near East.

Though Hitler killed himself soon afterward, the Mufti is certainly carrying out his part of the bargain.

Cigarets For Germans

Careful scrutiny of the law governing Marshall Plan aid shows that it's full of sleepers, designed to aid private interests in this country as much as the needy people of Europe.

For example, the law provides ECA dollars to buy tobacco for Germany, but stipulates that the tobacco must be purchased in the United States. This is a $45,000,000 windfall for U. S. tobacco interests at the U. S. taxpayers' expense. For the taxpayers are already subsidizing over $30,000,000 of Greek tobacco which is rotting in Greek warehouses.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Whether or not President Truman wants to run for another term, the Democratic party leaders will want to consider whether he would be the strongest candidate they could name this time. It is no secret that the Republicans would like to see Mr. Truman a candidate again because they think he would be a weak contender.

The question as to what the President's real strength was in 1948 from a party viewpoint plays a part in such discussions. This week "U. S. News & World Report" published a statistical analysis which shows that Mr. Truman ran far behind the Democratic ticket in enough states last time as to indicate that the Democratic party was much stronger than the presidential nominee.

Thus, in 18 states which accounted for 200 of Mr. Truman's 304 electoral votes, the President failed to lead the ticket. Congressional candidates ran way ahead of him in those states. In Illinois, for example, Senator Douglas, Democrat, carried the state by 408,000, while Mr. Truman carried it by only 34,000. Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives had a majority of 178,000 in Illinois. Adlai Stevenson carried the state for governor on the Democratic ticket by 572,000.

Narrow Margin In Ohio

The same thing happened in Ohio, where Mr. Truman squeezed through with only 7,107, while the Democratic governor won by 221,000 and the Democratic congressional candidates had an average of 132,000 more votes than the Republican candidates.

In 30 states with 388 electoral votes, Mr. Truman lagged behind the congressional candidates of his party. In 18 states with only 143 electoral votes, including the ten whose 101 electoral votes he did carry, Mr. Truman outran the local candidates.

So, in summary, Mr. Truman may possibly not have carried enough states with sufficient electoral votes to make the requisite 267 except for the fact that he had behind him the strong candidates on the local tickets. Often the straight-ticket voters, who are anxious to assure the election of their local candidates for state offices or for Congress, will mark the entire ballot all one way just to make sure. The 1948 ballotting, however, does show how many voters split their ticket in order to vote for the state and congressional nominees of the Democratic party but against Mr. Truman.

The obvious conclusion is that Mr. Truman was not stronger but much weaker than his party in 1948 throughout the country. If it be thought that this was due to the disaffections in the South it will be noted that the President ran behind his ticket in all the Northern states and Western with the exception of California, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Massachuetts.

The Northern states whose electoral votes he lost in 1948 were Maine, Vermont, New Hampshore, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oregon. But he ran behind his ticket also in the following Northern states: Rhode Isalnd, Ohio, Illinois, West Virginia, Missouri, Colorado, Utah, Montana, Arizona, and New Mexico.

Which Is Stronger

The issue is really whether Mr. Truman is stronger today than he was in 1948 or whether the Democratic party will be so much stronger in 1952, that if the President is renominated, he can count on his party to pull him through.

The public opinion polls show that the President is not as popular as he was in 1948 but, if his party is much stronger, presumably he could be elected. This, however, is offset by the fact that many people, in their desire to vote against the top of the ticket, will vote the straight ticket of the opposing party and this is something that worries the candidates who will be running on the congressional or state tickets.

The decision as to whether to try to run Mr. Truman again will be made by handpicked delegates to the Democratic National Convention and any president can be renominated if he wants to bring it about. The recent comment, however, by Jacob Arvey, the Illinois Democratic leader, which was lukewarm about a Truman renomination indicates that the local leadership is far more concerned about Mr. Truman running again than is apparent on the surface. Hence, the frenquent statements by Mr. Truman's appointees that they want him to run again are not to be taken as necessarily reflecting Democratic party sentiment.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Frederick V. Field

Frederick Vanderbilt Field has come into the news as a millionaire Don Quixote, duelling the windmills of the law, in grim, determined hopelessness. His thin, youthful figure gives him the air more of a Hamlet than a Don Quixote. He rejected the disciplines of his family, his country, his God, but goes to jail for accepting the discipline of Joe Stalin.

It all seemed so unnecessary and so fruitless. Freddie used to be a gentle and lovable person, charming to a fault, gay and big-hearted. That tight mouth and fist clenched about his pipe, that fighting to be silent when his very nature should force him to speak out loud, shows what the disciplines of communism can do to a man, once he submits to its rigidities.

When I first met Freddie Field, he was not a Communist. He was a mild but very confused Norman Thomas Socialist who had come to the Far East on his honeymoon and was full of ideas on how to save the world.

In the 29th Century, he would probably have become a clergyman, perhaps a missionary. In the period of Theodore Roosevelt, he might have fought the trusts or gone in for conservation. In the era of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he became a Communist, but with a bitterness, a vindictiveness hardly understandable to those who believe that boys and girls of good families could not possibly become Stalin's stooges. It is too often boys and girls of good families who make bad headlines.

Freddie's background was not unusual for a Vanderbilt. He lived in a marble palace on Fifth Avenue and in the mignficent estate, "Highlawn" in Lee, Massachusetts, near Lenox and Stockbridge.

Freddie went to Hotchkiss where he encountered the mild reformism that went in those days as socialism. After that came Harvard where he made the best clubs and the "Crimson."

Frederick Vanderbilt Field's mother was a gentle woman who managed the complicated affairs of such a household with competence and efficiency. I lived for some months of the year in the Berkshires and can say that the townspeople still remember Mrs. Field favorably.

The same cannot be said about the father. He was a curiously gross person, reactionary, selfish, overpowering. We once argued about revolutions and the Communists and the forces at work in the world. I reached the conclusion that had he lived in Germany, he would have been a Nazi.

There can be no question but that the really dominant factor in Freddie's conversion to Marxism was a revolt against his father, who did nothing but live on inherited wealth. This revolt turned to distress as his father's life became increasingly messy.

His great friendship with Joseph Barnes, at college and at the Institute of Pacific Relations, ended when his first wife left him and married Barnes. To an outsider, Freddie and his first wife seemed to be perfectly mated and very attached to each other. Often the man with his fist against his own life turns to some rigid discipline as a rationalization for the causes of his bitterness.

The tragedy in Field's life is that he rebelled against the disciplines of a society he knew and understood and yet accepted the rigid disciplines fo international communism, on account of which he is now in jail and likely to be for some time. It is this Communist discipline which forces him to lie by silence.

It is difficult to understand what pressures, intellectual or otherwise, the Communists can force upon such a person that will drive him to the extremities which Field is obviously pursuing. What urgencies are employed? What power do they exercise over him? What fears, what hopes do they engender?

I do not know.

I was discussing this situation the other day with a man who was Field's friend at Harvard. They were both on the "Crimson" and both belonged to the same clubs. They had been quite close. This man, no more than I, could visualize the Freddie Field we knew, all mixed up in the silliness of refusing to answer because Communist discipline required him not to answer.

Yet, we know that Larry Duggan went to his death, by suicide or was pushed out of a window, because of the same discipline. And we know of Whittaker Chambers's fears and of Alger Hiss's curious conduct.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Stalin And Mao II

WASHINGTON

Chinese Communist dictator Mao Tse-tung has clearly warned his opposite number in the Kremlin that he considers all of Asia an exclusive province for the expansion of Chinese power. This is the only reasonable interpretation of the real meaning of seven articles, written by high Chinese Communist officials and published within the last month in China.

These seven articles make up 45 closely-typed pages of turgid Communist prose. The best way to extract their inner meaning is to ask the reader to perform a difficult act of the imagination.

Imagine, then, that Klement Gottwald, Communist President of satellite Czechoslovakia, suddenly announces "The Gottwald theory of revolution," hailing his "theory" as the greatest contribution to Marxist doctrine since Lenin's death. Assume further that "the Gottwald theory of revolution" must guide all future revolutionary activity in Western Europe, according to Gottwald, because the economic and social structure of Czechoslovakia is much more like Western Europe's than is Russia's.

This is sheer fantasy, of course. "The Gottwald theory of revolution" would never see the light of day, nor, for very long, would Gottwald. Yet this is precisely, and without the slightest exaggeration, what Mao Tse-tung has now done, through the medium of the seven articles by his chief subordinates. Although Stalin's name is not even mentioned in four of these articles, in the three others there are formal bows in his direction. But on the essential points, Mao makes himself entirely clear.

Classic Type Revolutions

"Mao Tse-tung's theory of the Chinese revolution," an "enrichment of Marxism-Leninism," must be the basis for solving the "problems of revolution in the colonial and semi-colonial countries." These countries are "Viet-Nam (Indo-China), Burma, Indonesia, Malaya, and the Philippines," with "India, Japan, and other countries," in a second, less urgent category. The new dogma is stated explicitly:

"The classic type of revolution in imperialist countries was the October revolution (in Russia). The classic type of revolution in colonial and semi-colonial countries is the Chinese revolution."

Stalin will most certainly understand what is meant by this. Mao is in effect saying to Stalin: "Europe is yours. But Asia is mine. Keep out."

It is reasonable to assume that this none too subtle declaration of ideological independence and expansionist intention has shaken the Kremlin like nothing else since the defection of Tito. But does this mean that Mao Tse-tung is to become another Tito?

The whole tone of the seven articles indicates very clearly that Mao Tse-tung will welcome a really equal alliance with the Soviet Union, provided the sphere of expansion of each partner is clearly marked out. For a time at least the Kremlin may accept this, as the best of a bad bargain. But in the Kremlin's view, it can only be a very bad bargain.

Kremlin Has Lever

The Kremlin's propaganda has never for a moment acknowledged Mao Tse-tung's ambitious claims. Mao is regularly pictured as a humble and grateful disciple of the great Stalin. Moreover, according to the best intelligence, the Russians are making a determined effort to infiltrate and control the Chinese Communist apparatus. Finally, the Kremlin has a very powerful lever to use on Mao; the Chinese Communists cannot possibly carry on the Korean War, for example, without the weapons and supplies which can come only from Russia. It is interesting that the seven articles were published soon after the Malik peace bid, which suggests that the Kremlin may have been using precisely this lever.

At any rate, there is now no doubt that the seeds of conflict between the two great Communist powers have been sown. Yet if the conflict does break into open flame, nothing would be more foolish than to expect in China a precise repetition of Titoism. For one conclusion is implicit in all the available evidence. Mao Tse-tung's China is more violently expansionist than Stalin's Russia.

The Soviet leaders have had 30 years to digest their revolution. The Chinese Communists are intoxicated with the new wine of power. "Mao Tse-tung's theory of the Chinese revolution" calls for "armed struggle"—which means violent revolution. The armed struggle in "the colonial and semi-colonial countries" is to be promoted and supported now, not at some time in the distant future. And an open break with the Kremlin, if it comes, is just as likely to increase as to diminish this appetite for power throughout Asia.

Moreover, the Chinese Communist ambition to expand is altogether likely violently to stimulate the Soviet impulse to expand. If a competition for world Communist leadership develops, Stalin must literally at all costs outdo Mao Tse-tung, in order to contain and control his heretical rival. Thus Mao Tse-tung's challenge to the Kremlin gives the West no grounds whatsoever for complacency. But at least it is worth noting that Mao Tse-tung is no bought-and-paid-for satellite stooge, and that he is not likely to become one without a most determined struggle. For this is one of the central facts of our time.

Offshore Lands And Education

The big fight to tie federal aid to education to federal title to offshore lands will come in the Senate, according to Rep. Mansfield (D., Mont.). Mansfield had attempted by amendment in the House on July 30 to have moneys paid for mineral leases on the continental shelf turned over to the Treasury for "urgent developments" essential to national defense in the present period of emergency and thereafter for aid to education.

The Mansfield proposal was thrown out on a point of order. The House then went on to pass a bill which would give to the states undisputed title to submerged lands lying between low-water mark and a line three miles off shore. The federal government would keep control of land on the continental shelf beyond the three-mile limit, but any individual state would get 37½ per cent of moneys received for leases on such land lying off its seaward boundary.

The House vote was 265 to 109, more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a presidential veto. President Truman in 1946 vetoed a measure to give the states control over off-shore lands. The House sustained the veto, failing to override by 17 votes. Proceeds from the lease of offshore lands under the Mansfield proposal eventually would have gone to the states as "grants-in-aid" to primary, secondary, and higher education. In the Senate Senator Hill (D., Ala.) has offered a similar amendment to the offshore lands bill.

The language of the Mansfield amendment may have been intentionally vague. Thus would have been avoided the controversy over money for parochial schools which twice has bogged down Senate-passed aid to education bills in the House.

The Senate voted for federal aid, 59 to 22, in 1948, and 58 to 15, in 1949. Its measures were blocked in the House Committee on Education and Labor as the result of irreconcilable differences over aid to parochial schools. Rep. Barden (D., N. C.), a bitter foe of aid to any except public schools, is chairman of that committee.

Barden in 1949 offered a substitute for the Senate aid-to-education bill which would have specifically forbidden use of federal funds to provide transportation or health services for either public or parochial schools. Cardinal Spellman characterized the substitute as discriminatory against parochial schools and said its advocates were "conducting a craven crusade of religious prejudice."

Chiefly to benefit under the offshore lands bill as passed by the House would be Texas, California, and Louisiana, where submerged oil deposits are known to exist. Texas is particularly favored, for the bill would extend to that state rights to land 10½ miles (three leagues) offshore. The special provision for Texas recognizes the language of the treaty by which Texas was admitted to the Union.

The Supreme Court on June 5, 1950, ruled that the federal government had "paramount rights to and full dominion and power over" lands under marginal seas. The Court did not, however, determine whether actual title to those lands rests with the states or the federal government. Rep. Celler (D., N. Y.), an opponent of the pending bill, has declared that, "The President has no choice but to veto it."

Probably Inevitable

Human nature being what it is, racketeering could have been expected to develop in the veterans education program. It did. According to the report of the Government Accounting Office, federal overpayments of at least $20,000,000 were made during the past five years to schools and colleges participating in the program.

While the GAO is charitable enough to say that some of the excess payments were the result of accounting errors, it cites enough sharp practices to indicate that there was a widespread effort by individuals and institutions to feather nests at the government's expense. Some colleges, on joining the program, raised tuition fees as much as 300 per cent. Others were guilty of gross overcharges for books and equipment. Still others made the government pay for such items as "entertainment and banquets" and "flowers for funerals."

It is unfortunate that an enterprise which was designed to help veterans get a start in life—and which of course did help millions of them—should have been tainted with so much scandal. But that was probably envitable.

DDT And Other Insecticides

DDT still is one of our most popular insecticides. The housewife finds it just as effective for her purpose as does the farmer and fruit grower. The public health aspects of DDT are well known. The compound has contributed toward the downfall of malaria laden mosquitoes in a large part of the world. A recent report from Mexico stated that annual spraying of houses with the product during the past four or five years has reduced the incidence of malaria by 75 to 95 per cent in certain communities.

Mixtures of DDT and other substances are proving excellent remedies in other ways. When the insecticide is combined with benzyl benzoate, it makes a good scabies treatment. DDT larvicides, dusts, and sprays also have been used against disease carrying ticks, fleas, and lice. The same can be said of the filth and nuisance insects such as flies, roaches, bedbugs, and beetles. DDT controls many plant pests including the species that attack vegetables, fruit, shade, and forest trees as well as field and grain crops. Most food growers are acquainted with the dangers associated with its use along this line; but the consumer never should take chances. Fresh fruit and vegetables must be washed thoroughly before they are eaten.

DDT is insoluble in water but mixes moderately well in mineral and vegetable oils and is readily soluble in organic solvents such as kerosene. It comes in many forms and the concentrations employed vary from 1 to 75 per cent. Some manufacturers sell DDT in oil solutions or petroleum; others prepare emulsion concentrates that are diluted with water before using. Powders are available so that DDT can be applied as a dust or added to a wetting agent mixed with water and utilized later as a spray. Aerosol bombs also are popular; these are oil solutions that are dispersed as mist or smoke. DDT also has been incorporated into paints, polishes, and waxes.

During World War II the Germans developed another type of insecticide while they were searching for nerve gasses to be used in chemical warfare. These organic phosphate compounds include parathion, TEPP, and HEPT, which are used chiefly in controlling aphids, mites, and other fruit and vegetable pests rather than in combating insects that attack man and animals. They are so potent they must be employed only by experts; otherwise fatalities will occur. Up to a year ago, more than 198 deaths had been reported, all traceable to improper use.

Absorption takes place through the skin, eyes, and the gastrointestinal tract. Of the three, parathion is the most dangerous. Symptoms of poisoning include giddiness, headache, nausea, vomiting, excess salivation, tearing of the eyes, confusion, and weakness. In severe cases convulsions, marked constriction of the bronchi, and heart failure may occur. Users of these products must take every precaution by wearing protective clothing and a face mask while spraying, followed by thorough washing of the hands and face after finishing the job. Now that we are aware of the hazards of the products, the incidence of fatalities will decrease.

SETS OF TEETH

Mrs. V. writes. How many teeth can the average person expect to get in a lifetime?

REPLY

Twenty at first and later, 32. The store variety usually contains 28. The first and second sets come free, but the third does not unless you go to England.

POISON IVY

C. P. writes: Is it safe to handle poison ivy with rubber gloves?

REPLY

It may be, if the person is only mildly susceptible to the plant. The gloves should be washed well with soap and water before removing them. Otherwise touching them with the bare skin may result in a skin eruption. Moreover, the poisonous substance may remain on gloves, shoes, and other pieces of wearing apparel for a long time unless they are washed or cleaned before putting them away.

KNUCKLE CRACKER

B. T. writes: How can I get over the habit of cracking my finger joints? This annoys me as well as everyone else about me.

REPLY

CHILD TIPTOES

Mrs. L. writes: A 14 month old boy walks and runs on tiptoes. He falls and stumbles frequently. Will this be outgrown?

REPLY

Yes as a rule, but the child should be examined for the existence of abnormalities to account for these manifestations.

Truman Bends An Ear To 1952; Assistant Army Secretary Fishes By Helicopter; Grand Mufti Paid To Assassinate Arabs Friendly To West

WASHINGTON—President Truman has sent a confidential memo to all Cabinet officers orderng them to clear their out-of-town appearances with Democratic National Chairman Bill Boyle. Some folks consider this a tip that HST plans to run again, since this is the first time he has sent formal political instructions to his Cabinet. Anyway here is the confidential letter:

"Mr. Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, made a suggestion to me which I think is worthwhile. He would like very much to be notified when Cabinet offcers, secretares and under-secretaries go into any community outside of Washington for the purpose of making a speech, so he can arrange a proper reception for them when they get into town.

"He thinks that would not only help their prestige in the community, but would give our local leaders a chance to be in the limelight to some extent, and that is a very necessary procedure in a political organization.

"I'll appreciate it very much if this procedure can be followed," the President concluded in what amounts to a polite, but positive order.

Free Fishing Trip

If it's hot in Washington and you are high enough up in the Pentagon, it's fairly easy to go fishing in cool, far-off Newfoundland. Or at least Assistant Secretary of the Army Earl D. Johnson found this to be so the other day.

Mr. Johnson has the excuse that his mobilization assignment is with MATS, the air transport agency of the armed services, so he slips away for flights with MATS from time to time. Accordingly last July 10 found him on a hospital plane from Westover, Mass., flying to the air base at Stephensville, Newfoundland.

The hospital plane is equipped with stretchers for flying wounded out of Korea, and just what it was doing on the run to Europe is not known.

Arriving at Stephensville, Assistant Secretary Johnson was entertained by the commanding officer, Col. Clayton Hughes. Another colonel, Andrew Cannon, a MATS transport group commander, whose headquarters is Kelly Air Base, Texas, also had some time to kill in the cool of Newfoundland, so the three cooked up a fishing trip.

An air force helicopter, normally used for air rescue operations, was on hand, and Col. Hughes arranged to give Assistant Secretary Johnson a demonstration. The rescue demonstration featured a flight to a salmon stream where they attempted to rescue some salmon.

Assistant Secretary Johnson, when queried about the incident, explained that he also made a helicopter inspection of the air force's installations, but admitted he spent most of the time fishing—about six hours.

"However," he added a little ruefully, "I didn't catch any fish."

Congressional Grandparents

Three-month-old Kristie Lynn Cavalcante of Uniontown, Pa., whose two grandfathers served in the House of Representatives at the same time, will add a grandmother to the congressional list when Congresswoman-elect Vera Buchanan of Pennsylvania is sworn in this week.

Kristie Lynn is the granddaughter of Mrs. Buchanan and the late Rep. Frank Buchanan of Pennsylvana. After her husband's death this year, Mrs. Buchanan was elected to his seat in a special election.

Kristie Lynn also is the granddaughter of former Rep. Tony Cavalcante of Pennsylvania, who was a colleague of Buchanan for one term in the House. Some day her dad, William Cavalcante, a Uniontown law student, hopes to succeed his father in Congress.

If this happens Kristie Lynn really will have something to brag about—three grandparents and one father in Congress.

Communism In Arab World

Though it was known that an agent of the ex-Grand Mufti of Jerusalem assassinated King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, it is not generally known that the Grand Mufti, having been Hitler's paid agent in the Near East, has now taken over the same job for Moscow.

The Mufti has turned up at various Pan-Islamic meetings throughout the Middle East as the tool of Moscow and stager of revolt against the West. And to show that Moscow is the great friend of the Arab world, the Mufti has been given the job of establishing an Arab university in Communist Warsaw.

Furthermore it is now beginning to look as if the Grand Mufti and his agents were behind the agitation against the British in Egypt, the assassination of the late pro-British premier of Iran and the murder of other leaders friendly to the West.

One significant aspect of the Mufti's operations is the way the Nazis and the Communists not only are using the same tactics, but bet their money on the same man. During the war, Hitler and Mussolini paid the Mufti nearly half a million dollars. And on April 5, 1945, just one month before the war ended, the Nazis signed a contract with him to continue stirring up trouble in the Near East.

Though Hitler killed himself soon afterward, the Mufti is certainly carrying out his part of the bargain.

Cigarets For Germans

Careful scrutiny of the law governing Marshall Plan aid shows that it's full of sleepers, designed to aid private interests in this country as much as the needy people of Europe.

For example, the law provides ECA dollars to buy tobacco for Germany, but stipulates that the tobacco must be purchased in the United States. This is a $45,000,000 windfall for U. S. tobacco interests at the U. S. taxpayers' expense. For the taxpayers are already subsidizing over $30,000,000 of Greek tobacco which is rotting in Greek warehouses.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Whether or not President Truman wants to run for another term, the Democratic party leaders will want to consider whether he would be the strongest candidate they could name this time. It is no secret that the Republicans would like to see Mr. Truman a candidate again because they think he would be a weak contender.

The question as to what the President's real strength was in 1948 from a party viewpoint plays a part in such discussions. This week "U. S. News & World Report" published a statistical analysis which shows that Mr. Truman ran far behind the Democratic ticket in enough states last time as to indicate that the Democratic party was much stronger than the presidential nominee.

Thus, in 18 states which accounted for 200 of Mr. Truman's 304 electoral votes, the President failed to lead the ticket. Congressional candidates ran way ahead of him in those states. In Illinois, for example, Senator Douglas, Democrat, carried the state by 408,000, while Mr. Truman carried it by only 34,000. Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives had a majority of 178,000 in Illinois. Adlai Stevenson carried the state for governor on the Democratic ticket by 572,000.

Narrow Margin In Ohio

The same thing happened in Ohio, where Mr. Truman squeezed through with only 7,107, while the Democratic governor won by 221,000 and the Democratic congressional candidates had an average of 132,000 more votes than the Republican candidates.

In 30 states with 388 electoral votes, Mr. Truman lagged behind the congressional candidates of his party. In 18 states with only 143 electoral votes, including the ten whose 101 electoral votes he did carry, Mr. Truman outran the local candidates.

So, in summary, Mr. Truman may possibly not have carried enough states with sufficient electoral votes to make the requisite 267 except for the fact that he had behind him the strong candidates on the local tickets. Often the straight-ticket voters, who are anxious to assure the election of their local candidates for state offices or for Congress, will mark the entire ballot all one way just to make sure. The 1948 ballotting, however, does show how many voters split their ticket in order to vote for the state and congressional nominees of the Democratic party but against Mr. Truman.

The obvious conclusion is that Mr. Truman was not stronger but much weaker than his party in 1948 throughout the country. If it be thought that this was due to the disaffections in the South it will be noted that the President ran behind his ticket in all the Northern states and Western with the exception of California, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Massachuetts.

The Northern states whose electoral votes he lost in 1948 were Maine, Vermont, New Hampshore, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oregon. But he ran behind his ticket also in the following Northern states: Rhode Isalnd, Ohio, Illinois, West Virginia, Missouri, Colorado, Utah, Montana, Arizona, and New Mexico.

Which Is Stronger

The issue is really whether Mr. Truman is stronger today than he was in 1948 or whether the Democratic party will be so much stronger in 1952, that if the President is renominated, he can count on his party to pull him through.

The public opinion polls show that the President is not as popular as he was in 1948 but, if his party is much stronger, presumably he could be elected. This, however, is offset by the fact that many people, in their desire to vote against the top of the ticket, will vote the straight ticket of the opposing party and this is something that worries the candidates who will be running on the congressional or state tickets.

The decision as to whether to try to run Mr. Truman again will be made by handpicked delegates to the Democratic National Convention and any president can be renominated if he wants to bring it about. The recent comment, however, by Jacob Arvey, the Illinois Democratic leader, which was lukewarm about a Truman renomination indicates that the local leadership is far more concerned about Mr. Truman running again than is apparent on the surface. Hence, the frenquent statements by Mr. Truman's appointees that they want him to run again are not to be taken as necessarily reflecting Democratic party sentiment.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Frederick V. Field

Frederick Vanderbilt Field has come into the news as a millionaire Don Quixote, duelling the windmills of the law, in grim, determined hopelessness. His thin, youthful figure gives him the air more of a Hamlet than a Don Quixote. He rejected the disciplines of his family, his country, his God, but goes to jail for accepting the discipline of Joe Stalin.

It all seemed so unnecessary and so fruitless. Freddie used to be a gentle and lovable person, charming to a fault, gay and big-hearted. That tight mouth and fist clenched about his pipe, that fighting to be silent when his very nature should force him to speak out loud, shows what the disciplines of communism can do to a man, once he submits to its rigidities.

When I first met Freddie Field, he was not a Communist. He was a mild but very confused Norman Thomas Socialist who had come to the Far East on his honeymoon and was full of ideas on how to save the world.

In the 29th Century, he would probably have become a clergyman, perhaps a missionary. In the period of Theodore Roosevelt, he might have fought the trusts or gone in for conservation. In the era of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he became a Communist, but with a bitterness, a vindictiveness hardly understandable to those who believe that boys and girls of good families could not possibly become Stalin's stooges. It is too often boys and girls of good families who make bad headlines.

Freddie's background was not unusual for a Vanderbilt. He lived in a marble palace on Fifth Avenue and in the mignficent estate, "Highlawn" in Lee, Massachusetts, near Lenox and Stockbridge.

Freddie went to Hotchkiss where he encountered the mild reformism that went in those days as socialism. After that came Harvard where he made the best clubs and the "Crimson."

Frederick Vanderbilt Field's mother was a gentle woman who managed the complicated affairs of such a household with competence and efficiency. I lived for some months of the year in the Berkshires and can say that the townspeople still remember Mrs. Field favorably.

The same cannot be said about the father. He was a curiously gross person, reactionary, selfish, overpowering. We once argued about revolutions and the Communists and the forces at work in the world. I reached the conclusion that had he lived in Germany, he would have been a Nazi.

There can be no question but that the really dominant factor in Freddie's conversion to Marxism was a revolt against his father, who did nothing but live on inherited wealth. This revolt turned to distress as his father's life became increasingly messy.

His great friendship with Joseph Barnes, at college and at the Institute of Pacific Relations, ended when his first wife left him and married Barnes. To an outsider, Freddie and his first wife seemed to be perfectly mated and very attached to each other. Often the man with his fist against his own life turns to some rigid discipline as a rationalization for the causes of his bitterness.

The tragedy in Field's life is that he rebelled against the disciplines of a society he knew and understood and yet accepted the rigid disciplines fo international communism, on account of which he is now in jail and likely to be for some time. It is this Communist discipline which forces him to lie by silence.

It is difficult to understand what pressures, intellectual or otherwise, the Communists can force upon such a person that will drive him to the extremities which Field is obviously pursuing. What urgencies are employed? What power do they exercise over him? What fears, what hopes do they engender?

I do not know.

I was discussing this situation the other day with a man who was Field's friend at Harvard. They were both on the "Crimson" and both belonged to the same clubs. They had been quite close. This man, no more than I, could visualize the Freddie Field we knew, all mixed up in the silliness of refusing to answer because Communist discipline required him not to answer.

Yet, we know that Larry Duggan went to his death, by suicide or was pushed out of a window, because of the same discipline. And we know of Whittaker Chambers's fears and of Alger Hiss's curious conduct.

The long arm of the Kremlin reaches far and plucks at all kinds and classes of persons, it's horrible work to perform.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Stalin And Mao II

WASHINGTON

Chinese Communist dictator Mao Tse-tung has clearly warned his opposite number in the Kremlin that he considers all of Asia an exclusive province for the expansion of Chinese power. This is the only reasonable interpretation of the real meaning of seven articles, written by high Chinese Communist officials and published within the last month in China.

These seven articles make up 45 closely-typed pages of turgid Communist prose. The best way to extract their inner meaning is to ask the reader to perform a difficult act of the imagination.

Imagine, then, that Klement Gottwald, Communist President of satellite Czechoslovakia, suddenly announces "The Gottwald theory of revolution," hailing his "theory" as the greatest contribution to Marxist doctrine since Lenin's death. Assume further that "the Gottwald theory of revolution" must guide all future revolutionary activity in Western Europe, according to Gottwald, because the economic and social structure of Czechoslovakia is much more like Western Europe's than is Russia's.

This is sheer fantasy, of course. "The Gottwald theory of revolution" would never see the light of day, nor, for very long, would Gottwald. Yet this is precisely, and without the slightest exaggeration, what Mao Tse-tung has now done, through the medium of the seven articles by his chief subordinates. Although Stalin's name is not even mentioned in four of these articles, in the three others there are formal bows in his direction. But on the essential points, Mao makes himself entirely clear.

Classic Type Revolutions

"Mao Tse-tung's theory of the Chinese revolution," an "enrichment of Marxism-Leninism," must be the basis for solving the "problems of revolution in the colonial and semi-colonial countries." These countries are "Viet-Nam (Indo-China), Burma, Indonesia, Malaya, and the Philippines," with "India, Japan, and other countries," in a second, less urgent category. The new dogma is stated explicitly:

"The classic type of revolution in imperialist countries was the October revolution (in Russia). The classic type of revolution in colonial and semi-colonial countries is the Chinese revolution."

Stalin will most certainly understand what is meant by this. Mao is in effect saying to Stalin: "Europe is yours. But Asia is mine. Keep out."

It is reasonable to assume that this none too subtle declaration of ideological independence and expansionist intention has shaken the Kremlin like nothing else since the defection of Tito. But does this mean that Mao Tse-tung is to become another Tito?

The whole tone of the seven articles indicates very clearly that Mao Tse-tung will welcome a really equal alliance with the Soviet Union, provided the sphere of expansion of each partner is clearly marked out. For a time at least the Kremlin may accept this, as the best of a bad bargain. But in the Kremlin's view, it can only be a very bad bargain.

Kremlin Has Lever

The Kremlin's propaganda has never for a moment acknowledged Mao Tse-tung's ambitious claims. Mao is regularly pictured as a humble and grateful disciple of the great Stalin. Moreover, according to the best intelligence, the Russians are making a determined effort to infiltrate and control the Chinese Communist apparatus. Finally, the Kremlin has a very powerful lever to use on Mao; the Chinese Communists cannot possibly carry on the Korean War, for example, without the weapons and supplies which can come only from Russia. It is interesting that the seven articles were published soon after the Malik peace bid, which suggests that the Kremlin may have been using precisely this lever.

At any rate, there is now no doubt that the seeds of conflict between the two great Communist powers have been sown. Yet if the conflict does break into open flame, nothing would be more foolish than to expect in China a precise repetition of Titoism. For one conclusion is implicit in all the available evidence. Mao Tse-tung's China is more violently expansionist than Stalin's Russia.

The Soviet leaders have had 30 years to digest their revolution. The Chinese Communists are intoxicated with the new wine of power. "Mao Tse-tung's theory of the Chinese revolution" calls for "armed struggle"—which means violent revolution. The armed struggle in "the colonial and semi-colonial countries" is to be promoted and supported now, not at some time in the distant future. And an open break with the Kremlin, if it comes, is just as likely to increase as to diminish this appetite for power throughout Asia.

Moreover, the Chinese Communist ambition to expand is altogether likely violently to stimulate the Soviet impulse to expand. If a competition for world Communist leadership develops, Stalin must literally at all costs outdo Mao Tse-tung, in order to contain and control his heretical rival. Thus Mao Tse-tung's challenge to the Kremlin gives the West no grounds whatsoever for complacency. But at least it is worth noting that Mao Tse-tung is no bought-and-paid-for satellite stooge, and that he is not likely to become one without a most determined struggle. For this is one of the central facts of our time.

"Fantastic" Plan To Gain Offshore Oil Wells Bared

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — A member of Congress protested today against what he termed a "most fantastic" plan of a private group to take over offshore Louisiana oil wells by using public land scrip issued years ago to old soldiers.

The protest was made by Rep. Willis (D-La) who, in a letter, asked Secretary of the Interior Chapman to deny the land applications of the group. Willis said it is headed by E. L. Cord, former automobile manufacturer.

The land scrip involved, Willis told a reporter, was issued by Congress after some of the Indian wars, the War of 1812 and the Civil War. Each of these scrip certificates, he said, entitled the soldier to whom it was issued or his heirs and assigns to claim a tract of public land, usually 160 acres.

The Cord group, Willis continued, assembled old scrip certificates calling for more than 1,900 acres of public land, then filed applications claiming land around oil wells in the Gulf of Mexico on the theory that this submerged land is public land and subject to claims by scrip holders.

Actually, Willis said, the Cord group is thus seeking title to 40 oil wells off the coast of Louisiana, producing 12,000 barrels of oil daily. These, he said, are all the producing wells in the area.

Marion Clawson, director of the land bureau, told a reporter Cord previously had tried to apply the scrip against submerged lands off California, but that the application had been denied.

Mason Termed 'Complete Fraud'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Grand jury proceedings were started today against Sam Mason, denounced by a Senate subcommittee as "a complete fraud" who raked in $250,000 by promising cheap leases on government property.

Attorney General McGrath announced that the Justice Department would ask the federal grand jury to indict Mason on charges of perjury and obtaining money through false pretenses.

Mason's story, according to witnesses who appeared before the Senate's subcommittee on investigations, was that the government was going underground to escape an atomic attack and that many of its surface buildings would become "surplus".

Fathers Maxim Markiw and Peter Hewko of the Order of St. Basil in New York testified they paid Mason up to $200,000 for leases they never got. They said they hoped to earn enough money from their investment to expand the activities of their Greek Catholic Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohdan Katamay of Philadelphia said they and their relatives kicked in about $35,000 on the scheme. Katamay is editor of the Ukranian newspaper "America".

Shampoos Given King's Swans To Remove Oil

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The swans in the River Thames, under terms of ancient law, belong to the King —and lately they looked a mess.

The untidy appearance was due to the fact that a ship which should have known better discharged a lot of bilge and oil into the river. The swans became sticky and the color of mice. They were no credit to the King.

It was all set right today in a spectacular roundup of swans. Men in boats crowded them up against a dock. They were fished out, and despite outraged squawking their feet were tied. Then they were hauled in vans to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals where experts gave them shampoos.

Peiping Radio Urges War Production Hike

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Communist negotiators may be talking of an armistice in Korea but the Peiping radio today talked in terms of war.

The Red broadcast, heard by the Associated Press, urged Korean civilian workers to increase production in support of the front line troops.

It said "victory can only be consolidated and peace guaranteed by increasing our strength."

It also said women workers in an army clothing factory were hard at work to "complete their quota of winter uniforms before Aug. 15, so-called Communist "Liberators" day.

Fairchild Helps AEC On Atom Plane Project

HAGERSTOWN, Md. Aug. 2 (AP) —The Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. acknowledged today it is one of the firms cooperating with the government in its work toward development of atom-driven aircraft.

The Atom Energy Commission has announced that definite progress has been made toward the developing of submarines and planes using atomic propulsion.

Fairchild has been helping with the nuclear energy project for the past five years, it was learned. The work has been going on at Oak Ridge, Tenn., by the aircraft firm's nuclear energy for the propulsion of aircraft division.

Md. Youth Gets Tax "Refund" Of $508,666

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—An 18-year-old Rockville, Md., high school boy, seeking a tax refund of $21.88, received a government check for a whopping $508,666.26.

Jay G. Biesser didn't know whether he was the beneficiary of a windfall or the victim of red tape.

The case came to light today when he got in touch with the Bureau of Internal Revenue to find out what it was all about. He learned that the Treasury wants the check back and is willing and anxious to replace it with one for $21.88.

A Treasury spokesman said he had not seen the check, but presumed the person operating the check writing machine put down the serial number of the check instead of the amount to be paid. The check is numbered 50-866-626.

Meat 'Maldistribution' Predicted By DiSalle

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — Price Control Director Michael V. DiSalle predicted today that a "maldistribution of meat will occur" as a result of recent changes in the price control law.

Moreover, he said, both meat price control and price rollbacks will be difficult to achieve.

DiSalle spoke at a mid-summer conference of the United Jewish Appeal, Jewish fund-raising organization.

"Instead of strengthening the act, I think they have weakened it substantially," he said.

The price chief particularly assailed amendments which he said prevent imposition of slaughtering quotas and which put difficult limitations on price rollbacks.

House Defers Action On Oatis Resolution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The House debated today whether diplomacy or "tough" action is the best way to get William N. Oatis, American newsman, released from a Czech prison. A decision was put off for a week.

Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment on "espionage" charges.

The House was all set to adopt a resolution condemning the action of the Czechoslovakian government and calling for steps to obtain his release. But it got snagged over a decision on how strong the resolution should be.

Probers Quiz Adams

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP)—William (Little Willie) Adams spent about 10 minutes today with a grand jury investigating Baltimore crime.

Poles Mutiny, Sail To Sweden

YSTAD, Sweden, Aug. 2 (AP) — Sixteen mutineers locked up their officers at pistol point aboard a Polish minesweeper today and took the ship to this South Swedish port.

Twelve of the 16, with the permission of Swedish police, went ashore to plead with higher Swedish authorities for asylum. The four others sailed back tonight across the Baltic to face whatever fate might await them in Poland. Home port of the vessel, the Hedregfariczon, was given as Kolberg, in Polish Pomerania, only 100 miles south of Ystad.

A Swedish police official said the minesweeper's officers had insisted on taking the vessel back to Poland immediately.

"They are afraid of the consequences," he said.

The mutineers told the police they had locked up their officers in the wardroom before setting their course toward the nearest point on the Swedish coast. With one of the mutineers on the bridge and the officers peering out of the scuttles, the Hedregfariczon docked this morning in this little port.

This is the second Baltic mutiny aboard a Communist ship in two weeks. Three Lithuanians locked up Russian crew members of the trawler Samsun July 19 and also escaped to Sweden.

Sweden has turned down a request by Rear Adm. Konstantin Rodionov, Soviet ambassador, that the Lithuanians be returned to Russia.

Armed Prospector Keeps Lonely Vigil

DURANGO, Colo., Aug. 2 (AP) — A 56-year-old prospector from Oregon, armed with a pistol, kept a lonely vigil in the Southwestern Colorado mountains tonight — and authorities, fearful he might use the weapon, gave him plenty of room.

Sheriff Chester Petty said the man, identified as Millard Carmean, had threatened to shoot anyone approaching too close.

The man was reported to be still on a pinnacle with a sheer 250-foot drop, about 22 miles northwest of here in what the sheriff called "really rough country."

The sheriff and Carmean's relatives are hopeful that the prospector's 18-year-old daughter might be able to persuade him to leave his mountain hideaway without using the .38-caliber pistol he is believed to have with him.

Mrs. Charlene Smith of San Diego notified the sheriff she hoped to reach Durango some time tonight.

British Goodwill Gesture To Iran

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Britain warmed up a plane today for the cabinet mission assigned to new talks with Iran on the oil crisis, then delayed the departure so the mission would not arrive in Tehran until after the Moslem sabbath.

The Moslems observe Friday as their holy day and day of rest.

Britain's quick appreciation of such a point was considered by observers here as striking a new note in the long dispute over the future of the $1,400,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

There seemed little doubt that W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy in Tehran, had impressed upon both Britain and Iran that bitterness must be banished from their negotiations.

"Fantastic" Plan To Gain Offshore Oil Wells Bared

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — A member of Congress protested today against what he termed a "most fantastic" plan of a private group to take over offshore Louisiana oil wells by using public land scrip issued years ago to old soldiers.

The protest was made by Rep. Willis (D-La) who, in a letter, asked Secretary of the Interior Chapman to deny the land applications of the group. Willis said it is headed by E. L. Cord, former automobile manufacturer.

The land scrip involved, Willis told a reporter, was issued by Congress after some of the Indian wars, the War of 1812 and the Civil War. Each of these scrip certificates, he said, entitled the soldier to whom it was issued or his heirs and assigns to claim a tract of public land, usually 160 acres.

The Cord group, Willis continued, assembled old scrip certificates calling for more than 1,900 acres of public land, then filed applications claiming land around oil wells in the Gulf of Mexico on the theory that this submerged land is public land and subject to claims by scrip holders.

Actually, Willis said, the Cord group is thus seeking title to 40 oil wells off the coast of Louisiana, producing 12,000 barrels of oil daily. These, he said, are all the producing wells in the area.

Marion Clawson, director of the land bureau, told a reporter Cord previously had tried to apply the scrip against submerged lands off California, but that the application had been denied.

Mason Termed 'Complete Fraud'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Grand jury proceedings were started today against Sam Mason, denounced by a Senate subcommittee as "a complete fraud" who raked in $250,000 by promising cheap leases on government property.

Attorney General McGrath announced that the Justice Department would ask the federal grand jury to indict Mason on charges of perjury and obtaining money through false pretenses.

Mason's story, according to witnesses who appeared before the Senate's subcommittee on investigations, was that the government was going underground to escape an atomic attack and that many of its surface buildings would become "surplus".

Fathers Maxim Markiw and Peter Ilewko of the Order of St. Basil in New York testified they paid Mason up to $200,000 for leases they never got. They said they hoped to earn enough money from their investment to expand the activities of their Greek Catholic Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohdan Katamay of Philadelphia said they and their relatives kicked in about $35,000 on the scheme. Katamay is editor of the Ukranian newspaper "America".

Shampoos Given King's Swans To Remove Oil

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The swans in the River Thames, under terms of ancient law, belong to the King—and lately they looked a mess.

The untidy appearance was due to the fact that a ship which should have known better discharged a lot of bilge and oil into the river. The swans became sticky and the color of mice. They were no credit to the King.

It was all set right today in a spectacular roundup of swans. Men in boats crowded them up against a dock. They were fished out, and despite outraged squawking their feet were tied. Then they were hauled in vans to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals where experts gave them shampoos.

Peiping Radio Urges War Production Hike

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Communist negotiators may be talking of an armistice in Korea but the Peiping radio today talked in terms of war.

The Red broadcast, heard by the Associated Press, urged Korean civilian workers to increase production in support of the front line troops.

It said "victory can only be consolidated and peace guaranteed by increasing our strength."

It also said women workers in an army clothing factory were hard at work to "complete their quota of winter uniforms before Aug. 15, so-called Communist "Liberators" day.

Fairchild Helps AEC On Atom Plane Project

HAGERSTOWN, Md. Aug. 2 (AP)—The Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. acknowledged today it is one of the firms cooperating with the government in its work toward development of atom-driven aircraft.

The Atom Energy Commission has announced that definite progress has been made toward the developing of submarines and planes using atomic propulsion.

Fairchild has been helping with the nuclear energy project for the past five years, it was learned. The work has been going on at Oak Ridge, Tenn., by the aircraft firm's nuclear energy for the propulsion of aircraft division.

Md. Youth Gets Tax "Refund" Of $508,666

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—An 18-year-old Rockville, Md., high school boy, seeking a tax refund of $21.88, received a government check for a whopping $508,666.26.

Jay G. Biesser didn't know whether he was the beneficiary of a windfall or the victim of red tape.

The case came to light today when he got in touch with the Bureau of Internal Revenue to find out what it was all about. He learned that the Treasury wants the check back and is willing and anxious to replace it with one for $21.88.

A Treasury spokesman said he had not seen the check, but presumed the person operating the check writing machine put down the serial number of the check instead of the amount to be paid. The check is numbered 50-866-626.

Meat 'Maldistribution' Predicted By DiSalle

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — Price Control Director Michael V. DiSalle predicted today that a "maldistribution of meat will occur" as a result of recent changes in the price control law.

Moreover, he said, both meat price control and price rollbacks will be difficult to achieve.

DiSalle spoke at a mid-summer conference of the United Jewish Appeal, Jewish fund-raising organization.

"Instead of strengthening the act, I think they have weakened it substantially," he said.

The price chief particularly assailed amendments which he said prevent imposition of slaughtering quotas and which put difficult limitations on price rollbacks.

House Defers Action On Oatis Resolution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The House debated today whether diplomacy or "tough" action is the best way to get William N. Oatis, American newsman, released from a Czech prison. A decision was put off for a week.

Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment on "espionage" charges.

The House was all set to adopt a resolution condemning the action of the Czechoslovakian government and calling for steps to obtain his release. But it got snagged over a decision on how strong the resolution should be.

Poles Mutiny, Sail To Sweden

YSTAD, Sweden, Aug. 2 (AP) — Sixteen mutineers locked up their officers at pistol point aboard a Polish minesweeper today and took the ship to this South Swedish port.

Twelve of the 16, with the permission of Swedish police, went ashore to plead with higher Swedish authorities for asylum. The four others sailed back tonight across the Baltic to face whatever fate might await them in Poland. Home port of the vessel, the Hedregfariczon, was given as Kolberg, in Polish Pomerania, only 100 miles south of Ystad.

A Swedish police official said the minesweeper's officers had insisted on taking the vessel back to Poland immediately.

"They are afraid of the consequences," he said.

This was the first mutiny aboard a Communist man-o'-war in the Baltic since the Russian revolution.

The mutineers told the police they had locked up their officers in the wardroom before setting their course toward the nearest point on the Swedish coast. With one of the mutineers on the bridge and the officers peering out of the scuttles, the Hedregfariczon docked this morning in this little port.

This is the second Baltic mutiny aboard a Communist ship in two weeks. Three Lithuanians locked up Russian crew members of the trawler Samsun July 19 and also escaped to Sweden.

Sweden has turned down a request by Rear Adm. Konstantin Rodionov, Soviet ambassador, that the Lithuanians be returned to Russia.

Armed Prospector Keeps Lonely Vigil

DURANGO, Colo., Aug. 2 (AP) — A 56-year-old prospector from Oregon, armed with a pistol, kept a lonely vigil in the Southwestern Colorado mountains tonight — and authorities, fearful he might use the weapon, gave him plenty of room.

Sheriff Chester Petty said the man, identified as Millard Carmean, had threatened to shoot anyone approaching too close.

The man was reported to be still on a pinnacle with a sheer 250-foot drop, about 22 miles northwest of here in what the sheriff called "really rough country."

The sheriff and Carmean's relatives are hopeful that the prospector's 18-year-old daughter might be able to persuade him to leave his mountain hideaway without using the .38-caliber pistol he is believed to have with him.

Mrs. Charlene Smith of San Diego notified the sheriff she hoped to reach Durango some time tonight.

British Goodwill Gesture To Iran

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Britain warmed up a plane today for the cabinet mission assigned to new talks with Iran on the oil crisis, then delayed the departure so the mission would not arrive in Tehran until after the Moslem sabbath.

The Moslems observe Friday as their holy day and day of rest.

Britain's quick appreciation of such a point was considered by observers here as striking a new note in the long dispute over the future of the $1,400,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

There seemed little doubt that W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy in Tehran, had impressed upon both Britain and Iran that bitterness must be banished from their negotiations.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

One of the best reporters in the business, he lectures, writes books, movie scenarios, and even obligingly does guest columns . . . Seems only yesterday, to some of his fellow newspapermen in Washington, that loose-jointed Bob Considine got his start at the Washington Times-Herald . . . Now he's back again on his home beat . . . But look out, he's throwing rocks!

AUSTINE

I Knew Me When

By BOB CONSIDINE

One cannot throw a rock in Washington these days without braining a briefcase-carrying general, or a sailor in the park with his girl. Once again it is a phantasmagoria (you can stop here, Madam) of uniforms that reach all the way from Pentagon and Embassy plumage to the trim outfits of the Lady Marines, whose gay summer hats apparently were designed by Michael Arlen.

This is a remarkable contradiction. Washington was created, at the suggestion of a gentleman of the same name, as a place the military would never be able to find!

No kidding.

BOB CONSIDINE

Seems that one day the Founding Fathers were sitting around Independence Hall, swapping hints on how best to powder the wigs and wondering what laws to pass for the new country, when suddenly a number of muskets were pushed through the window panes and a ragged militiaman bawled, "Okay, boys, divvy up the Treasury."

This suggestion badly frightened some of the greatest men in history. They quickly ascertained that these were Pennsylvania troops who, after Yorktown, had mutined because they were not being paid. They felt they had won the war and thus were entitled to a share of the booty.

The Founding Fathers took it on the lam out a back door, not even stopping to listen to James Madison as he denounced the Philadelphia Police Department (thus starting a lively precedent) for not providing better protection.

In ensuing weeks the Capital of the United States was Princeton, N. J., Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa., York, Pa., Annapolis, Md., Trenton, N. J., and New York—with the mutinous militarists in hot pursuit of men whose marbled memorials now dot the land.

•—•—•

Gen. G. "Washington" had returned to Mt. Vernon by this time, to lick his wounds. But the other greats of the time still needed him. They asked him to suggest a place where they could meet as a Congress without being stuck up or mugged. The General mulled over the question for a time, and then a bright mischievous look (fit to make Gilbert Stuart drop his palette) glittered in his eye.

He suggested that the boys set up shop in a swamp near a trading post named Georgetown. Historians do not record his exact words, but I learn from a strictly peachable source that George said:

"Those blokes will never find you there."

P. S.—They did time proved.

DEFENSE NOTE:—As an added precaution against mob control over the early U. S. Government, Maj. L'Enfant built Washington around a series of circles—so that cannon could be set up in the circles and fire down any of the streets that pour into the circles.

The mobs did not come, but L'Enfant has since learned that he erected the perfect defense against the motorist. If the Russians ever attack Washington, I hope they come by car. They'll be slaughtered!

TRAVEL IN WASHINGTON NOTE: The Washington cab-driver is a biological phenomenon. He is born with a head that can make a 360 degree turn without snapping his jugular. Riding in a Washington cab is always an intimate adventure. You are the jockey's guest, not his commander. In all probability he knows you, or something about you.

One of them consented to pick me as a fare in front of the Washington Times-Herald one night not long ago, and as we sailed off toward our first red light his head went into its rotation process and he said.

"You one of those newspaper people?"

"Yes," I answered with the wit that has made me the toast of a Continent. (Antarctica.)

"Did you ever meet a friend of mine named Bob Considine?" he asked.

It took courage but I answered affirmatively.

The cabbie shook his head—rather kindly and reflectively, I like to think—and mused:

"Y'know, I knew that bum when he didn't have shoes."

P. S.—So did I.

Do you know the strategies to use if you have a boss who's hypercritical, thoughtless, or rude?

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

When the person for whom you work is of a civil and considerate sort, earning a living can be a great pleasure. But work is just drudgery if you have a boor for a boss.

What should you do when you find your days are being made miserable by the person to whom you are responsible? Find another job? Only as a last resort. Strike back? Not if you want to change his ways and the atmosphere of your days. You've everything to gain, though, just by being the clever, capable business girl you set out to be, and this is your big chance to prove it.

Problem-Type Bosses

Let's consider the chief grievances women have against their bosses. From a poll made in widely different fields, the major complaints are these:

1. Being hypercritical of mistakes yet blind to exceptional performance. With this type of big brass, a girl loses faith in her ability and interest in her work — and fast.

2. Failure to organize work so that it flows smoothly, either through thoughtlessness or inability. Too often, a girl finds herself with slack time on her hands while the VIP takes a client to a three-hour lunch, and then is so swamped and pressured at the tired end of the day that it is impossible to produce her best work.

3. Unnecessary brusqueness, often reaching the point of rudeness, in dealing with assistants. When this is the most prevalent attitude of the man in command, inevitably it builds up frustration in those who work for them, and tempts them to return curt word for curt word, or causes them to fall into a dispirited routine that stifles ambition.

4. Expecting loyalty to the extent of covering for him when he's playing hookey, yet giving no loyalty in return, such as not defending the girl when she is falsely blamed in a situation of which he is fully cognizant.

Are you equal to handling each of the above problem bosses? Can you gently change their office practices and better the atmosphere in which you work to everyone's advantage? You can if you are of the caliber that wins success. Strategy in handling difficult people is something that can be learned.

Handling The Boss

In the case of No. 1, by a subtle account of the successful outcome of work assigned you, you can call attention to your prowess without boasting. In the case of No. 2, by tactful suggestions you can smooth out the work schedules. If your problem is No. 3, by your own exemplary manner you can set a pattern of conduct for everyone in the office. And No. 4 is a problem that can be resolved by quiet discussion.

Note the key words in each of those solutions — subtle, tactful, exemplary, and quiet — all are keys to charm. Master them, and you'll be irreplaceable; soon you'll discover you have a boss who's far less reproachable!

P. S. from J. R. P.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career—every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time — uncertainty — needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. The Germans used to buy most of Greece's tobacco crop. Now that Germany is forced to buy American tobacco, however, the taxpayers not only furnish the money for the tobacco Germany buys but also pays for the Greek tobacco crop which Germany does not buy. In other words, the taxpayers put out approximately $75,000,000 per year, so that American tobacco interests can sell $45,000,000 worth of tobacco to Germany.

NOTE—Largest exporters of ECA tobacco to Germany are L. B. Jenkins of Kinston, N. C., J. E. Bohannon of Bolling Green, Ky., Universal Leaf of Richmond, Va., and Austin Tobacco Co. of Greenville, Tenn.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

One of the best reporters in the business, he lectures, writes books, movie scenarios, and even obligingly does guest columns . . . Seems only yesterday, to some of his fellow newspapermen in Washington, that loose-jointed Bob Considine got his start at the Washington Times-Herald . . . Now he's back again on his home beat . . . But look out, he's throwing rocks!

AUSTINE

I Knew Me When

By BOB CONSIDINE

One cannot throw a rock in Washington these days without braining a briefcase-carrying general, or a sailor in the park with his girl. Once again it is a phantasmagoria (you can stop here, Madam) of uniforms that reach all the way from Pentagon and Embassy plumage to the trim outfits of the Lady Marines, whose gay summer hats apparently were designed by Michael Arlen.

This is a remarkable contradiction. Washington was created, at the suggestion of a gentleman of the same name, as a place the military would never be able to find!

No kidding.

BOB CONSIDINE

Seems that one day the Founding Fathers were sitting around Independence Hall, swapping hints on how best to powder the wigs and wondering what laws to pass for the new country, when suddenly a number of muskets were pushed through the window panes and a ragged militiaman bawled, "Okay, boys, divvy up the Treasury."

This suggestion badly frightened some of the greatest men in history. They quickly ascertained that these were Pennsylvania troops who, after Yorktown, had mutined because they were not being paid. They felt they had won the war and thus were entitled to a share of the booty.

The Founding Fathers took it on the lam out a back door, not even stopping to listen to James Madison as he denounced the Philadelphia Police Department (thus starting a lively precedent) for not providing better protection.

In ensuing weeks the Capital of the United States was Princeton, N. J., Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa., York, Pa., Annapolis, Md., Trenton, N. J., and New York—with the mutinous militarists in hot pursuit of men whose marbled memorials now dot the land.

•—•—•

Gen. G. "Washington" had returned to Mt. Vernon by this time, to lick his wounds. But the other greats of the time still needed him. They asked him to suggest a place where they could meet as a Congress without being stuck up or mugged. The General mulled over the question for a time, and then a bright mischievous look (fit to make Gilbert Stuart drop his palette) glittered in his eye.

He suggested that the boys set up shop in a swamp near a trading post named Georgetown. Historians do not record his exact words, but I learn from a strictly peachable source that George said:

"Those blokes will never find you there."

P. S.—They did time proved.

DEFENSE NOTE:—As an added precaution against mob control over the early U. S. Government, Maj. L'Enfant built Washington around a series of circles—so that cannon could be set up in the circles and fire down any of the streets that pour into the circles.

The mobs did not come, but L'Enfant has since learned that he erected the perfect defense against the motorist. If the Russians ever attack Washington, I hope they come by car. They'll be slaughtered!

TRAVEL IN WASHINGTON NOTE: The Washington cab-driver is a biological phenomenon. He is born with a head that can make a 360 degree turn without snapping his jugular. Riding in a Washington cab is always an intimate adventure. You are the jockey's guest, not his commander. In all probability he knows you, or something about you.

One of them consented to pick me as a fare in front of the Washington Times-Herald one night not long ago, and as we sailed off toward our first red light his head went into its rotation process and he said.

"You one of those newspaper people?"

"Yes," I answered with the wit that has made me the toast of a Continent. (Antarctica.)

"Did you ever meet a friend of mine named Bob Considine?" he asked.

It took courage but I answered affirmatively.

The cabbie shook his head—rather kindly and reflectively, I like to think—and mused:

"Y'know, I knew that bum when he didn't have shoes."

P. S.—So did I.

Do you know the strategies to use if you have a boss who's hypercritical, thoughtless, or rude?

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

When the person for whom you work is of a civil and considerate sort, earning a living can be a great pleasure. But work is just drudgery if you have a boor for a boss.

What should you do when you find your days are being made miserable by the person to whom you are responsible? Find another job? Only as a last resort. Strike back? Not if you want to change his ways and the atmosphere of your days. You've everything to gain, though, just by being the clever, capable business girl you set out to be, and this is your big chance to prove it.

Problem-Type Bosses

Let's consider the chief grievances women have against their bosses. From a poll made in widely different fields, the major complaints are these:

1. Being hypercritical of mistakes yet blind to exceptional performance. With this type of big brass, a girl loses faith in her ability and interest in her work — and fast.

2. Failure to organize work so that it flows smoothly, either through thoughtlessness or inability. Too often, a girl finds herself with slack time on her hands while the VIP takes a client to a three-hour lunch, and then is so swamped and pressured at the tired end of the day that it is impossible to produce her best work.

3. Unnecessary brusqueness, often reaching the point of rudeness, in dealing with assistants. When this is the most prevalent attitude of the man in command, inevitably it builds up frustration in those who work for them, and tempts them to return curt word for curt word, or causes them to fall into a dispirited routine that stifles ambition.

4. Expecting loyalty to the extent of covering for him when he's playing hookey, yet giving no loyalty in return, such as not defending the girl when she is falsely blamed in a situation of which he is fully cognizant.

Are you equal to handling each of the above problem bosses? Can you gently change their office practices and better the atmosphere in which you work to everyone's advantage? You can if you are of the caliber that wins success. Strategy in handling difficult people is something that can be learned.

Handling The Boss

In the case of No. 1, by a subtle account of the successful outcome of work assigned you, you can call attention to your prowess without boasting. In the case of No. 2, by tactful suggestions you can smooth out the work schedules. If your problem is No. 3, by your own exemplary manner you can set a pattern of conduct for everyone in the office. And No. 4 is a problem that can be resolved by quiet discussion.

Note the key words in each of those solutions — subtle, tactful, exemplary, and quiet — all are keys to charm. Master them, and you'll be irreplaceable; soon you'll discover you have a boss who's far less reproachable!

The Germans used to buy most of Greece's tobacco crop. Now that Germany is forced to buy American tobacco, however, the taxpayers not only furnish the money for the tobacco Germany buys but also pays for the Greek tobacco crop which Germany does not buy. In other words, the taxpayers put out approximately $75,000,000 per year, so that American tobacco interests can sell $45,000,000 worth of tobacco to Germany.

NOTE—Largest exporters of ECA tobacco to Germany are L. B. Jenkins of Kinston, N. C., J. E. Bohannon of Bolling Green, Ky., Universal Leaf of Richmond, Va., and Austin Tobacco Co. of Greenville, Tenn.

It is estimated that 91 per cent of today's students use a pen, compared to 52 per cent 10 years ago.

France Strives To Get Its Army Out Of Doghouse

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS—(AP)—French generals are waging a vigorous campaign to bring the army out of the doghouse where it has languished since 1940.

As National Defense Minister Jules Moch put it: "The country must understand its rearmament program and what it means."

So he put on the biggest military parade ever to march past President Vincent Auriol on July 14 (Bastille Day) and followed it up with an "Army Week," during which citizens were encouraged to climb around on tanks, peer down the barrels of Guns and ask all the questions they pleased.

Most French military leaders have been frankly concerned that the army enjoyed so little public esteem since its shattering defeat by Hitler's armies in 1940.

Low budgets, Communist peace propaganda and the unpopular war in Indochina have kept the army in the background ever since. When France was called on for a major contribution to the Atlantic pact in Europe, the fear of giving the Communists election ammunition caused politicians to soft pedal the French effort.

Now, with the elections over, the brakes are off. A large scale effort to fill the officer and NCO cadres is under way. The army is being pictured as a career of which any Frenchman may be proud.

Main feature of "Army Week" was a big tented exhibition on the wide parade ground of the Invalides, which houses the army museum and Napoleon's tomb.

The exhibition was free to all. A special effort was made to attract youths of 15 to 18. There were information bureaus where the boys could chat with students from the Polytechnique or St. Cyr military schools or with bemedalled veterans of the Foreign Legion.

All day long and under floodlights far into the night, military bands blared marital music as thousands poured through the exhibition.

"That makes them think they are seeing something really new," a young soldier remarked with a grin.

Since a Frenchman is always interested in food, a field bakery passed out free samples of army bread. Five-in-one rations were on display, closely modelled on American army rations of the last war but adapted to French tastes. Each one-man ration had its packet f Caporal cigarets, a box of matches and some chewing gum—new features for the French. There were 18 different menus, besides six variants for Moslem troops.

One feature which caused some head shaking among veterans of 1914-18 was the concentrated red wine in cans or individual nylon packets. You mix one part of wine to five of water and it's ready to drink.

Bronzed-looking wax figures showed the new French battle-dress and the army's latest styles for tropic or Arctic wear.

A scale model set out on sand showed a complete armored division with its 3,950 vehicles and 15,000 men. Veterans of Verdun gasped to learn that it had four times the firepower of a whole army corps of the First World War. Then they gasped again to learn what an armored division cost—more than $114,000,000.

Special atention was devoted to amusing the small boys who thronged the exhibition. They could see unending film shows of army life, take a ride in a French jeep around a bumpy track with humpback "bridges," try their brain at intelligence tests for recruits and test themselves on electric machines which showed their reaction in a truck driving contest.

A 100-ton pontoon bridge was thrown across the Seine in mid-Paris by army engineers before a crowd of watching thousands. Within four hours Sherman tanks had crossed to the other bank.

"Formidable!" exclaimed a spectator, "what the army can do."

An official judgement was more cautious.

Army Week was an unqualified success but there remains a lot to do."

Greenwood Plan Sparks Contest On How Best To Spike Reds' Lies

Now there's a nationwide contest on to give everybody a chance to beam his ideas through Russia's iron curtain and into Ivan's living room.

Like other contests, there are big prizes for the top five winners—free trips to Europe No box tops or coupons are needed—only an idea how democracy's message can penetrate the iron curtain.

The contest is open to any American. It is the outgrowth of a broad program launched here last year to educate Greenwood's citizens about Communism. A grass roots campaign, the program has enlisted school leaders, editors, government officials and plain citizens to show how Communism can be curbed at the local level.

Out of the community wide anti-Communism program came the nationwide contest. It originated when the manager of the town's Chamber of Commerce, Chauncey W. Lever, heard U. S. Sen. William O. Benton of Connecticut declare that America was losing the cold war to Russia because of a lack of ideas.

What this country needed, Benton asserted, was a Marshall Plan of ideas.

Lever, wise to the ways of promotion, thought of the contest with Chambers of Commerce across the nation collecting ideas from the man in the street on how to fight the cold war.

He telegraphed his suggestion to Benton. News of it spread. Radio commentators liked the idea, publicized it and christened it the Greenwood Plan.

Meanwhile the National Committee for a Free Europe operating from New York, was sponsoring the Crusade for Freedom and setting up Radio Free Europe to broadcast America's message to satellite peoples behind Communism's barriers

Lever took his idea to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, director of the Crusade For Freedom. He liked Lever's suggestion and immediately merged it with the Crusade For Freedom which by then had gained the support of more than 16,000,000 Americans.

Briefly, the plan, launched nationally in June, is designed to comb America's towns, cities and rural areas for suggestions on how best to spike Communist lies and promote world freedom and peace, Lever explains. Local committees screen the best idea and send them to state committees which screen them again and then forward the surviving ideas to a national committee.

From there the suggestions are put into use by Radio Free Europe or by the Voice of America.

The authors of the five best ideas will get the free trip to Europe. While there they will learn how Radio Free Europe is conducting its word war. State winners will receive plaques, commemorating their contributions.

The Greenwood Plan has been before the public only a few short weeks now but already ideas are pouring in from more than 200 Chambers of Commerce that have adopted the plan and are conducting their own grass roots campaign.

There are some 360 small, coral-formation islands comprising the Bermuda group.

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS—(AP)—French generals are waging a vigorous campaign to bring the army out of the doghouse where it has languished since 1940.

As National Defense Minister Jules Moch put it: "The country must understand its rearmament program and what it means."

So he put on the biggest military parade ever to march past President Vincent Auriol on July 14 (Bastille Day) and followed it up with an "Army Week," during which citizens were encouraged to climb around on tanks, peer down the barrels of Guns and ask all the questions they pleased.

Most French military leaders have been frankly concerned that the army enjoyed so little public esteem since its shattering defeat by Hitler's armies in 1940.

Low budgets, Communist peace propaganda and the unpopular war in Indochina have kept the army in the background ever since. When France was called on for a major contribution to the Atlantic pact in Europe, the fear of giving the Communists election ammunition caused politicians to soft pedal the French effort.

Now, with the elections over, the brakes are off. A large scale effort to fill the officer and NCO cadres is under way. The army is being pictured as a career of which any Frenchman may be proud.

Main feature of "Army Week" was a big tented exhibition on the wide parade ground of the Invalides, which houses the army museum and Napoleon's tomb.

The exhibition was free to all. A special effort was made to attract youths of 15 to 18. There were information bureaus where the boys could chat with students from the Polytechnique or St. Cyr military schools or with bemedalled veterans of the Foreign Legion.

All day long and under floodlights far into the night, military bands blared marital music as thousands poured through the exhibition.

"That makes them think they are seeing something really new," a young soldier remarked with a grin.

Since a Frenchman is always interested in food, a field bakery passed out free samples of army bread. Five-in-one rations were on display, closely modelled on American army rations of the last war but adapted to French tastes. Each one-man ration had its packet f Caporal cigarets, a box of matches and some chewing gum—new features for the French. There were 18 different menus, besides six variants for Moslem troops.

One feature which caused some head shaking among veterans of 1914-18 was the concentrated red wine in cans or individual nylon packets. You mix one part of wine to five of water and it's ready to drink.

A scale model set out on sand showed a complete armored division with its 3,950 vehicles and 15,000 men. Veterans of Verdun gasped to learn that it had four times the firepower of a whole army corps of the First World War. Then they gasped again to learn what an armored division cost—more than $114,000,000.

Special atention was devoted to amusing the small boys who thronged the exhibition. They could see unending film shows of army life, take a ride in a French jeep around a bumpy track with humpback "bridges," try their brain at intelligence tests for recruits and test themselves on electric machines which showed their reaction in a truck driving contest.

A 100-ton pontoon bridge was thrown across the Seine in mid-Paris by army engineers before a crowd of watching thousands. Within four hours Sherman tanks had crossed to the other bank.

"Formidable!" exclaimed a spectator, "what the army can do."

An official judgement was more cautious.

Greenwood Plan Sparks Contest On How Best To Spike Reds' Lies

Now there's a nationwide contest on to give everybody a chance to beam his ideas through Russia's iron curtain and into Ivan's living room.

Like other contests, there are big prizes for the top five winners—free trips to Europe No box tops or coupons are needed—only an idea how democracy's message can penetrate the iron curtain

The contest is open to any American. It is the outgrowth of a broad program launched here last year to educate Greenwood's citizens about Communism. A grass roots campaign, the program has enlisted school leaders, editors, government officials and plain citizens to show how Communism can be curbed at the local level.

Out of the community wide anti-Communism program came the nationwide contest. It originated when the manager of the town's Chamber of Commerce, Chauncey W. Lever, heard U. S. Sen. William O. Benton of Connecticut declare that America was losing the cold war to Russia because of a lack of ideas.

What this country needed, Benton asserted, was a Marshall Plan of ideas.

Lever, wise to the ways of promotion, thought of the contest with Chambers of Commerce across the nation collecting ideas from the man in the street on how to fight the cold war.

He telegraphed his suggestion to Benton. News of it spread. Radio commentators liked the idea, publicized it and christened it the Greenwood Plan

Meanwhile the National Committee for a Free Europe operating from New York, was sponsoring the Crusade for Freedom and setting up Radio Free Europe to broadcast America's message to satellite peoples behind Communism's barriers

Lever took his idea to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, director of the Crusade For Freedom. He liked Lever's suggestion and immediately merged it with the Crusade For Freedom which by then had gained the support of more than 16,000,000 Americans.

Briefly, the plan, launched nationally in June, is designed to comb America's towns, cities and rural areas for suggestions on how best to spike Communist lies and promote world freedom and peace, Lever explains. Local committees screen the best idea and send them to state committees which screen them again and then forward the surviving ideas to a national committee.

From there the suggestions are put into use by Radio Free Europe or by the Voice of America.

The authors of the five best ideas will get the free trip to Europe. While there they will learn how Radio Free Europe is conducting its word war. State winners will receive plaques, commemorating their contributions.

The Greenwood Plan has been before the public only a few short weeks now but already ideas are pouring in from more than 200 Chambers of Commerce that have adopted the plan and are conducting their own grass roots campaign.

There are some 360 small, coral-formation islands comprising the Bermuda group.

Entertain With Sunday Breakfast

For a pleasant change from the usual summer program of luncheons and teas, have a Sunday breakfast party. A breakfast lends itself to informality and may be served buffet style either indoors or out, and eleven o'clock is a good time. The following suggested menu includes seasonal fruit and dishes which do not require last minute preparation:

Sliced Fresh Peaches
with
Corn Flakes and Cream
Creamed Eggs and Chicken in
Patty Shells
Orange Blossom Butterhorns
Relishes Honey Jam
Coffee

The buffet table can be attractively arranged: First in line will be the chilled sliced peaches which have been sprinkled with thin corn syrup to preserve the color. Next comes the fresh, crisp cereal in colorful bowls, with sugar and cream adjacent; then a tray of patty shells and a casserole of the creamed eggs and chicken. The hot rolls are piled in a napkin-lined basket, and a tray of appetizers neighbor with a crystal compote of rosy jam and a jar of orange blossom honey. Last but not least is an urn of steaming coffee.

Orange Blossom Butterhorns

Three-quarters cup scalded milk, ¼ cup shortening, ⅛ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup bran, 1 cake compressed or 1 package granular yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 2 eggs, well-beaten, 3¼ cups sifted flour.

Combine milk, shortening, sugar, salt and bran; cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add to mik mixture. Add eggs, beat thoroughly. Add flour; mix to soft dough *Cover; let stand 10 minutes. Knead on lightly floured surface. Place in greased bowl; let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Punch down. Divide dough in thirds; roll into circles 9 inches in diameter. Cut in triangles and roll to form butter-horns. Arrange on greased baking sheet. Cover. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven (450° F.) about 15 minutes.

Yield: 3½ dozen butterhorns.

* Dough may be stored in refrigerator overnight.

This File Remembers for You

With a calendar file, the busy homemaker easily can keep track of appointments, concerts, parties and other dates. Bills filed under the date they should be mailed are bound to be paid on time. The file may be made at home out of Masonite tempered hardboard and strips of lumber. It may be put up in any convenient place, like the back of the kitchen door, as shown. Here the housewife is seen placing a bill into the pocket marked for the 25th of the month.

CHEESE ROLLS WITH SOUP: Many a summer day, your appetite says "just soup please." If it's to be a guest meal, simply take down one of your favorites among the condensed soups — and serve it with something special like cheese rolls. For these, scoop out the insides of long hard rolls and fill the centers with softened cheese spread—perhaps pimiento or chive cheese. Chill in the refrigerator several hours. Then slice to serve for pleasant crunching with the hot soup.

Next time you make yeast puffs on a bright summer morning, give them a gay air by topping with sparkling cherries or luscious peaches. Prepare muffin pans by putting ½ teaspoon of melted butter or margarine in each. Cover with about 1 teaspoon of cinnamon-sugar mixture and arrange pitted cherries or sliced peaches in each cup. When sweet yeast batter is light, stir down and drop in muffin cups, filling about ½ full. Let rise until light (about 30 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Serve oven-warm puffs with chilled lemonade for an afternoon snack, and as a dinner feature with cold sliced ham and potato salad.

Here are 8 cooling ways to serve cranberry sherbet on your menus this summer.

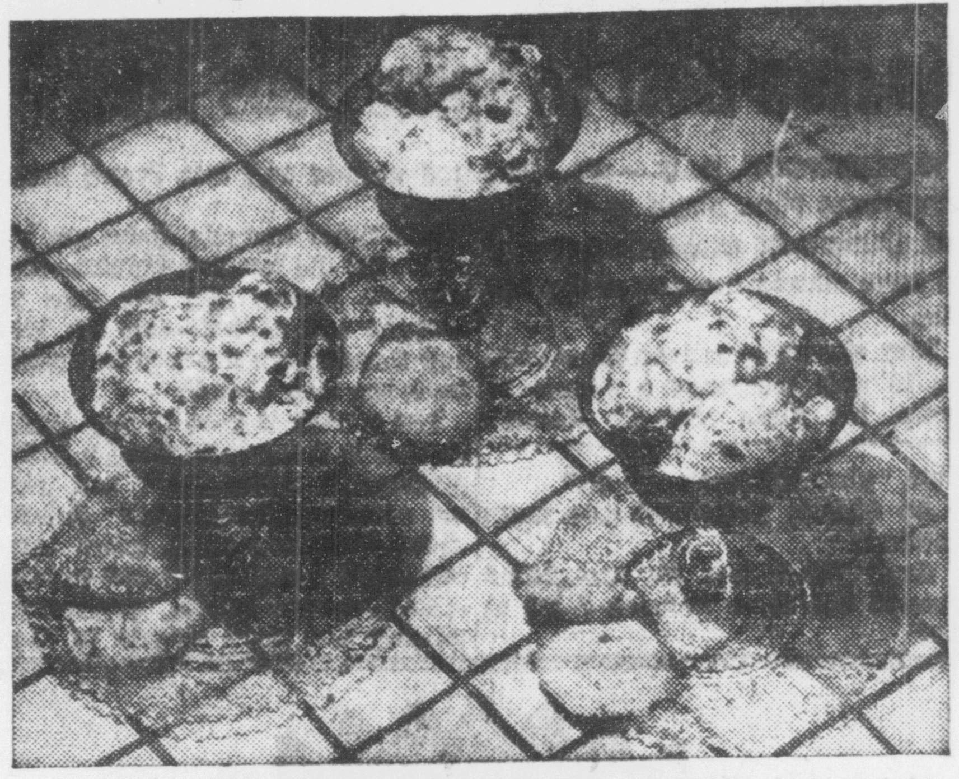
Cooling Cranberry Sherbet



It takes only seconds to get a party-pink cranberry sherbert into the freezing tray of the refrigerator. In little more than time to open the can of sauce, a colorful dessert is ready for the freezer. Make the sparkling cranberry sherbet in the cool morning hours. Then decide how you will serve it. Try it plain or give it a perky party air.

Serve a Fruit-In-Season Salad Plate: Ripe juicy California Bartlett pears, Santa Rosa plums, melon wedges or balls, grapes, ripe cherries or the season's berries.

Macaroni Stars Many Salads

Macaroni salads take on a starring role during the summer and early fall months. They're hearty enough to feature as main dishes for luncheon and supper menus and, unlike most salads, they can be completely prepared during the coolest part of the day and allowed to stand for hours before serving. In fact, the long chilling improves macaroni salads because the combined flavors have a better chance to blend.

To be at their best, macaroni salads should contain something crunchy like crisp celery, something colorful like strips of green pepper or quartered tomatoes and something to give them zest like scraped onion or a tangy salad dressing. There's no limit to the number of possible combinations. They can be made with meat, fish, fowl, eggs, fruit or any of the salad vegetables.

Another advantage to macaroni salads is that they are the perfect picnic salad. They wait almost indefinitely for "lunch-time" without wilting—and they are mighty satisfying after a few hours of outdoor activity. To save on dishes as well as last minute preparations, pack macaroni salads for outdoor meals in paper cartons. Before covering the cartons, garnish each container with a bright tomato wedge and a spring of parsley or with a green pepper ring centered by a radish rose.

The attached kitchen-tested salad recipes are from the home economics department of the National Macaroni Institute.

Here are some salads molded with gelatin and salads molded without gelatin, salads made with sour cream dressings and salads made with piquant French dressings, salads planned for parties and salads versatile enough to fit every need during the warm-weather months ahead.

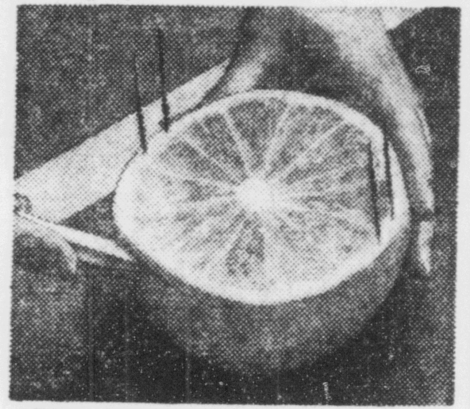
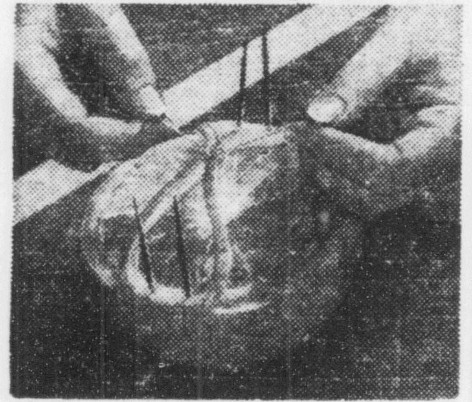
Beauty Basket From Florida

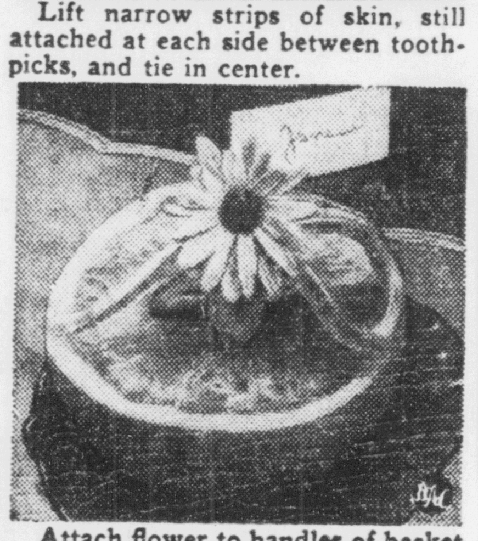
THE big juicy grapefruit that have helped make Florida famous are working overtime this year! Nature has extended the crop season, and we'll have this refreshing, tangy fruit all month. For a different, and picture-pretty first course serving, make grapefruit baskets.



Place two toothpicks on each side of grapefruit half, about a half-inch apart. With a sharp knife, cut just through skin from toothpick on one side to toothpick on other side. Then separate sections from membrane as in usual service, cutting around each.



Lift narrow strips of skin, still attached at each side between toothpicks, and tie in center.



Attach flower to handles of basket, or place card, using narrow ribbon or fine wire.

Sandwich Time

Sandwiches are popular summer foods when appetites lag and homemakers want to limit kitchen work. There is a variety to suit every taste, from the small finger sandwiches to the hearty sandwiches which are meals in themselves. Dainty sandwiches often are made in attractive shapes, and both dark and enriched bread are used in one sandwich for color contrast. A delicious filling for small sandwiches consists of a combination of minced avacado, chopped, cooked shrimp, lemon juice, and mayonnaise or other salad dressing. Crusts may be left on or removed as desired. Sandwich meals cut work to a minimum and are hearty and satisfying. A ham toastwich too usually meets with family approval. It is made by placing ham between two slices of bread which have been spread with a blend of butter or margarine and mustard. The sandwich is then dipped into a French toast egg-milk mixture, and browned in hot fat. No matter what occasion arises — summer afternoon party, family lunch, informal Sunday night supper — sandwiches are highly acceptable both for enjoyment and as a part of daily nutritional requirements.

Shore Dinner For Good Old Summertime

If you can't go to the ocean, bring it your way with seafood dishes that are real "catches" for a buffet supper party in the good old summertime.

Flaked fish or crab is the star in many a choice creamed-style casserole—ideal for buffet entertaining. And these dishes are so easy to whip up when you use condensed soup for the cream sauce.

Right along this line is Deviled Seaford, made with condensed cream of celery soup. You'll be pleased as punch at its goodness and convenience. You can use either flaked fish or crab for it, whichever fits your purse best.

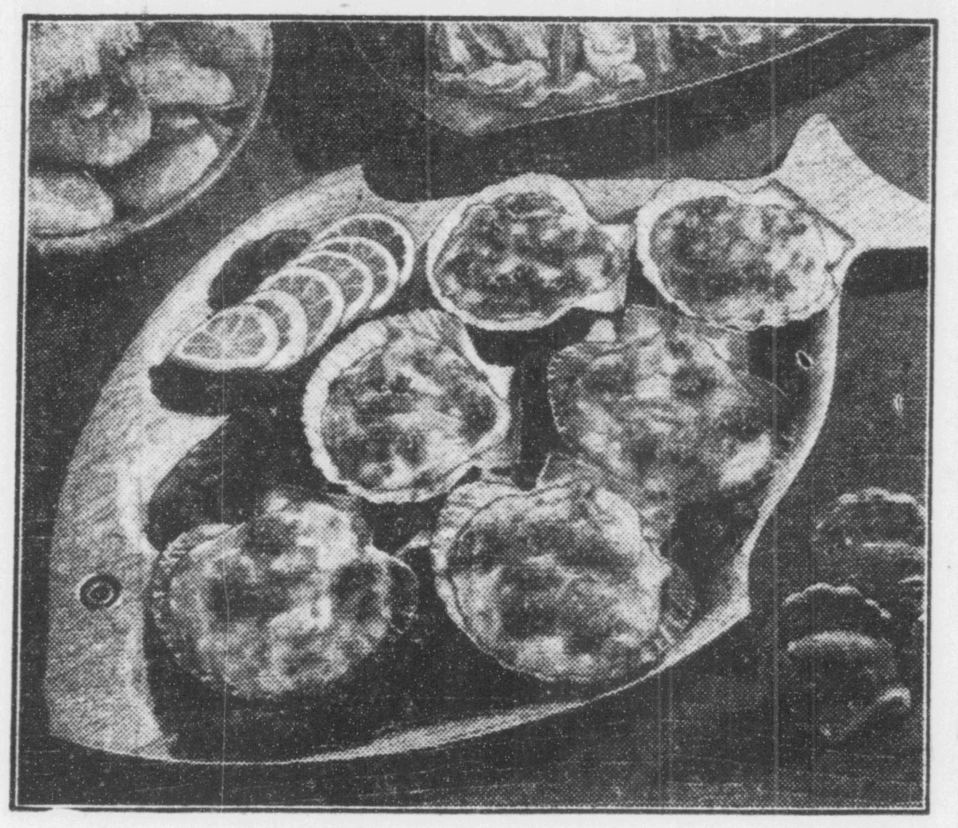
For a party serve the seafood in baking shells or individual casseroles. Also have a crisp tomato lettuce salad, potato chips, and hot rolls. Decorate the buffet with seashells and a net. This will be one party you're sure to enjoy with fine food that takes little time from your hostess duties.

Deviled Seafood

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of celery soup; 1 can (6½ ounces) crab meat or 1 cup of flaked fish; 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper; 2 teaspoons chopped onion; 2 teaspoons lemon juice; ½ teaspoon prepared mustard; 2 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

Stir together the celery soup, flaked crab meat or fish, chopped green pepper and onion, lemon juice and mustard. Put mixture into one large or six small casseroles (baking shells are good for this). Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until well heated and crumbs are lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Entertain With A Shore Dinner



HERE'S a specialty dish to keep in mind for summer entertaining. Deviled Seafood is a combination of condensed cream of celery soup and flaked crab meat or fish.

Pineapple Cucumber Molded Salad
Pineapple layer:
1 cup crushed pineapple (not drained); 1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ cup finely grated carrots.
Cucumber layer:
1 envelope unflavored gelatin; ¼ cup cold water; 1 cup mayonnaise; ½ cup light cream; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon grated onion; ½ cup finely chopped celery; ½ cup grated cucumber, drained.

Pineapple layer: Drain pineapple. Add enough water to sirup to make 1¾ cups liquid. Heat to boiling; dissolve gelatin in it. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Add salt, carrots, and crushed pineapple. Turn into a 1½ qt. ring or fancy mold. Chill until firm.

Cucumber Layer: Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Combine remaining ingredients. Add gelatin and blend. If desired tint pale green. Pour overpineapple layer. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. 8 to 10 servings.

Supper Platter

1 No. 2 can pineapple chunks
8 slices bacon
1 No. 303 can whole green beans
Cooked broad noodles

Drain pineapple chunks. Place 4 or 5 on each of 8 metal or wooden skewers. Wrap in bacon, securing ends with toothpicks. Place on rack in shallow baking pan. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) for 15-minutes, or until bacon is crisp. Arrange on platter with hot buttered whole green beans and noodles topped with buttered croutons. 4 servings.

Pineapple Coffee Cake

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk

TOPPING

4 slices pineapple
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
⅓ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup melted and cooled butter or margarine

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together. Cut shortening into dry ingredients until mixture is dry and crumbly. Blend egg and milk. Add liquid to dry ingredients and mix just until blended. Place in a greased 8-inch round or square pan. Cut pineapple slices into halves and arrange over top of batter. Mix flour, brown sugar, cinnamon, and melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle over top of batter. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) approximately 45 minutes. 8 servings.

Pass Savory Bread around to guests at your outdoor party, for it's the perfect accessory to mild-flavored casseroles, crisp green salads, spaghetti dishes, and the like. To make it, slice a loaf of enriched Vienna bread almost through to bottom. Rub a small bowl with 1 clove of garlic, then cream butter or margarine in the bowl. Spread on slices. Place loaf in moderate oven (375°F.) until lightly toasted.

Apples Aid On Hot Days

Apples can rescue a dinner, dessert, packed lunch, picnic or party . . . now that we can get them in cans for easy storage, and complete dependability. Applesauce, apple slices, apple juice served as they come from the can, or used in recipes, add just the right amount of flavor, texture, color and nourishment to many a meal. And thrifty! Best buy in the market today.

Thinking of the problems of busy mothers and homemakers, cooks dreamed up three recipes for quickie desserts that make a hit with the home folks. The last minute applesauce dessert finds favor right away. It's so simple to do, you could even take it on a picnic . . . or serve it at porch or outdoor parties in your garden. The first step of combining the applesauce and flavorings can be done ahead of time, and the rest of the preparation at the picnic spot. For picnics, we suggest that you skip the whipped cream because of difficulty of refrigeration. It will be mixed, but you can make up for it by serving seconds . . . maybe even thirds.

Ever taste applesauce and sour cream with spices from the Far East? No wonder Columbus went sailing around the world for spices. He probably wanted them to add dash to his applesauce. Try this combination and then decide for yourself that quickie desserts can be delicious.

LAST-MINUTE APPLESAUCE DESSERT
(Makes 6 servings)

1 No. 2 can applesauce
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash nutmeg
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Baker's pound cake
Whipped cream

1. Combine applesauce, cinnamon, nutmeg, brown sugar and lemon juice.
2. Cut pound cake in slices about ½-inch thick; toast golden brown on both sides.
3. Top toasted cake slices with applesauce mixture.
4. Garnish with whipped cream.

TWO DESSERT QUICKIES

1. Chill Canned applesauce. Serve in sherbet glasses topped with sour cream sprinkled with sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg.
2. Chill ½ pint yogurt; add 2 tablespoons honey; fold in drained canned apple slices.

APPLES TO THE RESCUE

APPLES rescue the cook when time gets short. The Apple Kitchen recommends this Last Minute Applesauce Dessert because it's so quick and easy when made with canned apple sauce. The recipe is given elsewhere on this page.

Serve Banana Cookies With Iced Tea

Iced tea gets its innings from July 13-20 which is National Iced Tea Time. Goodness knows what the first gentlemen who discovered tea in the Orient would think of iced tea, but we Americans like it, and it was rather daring of us to try icy cold, a drink that had always been served as piping hot as possible.

With iced tea a favorite summer custom, we need some snacks to accompany this tall, refreshing drink, or other coolers we may serve. A likely candidate is a batch of homemade Banana Drop Cookies. Really different with their fresh banana fruit flavor, these cookies have a soft, tender texture and a glossy brown color. Because of the banana in the batter, these cookies keep moist and fresh.

Since in making these cookies, the banana is whipped into a liquid with a rotary egg beater or electric mixer, you will find every morsel of the baked cookies permeated with delicious, tropical banana flavor. Banana Drop Cookies are easy to make and they are a delightful beverage accompaniment.

Banana Drop Cookies

2¼ cups sifted flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup whipped ripe bananas
(2 to 3 bananas)
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon sugar

Use fully ripe bananas . . . yellow peel flecked with brown.

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Add eggs, bananas and vanilla and beat until thoroughly blended. Drop by teaspoonfuls, about 1½ inches apart, onto ungreased cookie pans. Sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and 1 tablespoon sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 12 minutes, or until cookies are done. Remove baked cookies from pan immediately. Makes about 3 dozen medium-sized cookies.

Porch Supper A La Carte For Summertime

Outdoor eating is a delightful summer custom which makes appetites mount and the food taste better than ever. Advanced preparation of complete meals eliminates that last minute rush and enables the homemaker to enjoy it with the family. For the suggested sandwich supper, a tray of assorted sandwich makings and a delectable apricot shortcake may be stored in the refrigerator until mealtime. At the last minute the hamburger and frankfurter buns are arranged on a serving dish or roll basket, a beverage is prepared, the tray and dessert are removed from the refrigerator, and the whole meal is wheeled to the cool porch. Sandwich meals that allow everyone to fix his own are well suited to outdoor dining. A refreshing frozen dessert, such as the apricot shortcake which uses baker's cake as the basic ingredient, is a delight to the eye and palate, as well as easy to make. Homemakers welcome a summer meal idea that pleases their families and cuts work to a minimum.

FROZEN APRICOT SHORTCAKE

1 (No. 2½) can peeled apricot halves or 1¼ cups apricot pulp
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon apricot juice or cold water
1 egg
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1" thick layer pound cake

Drain apricot juice from apricot halves. Mash apricots to a pulp with a fork then heat in saucepan. Soften gelatin in apricot juice, then dissolve in hot apricots. Cool apricot mixture. Beat egg until foamy, add sugar and vanilla and beat again. Whip cream and combine with egg mixture. Cut pound cake to fit bottom of a deep refrigerator tray. Spread apricot mixture over cake, cover with whipped cream mixture. Freeze in refrigerator tray using coldest control, until firm. Slice into 6 portions when serving.

Yield: 6 servings.

Spur Of Moment Party For Pigtail Crowd

Youngsters like to go to parties — and they love to give them! An elaborate affair for a special occasion is fine, when there's a special occasion handy. But when there isn't which is usually, it's the spur-of-the-moment, just-for-fun parties that liven up long summer days.

Something out of the ordinary, something the youngsters can whip up for themselves, above all something involving ice cream, is ideal for such a party. Here are a couple of unusual, uncomplicated ice cream desserts suitable for younger-fry get-togethers:

Cereal Ice Cream Sandwich

¼ cup butter
½ pound marshmallows (about 2½ dozen)
½ teaspoon vanilla
5 cups popped rice cereal
1 quart ice cream

Cook butter and marshmallows over hot water until syrupy, stirring frequently. Add vanilla; beat well. Put rice cereal in greased large bowl and pour on marshmallow mixture, stirring briskly. Press into greased shallow pan. Cut into 3-inch squares when cool. Put squares together with ice cream between. Serve at once.

Yield: 6 3-inch sandwiches (9 x 13 inch pan).

Buttercrisp Ice Cream

2 cups popped rice cereal
3 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ cup chopped nutmeats
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Crush popped rice cereal into fine crumbs; mix with brown sugar and nutmeats. Melt butter in heavy frying pan; add cereal mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until sugar melts and caramelizes slightly. Cool and crumble. Allow ice cream to soften slightly. Stir in crumbled cereal mixture and pack in refrigerator trays or in paper cups. Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator to harden.

Yield: 8 servings (1¾ cups butter crisp mixture).

Here are suggestions about adding shortening to your muffin batter. The usual practice is to add melted shortening to milk and egg, taking care that these liquid ingredients are at room temperature so that they will not solidify the shortening. Some cooks prefer to use oil instead of melted shortening. Others find it more convenient to cut the small amount of solid fat into the dry ingredients as in making biscuits. Whether melted shortening, oil, or solid shortening is used in making plain muffins, the results are equally good.

"What can I do, Mother?" is a oft-repeated question from teen age daughters as the long vacatio days draw to a close. Why not teac them how to cook? The childre will have fun, and cooking is a use ful art that will stand them in goo stead. Don't be dismayed if it take them longer to prepare the meal o if they use more utensils than yo would. They can make Sunday sup per for the family if you plan simple menu which includes chill ed cantaloupe, golden enriched waf fles and browned pork sausage Children can prepare the waffl batter from a packaged pancak mix, and they'll enjoy using th waffle iron. Perhaps they'll want t appoint Dad to remove the cooke waffles from the iron. Remind th to leave the iron open to cool a the waffles have been mad Sprinkling pecans on waffle batte before closing the lid makes extr special waffles.

Apples Aid On Hot Days

Apples can rescue a dinner, dessert, packed lunch, picnic or party . . . now that we can get them in cans for easy storage, and complete dependability. Applesauce, apple slices, apple juice served as they come from the can, or used in recipes, add just the right amount of flavor, texture, color and nourishment to many a meal. And thrifty! Best buy in the market today.

Thinking of the problems of busy mothers and homemakers, cooks dreamed up three recipes for quickie desserts that make a hit with the home folks. The last minute applesauce dessert finds favor right away. It's so simple to do, you could even take it on a picnic . . . or serve it at porch or outdoor parties in your garden. The first step of combining the applesauce and flavorings can be done ahead of time, and the rest of the preparation at the picnic spot. For picnics, we suggest that you skip the whipped cream because of difficulty of refrigeration. It will be mixed, but you can make up for it by serving seconds . . . maybe even thirds.

Ever taste applesauce and sour cream with spices from the Far East? No wonder Columbus went sailing around the world for spices. He probably wanted them to add dash to his applesauce. Try this combination and then decide for yourself that quickie desserts can be delicious.

APPLES TO THE RESCUE

APPLES rescue the cook when time gets short. The Apple Kitchen recommends this Last Minute Applesauce Dessert because it's so quick and easy when made with canned apple sauce. The recipe is given elsewhere on this page.

LAST-MINUTE APPLESAUCE DESSERT

(Makes 6 servings)

1 No. 2 can applesauce
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash nutmeg
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Baker's pound cake
Whipped cream

1. Combine applesauce, cinnamon, nutmeg, brown sugar and lemon juice.
2. Cut pound cake in slices about ½-inch thick; toast golden brown on both sides.
3. Top toasted cake slices with applesauce mixture.
4. Garnish with whipped cream.

TWO DESSERT QUICKIES

1. Chill Canned applesauce. Serve in sherbet glasses topped with sour cream sprinkled with sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg.
2. Chill ½ pint yogurt; add 2 tablespoons honey; fold in drained canned apple slices.

August 5-11 Is National Vegetable Week

Originally inaugaurated three years ago, this unusual health food event was designed to minimize economic loss to all concerned, make the best use of vegetables during peak seasons and to develop a co-operative plan to keep consumers well informed on unusual food buys, recipes, and vitamin-powered health-building vegetables.

The National Vegetable Queen, Miss Elaine Tessman, Osseo, Minnesota, an attractive brunette, will be the guest of honor at many related events during the summer.

Governor McKeldin of Maryland has issued an embellished proclamation calling upon the people of his state to join with the agricultural people in recognizing their week. The Governor also invited all the other Governors to issue similar proclamations. Several are already known to have been issued.

Jeannie's Summer Salad

Jean Patchett, America's top cover girl and first American Vegetable Queen uses everything available in fresh vegetables, chopped finely, except the tomatoes which are cut from bottom to stem in 8 segments. The sauce is an appetizing combination of:

1 cup chili sauce
1 cup mayonnaise
2 diced hard boiled eggs
6 chopped stuffed olives
salt and pepper to taste.

Mix thoroughly and chill well. To serve, place leaf lettuce nest on small dish. Place 4 saltines on top edges of lettuce. Put ample serving of chopped vegetables over cracker. Add sauce, topped with crumpled roquefort cheese.

To make more interesting, a little girl's face can be easily made on top of the salad by using 2 stuffed olive slices for eyes, a sliver of pickle for the nose, and a split radish for the mouth.

Vegetables In A Shell

The favorite recipe of Elaine Tessman, Minnesota State Vegetable Queen, is her recipe for "Vegetables in A Shell."

Scone Shell
1½ cups sifted flour
2 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
⅓ cup fat
⅓ cup milk
1 egg beaten

Mix dry ingredients, cut in fat, add egg and milk. Roll on a canvas covered board to 1½ inches larger than the 9 inch pan. Flute the edge. Prick bottom and side of shell. Bake 15 minutes at 425°F. Keep warm until ready to fill with creole mixture.

Creole Filling

¼ lb. bulk pork sausage
¼ lb. ground beef
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup cooked carrot strips
1 cup cooked lima beans
1 cup cooked string beans
1¼ t. salt
¼ cup chopped onion
2 T. butter
¼ cup sour cream
1 cup water
¼ cup sifted flour
⅛ t. pepper

Brown meat in butter in skillet, add onion and pepper. Cook over a low heat until vegetables are tender. Stir in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Add sour cream and water. Stir and cook until all ingredients are blended, about 5 minutes.

Add carrot strips, lima beans and string beans. Heat until the vegetables hot. Serve in scone shell. Serve with tossed salad, hot rolls, oatmeal fruit cookies, berries and cream, coffee.

It's a good plan to keep a supply of sweet yeast rolls or coffee cake from the baker's on hand during the salad season. Then, if you're not in a muffin-making mood, you can still bring forth delightful breads that add substance to a salad main course. Your family will enjoy this new version of Ambrosia—rolls frosted with confectioners' sugar icing and sprinkled with coconut served with a banana, orange and grapefruit salad. Give a spicy accent to cottage cheese and fruit combinations by passing a basket of fragrant Cinnamon Rolls. Nut-topped rolls may be served with almost any salad, and you'd better plan on extras for dessert.

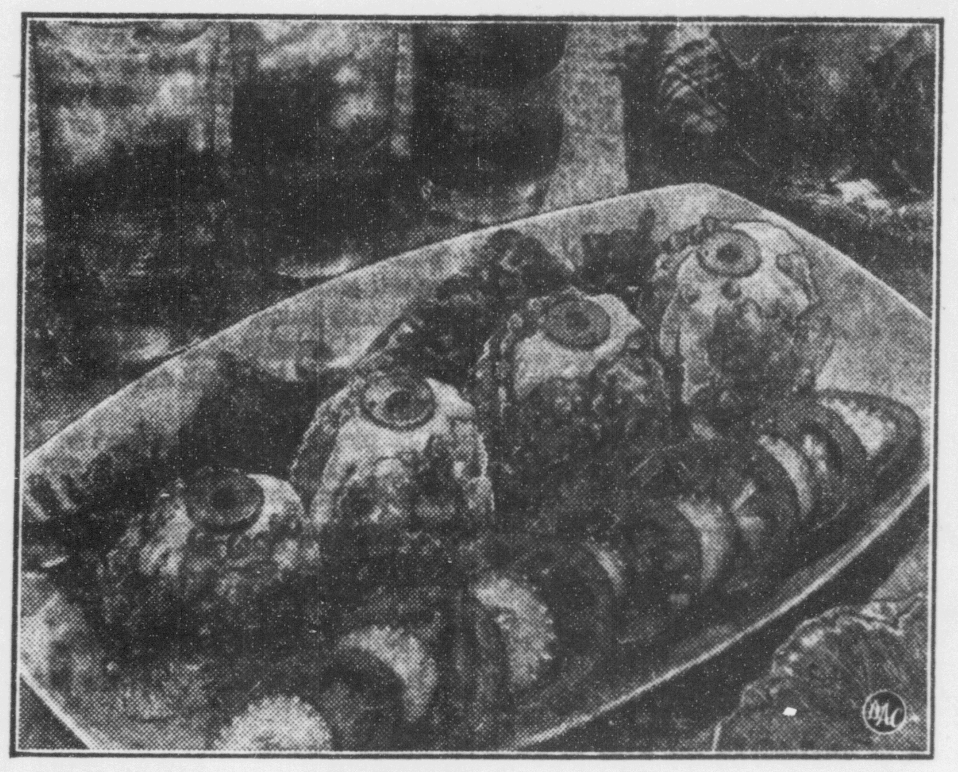
Recommended Summer Eating: Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad



IN the library of food ideas, Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad is high on the list of recommended summer fare. List your qualifications—you'll find them all fulfilled by this cool, refreshing main dish pictured above. The recipe can be found elsewhere on this page.

Canned Peas For Summer

Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad hits the spot on a hot day. Check the demands you make of a summer main dish and you'll find this one comes out with a high score. Taste good? A zesty combination of peas, tuna and celery with subtle spicing you'll enjoy. Economical? One of your best buys, with tuna budget-priced and canned peas a top bargain among all vegetable buys. Easy? Just open two cans, add celery and spices, and mix. Nutritious? Definitely. This salad is high in protein and the B vitamins, and contributes considerable amounts of the other essential vitamins, and minerals.

Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad

1 1-pound can peas
1 7-ounce can tuna, flaked
½ cup diced celery
4 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
Tomato slices

Drain peas; reserve liquid to use in sauces and gravies. Combine peas, tuna, celery, mayonnaise, onion salt and celery salt; mix well. Pack into individual molds; chill and unmold. If desired, garnish molds with salad dressing, paprika and sliced stuffed olives. Arrange around molds additional tomato slices, cucumber and salad greens. Yield: 4 servings.

Chilled Soup For Summer

Chilled soups make very cooling fare for summer meals. Once only served in the swankiest city hotels, chilled soups can now be found on dining tables in homes across the country. Here is one that is easy to make from ingredients on your pantry shelf. The mushroom and chicken flavor blend smoothly to make a delicious luncheon or first course soup. Place the serving bowl in chipped ice to keep the soup icy cold up to the last minute.

Chilled Mushroom Cream Soup

Eleven ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup, 1 cup light cream, 1 cup milk, 3-ounce can chopped broiled mushrooms, 1 tablespoon sherry, optional, chives, or chives salt.

Place contents of can of soup in bowl. Add cream and milk and beat until smooth with rotary egg beater. Drain mushrooms and add broth to soup. Finely chop the drained mushrooms and add to soup. Add sherry if desired and mix well. Place in refrigerator and chill well. Serve topped with a few chives or a sprinkle of chives salt.

Yield: 4 servings.

If you have an electric blender, place all ingredients except chives in the glass container. Cover and turn on the blender. Run until soup is nearly smooth, about 15 seconds. Chill and serve as directed above.

Superlative Potato Salad Easy To Make

Creamy, zesty potato salad can be the basis for many a summertime supper. Popular favorite with everyone, it can be served in innumerable ways as the main dish for a hearty, delicious meal.

There's a two-fold knack in making a superlative salad, however, for delicious texture and flavor. The cooked potatoes should be thoroughly dried out over low heat until light and fluffy, and then moistened with a highly seasoned French dressing and chilled for at least an hour before the salad dressing or mayonnaise is added.

Flavorful warm weather way to dress up a left-over meat meal, arrange the salad on a large platter with sliced, cooked meat, crisp greens, tomato wedges, radishes and ripe olives. Serve with crusty bread or rolls and, of course, tall glasses of cold beer—so right with this type of highly seasoned summertime supper.

Superlative Potato Salad

3 cups diced hot potatoes
½ cup highly seasoned French dressing
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
Seasonings
½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
Lettuce

After potatoes are cooked, place over low heat, shaking in pan to dry potatoes thoroughly. Combine with French dressing, mixing well; chill 1 hour. Add eggs, celery and onion; season to taste with salt, pepper and other seasonings. Blend with salad dressing or mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce with a garnish of watercress. Serves 4. Serve with sliced meat, tomato wedges, ripe olives, crusty rolls or bread and tall glasses of beer for a summertime supper.

Diced cucumbers, radishes, green pepper, cabbage, carrot or other raw vegetable may be added to salad, if desired in place of all or part of the celery.

A fruit cocktail salad suggestion: a melon slice, an unpeeled California Bartlett pear half and a wedge of lime. Garnish with a garden leaf.

August 5-11 Is National Vegetable Week

Originally inaugaurated three years ago, this unusual health food event was designed to minimize economic loss to all concerned, make the best use of vegetables during peak seasons and to develop a co-operative plan to keep consumers well informed on unusual food buys, recipes, and vitamin-powered health-building vegetables.

The National Vegetable Queen, Miss Elaine Tessman, Osseo, Minnesota, an attractive brunette, will be the guest of honor at many related events during the summer.

Governor McKeldin of Maryland has issued an embellished proclamation calling upon the people of his state to join with the agricultural people in recognizing their week. The Governor also invited all the other Governors to issue similar proclamations. Several are already known to have been issued.

Jeannie's Summer Salad

Jean Patchett, America's top cover girl and first American Vegetable Queen uses everything available in fresh vegetables, chopped finely, except the tomatoes which are cut from bottom to stem in 8 segments. The sauce is an appetizing combination of:

1 cup chili sauce
1 cup mayonnaise
2 diced hard boiled eggs
6 chopped stuffed olives
salt and pepper to taste.

Mix thoroughly and chill well. To serve, place leaf lettuce nest on small dish. Place 4 saltines on top edges of lettuce. Put ample serving of chopped vegetables over cracker. Add sauce, topped with crumpled roquefort cheese.

To make more interesting, a little girl's face can be easily made on top of the salad by using 2 stuffed olive slices for eyes, a sliver of pickle for the nose, and a split radish for the mouth.

Vegetables In A Shell

The favorite recipe of Elaine Tessman, Minnesota State Vegetable Queen, is her recipe for "Vegetables in A Shell."

Scone Shell
1½ cups sifted flour
2 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
⅓ cup fat
⅓ cup milk
1 egg beaten

Mix dry ingredients, cut in fat, add egg and milk. Roll on a canvas covered board to 1½ inches larger than the 9 inch pan. Flute the edge. Prick bottom and side of shell. Bake 15 minutes at 425°F. Keep warm until ready to fill with creole mixture.

Creole Filling

¼ lb. bulk pork sausage
¼ lb. ground beef
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup cooked carrot strips
1 cup cooked lima beans
1 cup cooked string beans
1¼ t. salt
¼ cup chopped onion
2 T. butter
¼ cup sour cream
1 cup water
¼ cup sifted flour
⅛ t. pepper

Brown meat in butter in skillet, add onion and pepper. Cook over a low heat until vegetables are tender. Stir in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Add sour cream and water. Stir and cook until all ingredients are blended, about 5 minutes.

Add carrot strips, lima beans and string beans. Heat until the vegetables hot. Serve in scone shell. Serve with tossed salad, hot rolls, oatmeal fruit cookies, berries and cream, coffee.

It's a good plan to keep a supply of sweet yeast rolls or coffee cake from the baker's on hand during the salad season. Two Local Residents Inherit $7,000 Each From Estate

A Cumberland railroader and a Ridgeley housewife are to inherit $7,000 each from grandparents they never saw.

An estate of $35,000 left by Michael F. and Carmella Pouelle is to be shared equally by five surviving heirs. They are John B. Powell, 221 Water Street, his three sisters and a foster cousin.

The sisters are Mrs. Quinn Cessna, Ridgeley; Mrs. Hope Miller and Mrs. June Seeders, both of Baltimore. The cousin is Domenic J. Pouelle, address unknown.

Because the whereabouts of Domenic is not known, final settlement of the estate is being held up. The last known address of Domenic was South Paulina Drive, Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Pouelle were killed in an automobile accident 11 months ago in Quebec, Canada, where they moved in 1920 from their native Italy.

The story of why they never saw their grandchildren goes back to the days following the end of World War I.

One of their two sons, Michael Ralph, hearing that America was the land of opportunity, became a stowaway on a ship bound for the United States in 1918. Since he didn't have the consent of his parents, then living in Naples, he changed his name to "Powell" upon reaching this country. "Powell" was his mother's maiden name.

Michael hired out as a coal miner upon landing and settled in Thomas, W. Va. It was there that the four brother-and-sister heirs mentioned above were born.

Domenic J. is the adopted son of Thomas Pouelle, other son of the man and woman killed in the Canadian crash. Thomas is also dead.

The Pouelles never knew of the whereabouts of their son, Michael, until after his death in 1923. Michael's children never visited their grandparents nor did the latter come to America to see them.

Powell, a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, estimates that all five heirs will receive about $4,400 after the Canadian and United States governments get their share of the estate in inheritance taxes.

Playground Children To Tour Dairy Today

Children of the Cumberland Country Club playground will be taken on a tour of the Queen City Dairy this morning by John D. Liebau, manager.

The group will assemble at Central YMCA at 10 a. m. and transportation to the club will be available after the tour.

Crushed Stone Plant Opened

The Fry Coal and Stone Company, of Mercersburg, Pa., has installed a modern stone crushing plant at the Devil's Backbone quarry of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company on Wills Mountain near Corriganville.

The Mercersburg firm will supply crushed stone to the local firm on a contract basis. The Cement and Supply Company has several contracts to furnish rock for state and county road projects.

The plant, one of the best in this section, can produce from 800 to 1,000 tons each eight hours, according to George K. Steiner, general manager of the local company.

Leonard Fry, president of the Mercersburg company, has several plants in operation. One of them is supplying crushed stone for the Sideling Hill project on Route 40.

Fry has charge of the plant in operation at Devils Backbone and is employing about 15 men. His firm does both the quarrying and crushing.

On August 15, Steiner said, stone will be needed for the State Roads Commission job from Clarysville to Vale Summit where the Cumberland Contracting Company is relocating the highway.

The new plant, one of the few in this immediate area, will make it possible for area contractors to expedite their projects. In recent years the necessary long hauls of crushed stone has posed a problem and at times delayed road work.

Two Local Residents Inherit $7,000 Each From Estate

A Cumberland railroader and a Ridgeley housewife are to inherit $7,000 each from grandparents they never saw.

An estate of $35,000 left by Michael F. and Carmella Pouelle is to be shared equally by five surviving heirs. They are John B. Powell, 221 Water Street, his three sisters and a foster cousin.

The sisters are Mrs. Quinn Cessna, Ridgeley; Mrs. Hope Miller and Mrs. June Seeders, both of Baltimore. The cousin is Domenic J. Pouelle, address unknown.

Because the whereabouts of Domenic is not known, final settlement of the estate is being held up. The last known address of Domenic was South Paulina Drive, Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Pouelle were killed in an automobile accident 11 months ago in Quebec, Canada, where they moved in 1920 from their native Italy.

The story of why they never saw their grandchildren goes back to the days following the end of World War I.

One of their two sons, Michael Ralph, hearing that America was the land of opportunity, became a stowaway on a ship bound for the United States in 1918. Since he didn't have the consent of his parents, then living in Naples, he changed his name to "Powell" upon reaching this country. "Powell" was his mother's maiden name.

Michael hired out as a coal miner upon landing and settled in Thomas, W. Va. It was there that the four brother-and-sister heirs mentioned above were born.

Domenic J. is the adopted son of Thomas Pouelle, other son of the man and woman killed in the Canadian crash. Thomas is also dead.

The Pouelles never knew of the whereabouts of their son, Michael, until after his death in 1923. Michael's children never visited their grandparents nor did the latter come to America to see them.

Powell, a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, estimates that all five heirs will receive about $4,400 after the Canadian and United States governments get their share of the estate in inheritance taxes.

Crushed Stone Plant Opened

The Fry Coal and Stone Company, of Mercersburg, Pa., has installed a modern stone crushing plant at the Devil's Backbone quarry of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company on Wills Mountain near Corriganville.

The Mercersburg firm will supply crushed stone to the local firm on a contract basis. The Cement and Supply Company has several contracts to furnish rock for state and county road projects.

The plant, one of the best in this section, can produce from 800 to 1,000 tons each eight hours, according to George K. Steiner, general manager of the local company.

Leonard Fry, president of the Mercersburg company, has several plants in operation. One of them is supplying crushed stone for the Sideling Hill project on Route 40.

Fry has charge of the plant in operation at Devils Backbone and is employing about 15 men. His firm does both the quarrying and crushing.

On August 15, Steiner said, stone will be needed for the State Roads Commission job from Clarysville to Vale Summit where the Cumberland Contracting Company is relocating the highway.

The new plant, one of the few in this immediate area, will make it possible for area contractors to expedite their projects. In recent years the necessary long hauls of crushed stone has posed a problem and at times delayed road work.

Board Explains View In Teacher Salary Dispute

Says County Has Done All Possible

The County Commissioners yesterday told a Legislative Council subcommittee on teachers' salaries why they feel the county cannot afford to grant another pay increase.

Views of the board were explained in a prepared statement read at a meeting of the subcommittee here yesterday morning. Members of the board were unable to attend.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has declared that pay boosts for teachers are a local problem. The board has maintained it cannot grant another increase without causing a hardship in the form of higher taxes.

"It is not the board's intention," the statement said, "to agree with or condemn the position taken by Governor McKeldin in this matter. The question of financing proposed increases in state contributions to teachers' salaries is a state matter. However, the problem of granting increases on a local level is necessarily the concern of the County Commissioners.

"Prior to making the levy in April 1951, the County Commissioners carefully studied and considered a request for additional salary for county school teachers. Representatives of the Teachers' Association met with the Board and advised the Board that it is difficult to secure the services of qualified teachers in the lower or below $3,000 salary brackets, and that there was a real possibility that there would be an exodus of teachers from Allegany County in the 1951-52 term because of inadequate salaries.

"Our investigation disclosed that there would be 124 teachers in Allegany county for the next school term who would receive less than $3,000 and the County Commissioners, although faced with an increased tax rate, felt that some salary increase should be granted to these teachers, and therefore approved a budget with increases of $100 to each of these teachers over and above the local schedule and in addition to the automatic annual increase of $100. This increase was granted in the nature of a standard of living adjustment to those teachers most seriously affected by the rise in the cost of living.

"Allegany county now pays and for a number of years has paid its teachers $100 per year more than the state schedule for Maryland calls for and the entire amount of this differential (approximately $56,000 for the ensuing term) is paid by the County Commissioners from tax revenues. This item has therefore been increased another $12,400 for next year. It is also worthy of note that Allegany county, by local act, also contributes approximately $20,000 per year to retired school teachers.

"The following is a schedule of local teachers' salaries to be paid under the present budget of the Board of Education for the 1951-52 term:

Total number teachers	561
Receiving less than $3,000	124
Receiving $3,000 to $3,400	64
Receiving $3,600 to $3,800	110
Receiving $3,900	162
Receiving $4,000 or more	101
	561

"The County Commissioners felt that in the light of local economic conditions and an already increased tax rate, that the increases granted county school teachers represented all that could be done for these teachers for the ensuing year in fairness to the general public and consistent with sound political economy.

"The position of the board in this matter was made public in a statement accompanying the levy in April, 1951. This statement and the records of the negotiations between this board and the Board of Education or the Teachers' Association will be made available to your committee upon request.

"If the board can be of further service to your committee please let us know."

Striker Not Entitled To Jobless Pay, Henderson Rules In Appeal

A worker who becomes unemployed because of a strike in which he has participated is not entitled to unemployment compensation, Associate Judge George Henderson ruled yesterday in a decision handed down in Circuit Court.

The opinion was filed in the case of John W. Broll against the Davis Coal and Coke Company and the state Employment Security Board.

Judge Henderson upheld the board's decision and dismissed Broll's appeal from the decision.

According to court record, Broll stopped work on September 14, 1949, taking part in a labor dispute between his company and the United Mine Workers union.

His unemployment, the court found, "was due to stoppage of work existing because of the dispute." Under the law, the decision noted, Broll was therefore disqualified from unemployment benefits.

Judge Henderson added that Broll failed to apply for maintenance work at the Davis Coal and Coke Company which would have been available to him if he had applied and disregarded his union obligation.

Broll later filed a claim for unemployment compensation benefits. The case was heard by a special examiner, who approved the claim.

Later, however, the case went to the Employment Security Board, which disallowed Broll's claim.

In his decision, Judge Henderson found the board's decision of March 16, 1950 "complete, logical and legally correct," and said it "can be affirmed without further discussion."

Broll's appeal was one of 10 unemployment compensation cases heard Monday in Circuit Court.

Striker Not Entitled To Jobless Pay, Henderson Rules In Appeal

A worker who becomes unemployed because of a strike in which he has participated is not entitled to unemployment compensation, Associate Judge George Henderson ruled yesterday in a decision handed down in Circuit Court.

The opinion was filed in the case of John W. Broll against the Davis Coal and Coke Company and the state Employment Security Board.

According to court record, Broll stopped work on September 14, 1949, taking part in a labor dispute between his company and the United Mine Workers union.

His unemployment, the court found, "was due to stoppage of work existing because of the dispute." Under the law, the decision noted, Broll was therefore disqualified from unemployment benefits.

Judge Henderson added that Broll failed to apply for maintenance work at the Davis Coal and Coke Company which would have been available to him if he had applied and disregarded his union obligation.

Broll later filed a claim for unemployment compensation benefits. The case was heard by a special examiner, who approved the claim.

Later, however, the case went to the Employment Security Board, which disallowed Broll's claim.

In his decision, Judge Henderson found the board's decision of March 16, 1950 "complete, logical and legally correct," and said it "can be affirmed without further discussion."

Don't Forget To Turn On The Gas

Frequently, we read of some emotional young lady who decides to end it all, runs for the bathroom, locks the door, scratches her wrist with a dull razor blade, and then hollers for help. Sometimes the police come and break down the barrier which results in the leading characters getting their names in the paper. Apparently, it is foolish to leave razor blades lying around (although some bring their own), and it seems wise to take the locks off bathroom doors.

Usually the big scene comes after a row with a man who turns out to be a cad in the ladys estimation, and probably she is right. It is my opinion few 'women ever deliberately hurt a man if they are treated halfway decently, although some are prone to suicide, or think they are.

There was a humorous female writer in New York who was somewhat lugubrious and used to turn on the gas every time her beau stood her up on a date, although she never opened it up wide. She got so she knew the members of the pulmotor squad by their first names. The revival would be followed by a friendly party and a couple of drinks apiece. As the boys left, one of them would usually caution her about overdoing it. "Be careful, honey,' he would say. "Just let it leak a little, always give us time to get here."

One of the most spectacular attempts was made years ago by the beautiful, blonde wife of a dashing restaurant man who ran a gaudy joint in Columbus Circle. The couple lived on the top floor of the building which was about six stories high. Sticking out from the fifth floor was a large triangular sign that flashed the name of this flea bag in electric lights. It seems about 4 o'clock one morning the lady and her husband got into a big row in their apartment over some trifle like him making eyes at one of the cash customers. One word led to another as they frequently do at that hour. While the argument proceeded, she was undressing so by the time it reached its climax she was clad like Lady Godiva.

Suddenly she announced she was going to jump, it being in the summer time when the weather was warm and the windows were open. Of course, there was no garment to grab her by, and she plunged a distance of about three feet where she caught on the electric sign and clung to it, having changed her mind enroute. The flashing bulbs kept her warm and lit up the scene for the onlookers. It was surprising how many arrived at that hour to watch and give bits of advice before the fire department turned up, and some lucky Joe climbed a ladder, gallantly wrapped a blanket around her, and brought her to the street. No further attempts were reported, although that one got plenty of publicity.

When I was a reporter on the New York Herald, there was an army officer who tried to commit suicide, but only grazed his ear which did little damage beyond putting a permanent crease in it. The city editor called me over and told me to go to Governor's Island to ask the commanding officer what he thought about the matter. He was a hard-boiled guy with definite opinions.

"Any man in the service who is that bad a shot ought to get thrown out," he said with great finality. "We need good marksmen."

A keen observer, who has hung around locker rooms, can find every Saturday and Sunday discouraged golfers about ready to swallow bichloride of mercury for which there are specific antidotes. There is the famous story of Tommy Armour and Sam Snead after the latter had missed several putts in an open championship and finally one of about 20 inches which cost him the title. He later asked the astute Armour to follow him for a few holes to make suggestions. He obligingly did and then called him aside.

"What should I do?" asked Snead.

"Go around to a drugstore and buy an old-fashioned straight razor and then cut your throat," advised Tommy.

No further attempts were reported, although that one got plenty of publicity.

When I was a reporter on the New York Herald, there was an army officer who tried to commit suicide, but only grazed his ear which did little damage beyond putting a permanent crease in it. The city editor called me over and told me to go to Governor's Island to ask the commanding officer what he thought about the matter. He was a hard-boiled guy with definite opinions.

"Any man in the service who is that bad a shot ought to get thrown out," he said with great finality. "We need good marksmen."

A keen observer, who has hung around locker rooms, can find every Saturday and Sunday discouraged golfers about ready to swallow bichloride of mercury for which there are specific antidotes. There is the famous story of Tommy Armour and Sam Snead after the latter had missed several putts in an open championship and finally one of about 20 inches which cost him the title. He later asked the astute Armour to follow him for a few holes to make suggestions. He obligingly did and then called him aside.

"What should I do?" asked Snead.

"Go around to a drugstore and buy an old-fashioned straight razor and then cut your throat," advised Tommy.

How about the Russians getting friendly in a peace conference? That proves there's a first time for everything.

Seems to me they are mixing from MacArthur's prescription. They are doing just about what he was derricked for.

•—•—•

They'll probably let the thirty-eighth parallel stay where it is, treat a couple of North Koreans for yellow jaundice and the war will rattle down in history as a dash on a dotted line.

One thing the Koreans will never understand. How so many strangers got in a family fight.

Charlie sat on the sidelines patiently while Rita took an hour's golf lesson, then they got in his car and drove off for cocktails at the beach.

The public's first official look at Rita will probably come at the premiere of "Captain Horatio Hornblower" at the Warner Theater August 8. Gilbert Roland, her most steady escort, has asked her to go with him.

Posing As Civil War Veteran, Man With Unique Heart Bilks Hospitals

RENO, Nev.—(AP)—The Veterans Administration said today a man posing as a 104-year-old Civil War veteran while receiving expensive hospital accommodations here has done the same thing under 40 different names in hospitals all over the country.

Edward F. Reed, manager of the Reno V. A. Center, said files sent from Washington showed that Walter Engle Urwiler, 69, has publicly collapsed of apparent heart attack all over the country and received extraordinary treatment by posing as a Civil War veteran.

Red's statement followed a Veterans' Administration check of the story told by "Lt. John N. Boyer," who arrived in Reno July 17 and told of hitchhiking from an old soldiers' home at San Diego. The bearded Boyer said he was 104. He showed papers saying Boyer served with the 184th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Reed said V. A. files disclosed that Urwiler, born in Philadelphia and possessed of a unique heart condition, had used some two score names—including Boyer, Larson, Hansen and Keating—in gaining admittance to free room and board at hospitals over the country.

Arriving in Reno, the man appeared to be suffering from a severe heart attack.

He was taken to a hospital and given a private room, private nurses, an oxygen tent and other expensive hospital attention at no expense to him.

A few days later hospital officials learned Boyer was not listed among surviving Civil War Veterans. They transferred him to a less luxurious ward. Last Sunday Boyer checked himself out of the hospital as recovered.

That night a man who said he was Robert Larson, of Chicago, a 104-year-old Civil War veteran, showed up at Susanville, Calif., 90 miles north of here—and promptly suffered a heart attack. He was given a private room and special attention at a Susanville hospital.

The V. A. said Urwiler's peculiar "fluttering diaphragm," accompanied by a heart rate up to 300 beats per minute, has led uncounted doctors and nurses to think he was dying. It said the unique heart condition has been written up for times in American Medical Association Journals since 1936.

The journals said he has been in many hospitals under various names and in addition to being listed as a Civil War veteran has at times described himself as a deep sea diver, miner, trapper, Texas deputy sheriff and regular Army officer who fought the Japanese on Tarawa during World War II.

Rabid Bats Move North In Mexico Toward Texas

AUSTIN, Texas — (AP) — Dr. Kenneth Young, Texas state health department rabies expert, said today rabid vampire bats had been found in Mexico 100 miles southwest of Presidio County in the Texas Big Bend country.

He considered the situation "serious enough for us to watch it closely."

His information on the northward spread of the disease came from Dr. Aurelio Malaga-Alba, who Dr. Young said is in charge of Mexico's rabies control program.

"Those bats can travel 30 miles in one night, making it possible for them to cross into the state in a few days," Dr. Young said.

He said Dr. Malaga-Alba told him the carriers are a particular species of vampire bat which are extremely vicious and fight among themselves.

"They infect each other. Then they spread rabies to any animal or human they bite," Dr. Young said.

He said the vampires live entirely on blood. Swooping down at night, they attach themselves to any warm-blooded animal. They hang on with sharp front teeth until they drink their fill.

The Mexican government is cooperating with the state health department in charting the bat rabies' spread, Dr. Young reported. He said Dr. Malaga-Alba is now visiting the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau in Washington.

The disease was first reported in 1914 by a Brazilian scientist. It has spread steadily northward since then.

The area of the United States is about 1,905 million acres, excluding large rivers and lakes.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are "big-hearted" people "unselfish"?

Answer: No. They are unselfconscious, and are often genuinely surprised if you are grateful to them. They put themselves in the other fellow's place and enjoy the pleasure they give him as if they were feeling it themselves. Such people are altogether different from the man who will do anything you ask him because he is afraid you will be angry if he says no, or the one who tries to atone for his own shortcomings by doing things for you at his own expense. The really "bighearted" person has got what he wants from life for himself, and has a surplus of happiness to share with his neighbors.

Do Americans "idealize immaturity"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Harry A. Overstreet, noted philosopher and author of "The Mature Mind." The American "accent on youth" makes it considerably harder for us than for people of most other countries to adjust ourselves to the approach of old age. We must train ourselves beforehand to avoid the feeling that there's nothing more to live for once youth is past, by developing interests and tastes that will not fade with the year. Your body grows old much sooner than your mind does, so that mental activities can make life worth living long after you have "slowed down" as a swimmer or a tennis player.

Will most people "gyp you if they can"?

Answer: Certainly not. The majority of people have acquired a conscience which inhibits them from outright dishonesty, and still more from taking advantage of a person who is honest with them. Besides that, a mature-minded person realizes that the sense of security he gets from a life of fair play is worth more than any profit he can get from cheating. There are people who will "gyp you if they can" for various neurotic reasons, but they do not represent the mass of mankind Being always on the lookout for dishonesty in others usually means you are attributing your own conscious or unconscious wishes to them.

The journals said he has been in many hospitals under various names and in addition to being listed as a Civil War veteran has at times described himself as a deep sea diver, miner, trapper, Texas deputy sheriff and regular Army officer who fought the Japanese on Tarawa during World War II.

Rabid Bats Move North In Mexico Toward Texas

AUSTIN, Texas—(AP)—Dr. Kenneth Young, Texas state health department rabies expert, said today rabid vampire bats had been found in Mexico 100 miles southwest of Presidio County in the Texas Big Bend country.

He considered the situation "serious enough for us to watch it closely."

His information on the northward spread of the disease came from Dr. Aurelio Malaga-Alba, who Dr. Young said is in charge of Mexico's rabies control program.

"Those bats can travel 30 miles in one night, making it possible for them to cross into the state in a few days," Dr. Young said.

He said Dr. Malaga-Alba told him the carriers are a particular species of vampire bat which are extremely vicious and fight among themselves.

"They infect each other. Then they spread rabies to any animal or human they bite," Dr. Young said.

He said the vampires live entirely on blood. Swooping down at night, they attach themselves to any warm-blooded animal. They hang on with sharp front teeth until they drink their fill.

The Mexican government is cooperating with the state health department in charting the bat rabies' spread, Dr. Young reported. He said Dr. Malaga-Alba is now visiting the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau in Washington.

The disease was first reported in 1914 by a Brazilian scientist. It has spread steadily northward since then.

The area of the United States is about 1,905 million acres, excluding large rivers and lakes.

Mirror Of Your Mind

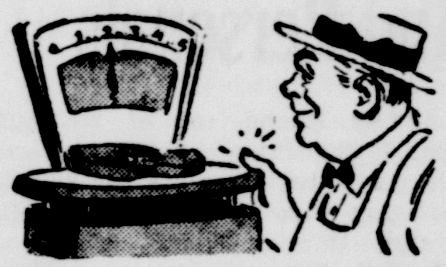
By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are "big-hearted" people "unselfish"?

Answer: No. They are unselfconscious, and are often genuinely surprised if you are grateful to them. They put themselves in the other fellow's place and enjoy the pleasure they give him as if they were feeling it themselves. Such people are altogether different from the man who will do anything you ask him because he is afraid you will be angry if he says no, or the one who tries to atone for his own shortcomings by doing things for you at his own expense. The really "bighearted" person has got what he wants from life for himself, and has a surplus of happiness to share with his neighbors.

Do Americans "idealize immaturity"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Harry A. Overstreet, noted philosopher and author of "The Mature Mind." The American "accent on youth" makes it considerably harder for us than for people of most other countries to adjust ourselves to the approach of old age. We must train ourselves beforehand to avoid the feeling that there's nothing more to live for once youth is past, by developing interests and tastes that will not fade with the year. Your body grows old much sooner than your mind does, so that mental activities can make life worth living long after you have "slowed down" as a swimmer or a tennis player.



Will most people "gyp you if they can"?

Answer: Certainly not. The majority of people have acquired a conscience which inhibits them from outright dishonesty, and still more from taking advantage of a person who is honest with them. Besides that, a mature-minded person realizes that the sense of security he gets from a life of fair play is worth more than any profit he can get from cheating. There are people who will "gyp you if they can" for various neurotic reasons, but they do not represent the mass of mankind. Being always on the lookout for dishonesty in others usually means you are attributing your own conscious or unconscious wishes to them.

The automobile had passed a car driven by an uncle of the boys, William Hershberger, also of Meyersdale R. D. 1, just a few seconds before the crash. It is believed failure to negotiate a curve caused the crash.

Following recovery, he went back into the front lines.

Pvt. Welch was a student in Keyser schools. The class, with which he would have graduated last May, honored him by dedicating its year book to him.

Surviving are his father, four brothers, Keith B. Welch, with the U. S. Navy Air Corps, at Westover Air Base, Massachusetts; Kermit B. Welch, Zanesville, Ohio; Adrian L. Welch, U. S. Bridge Is Closed To Pedestrians

KEYSER, W. Va.—The south end of the Keyser-McCoole bridge is being closed by a barrier to all persons, except employes. There have been many complaints recently that persons, including a number of youths, have gone onto the bridge during the day and in the evenings, and have thrown articles from the bridge over the streets, onto house tops and into the streets below that have made conditions hazardous for persons living or walking below.

The final act was the tossing of a piece of reinforcing metal from the high point of the bridge over the street below, that fell close to a mother and her young daughter.

If either had been struck by the metal, it might have been a very serious matter, even death, according to Police Chief Claude Martin, who investigated.

Persons walking on the bridge in the future, until the work is completed, will be prosecuted.

Mrs. Chapman has two adopted children, Fred Chapman, employe of the Fuch's Baking company in Miami, Fla., and Mrs. George Stapleton, Jr., of Oslamorado, Fla.

Bridge Is Closed To Pedestrians

KEYSER, W. Va.—The south end of the Keyser-McCoole bridge is being closed by a barrier to all persons, except employes. There have been many complaints recently that persons, including a number of youths, have gone onto the bridge during the day and in the evenings, and have thrown articles from the bridge over the streets, onto house tops and into the streets below that have made conditions hazardous for persons living or walking below.

The final act was the tossing of a piece of reinforcing metal from the high point of the bridge over the street below, that fell close to a mother and her young daughter.

If either had been struck by the metal, it might have been a very serious matter, even death, according to Police Chief Claude Martin, who investigated.

Persons walking on the bridge in the future, until the work is completed, will be prosecuted.

Tigers Blank Yankees, 6-0

Bob Cain's Relief Pitching Highlight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—A brilliant relief pitching effort by Bob Cain preserved a shutout for the Detroit Tigers and starter Hal White today as the Bengals defeated the New York Yankees, 6-0. The loss cut the Yanks' first-place edge over Boston's Red Sox and Cleveland's Indians.

The blanking was New York's third of the season, Cain and Early Wynn, Cleveland righthander, previously having held the champions scoreless. Detroit led 2-0, when Cain entered the game with the bases full in the seventh, none out and a two balls and no strike count on Pinch-Hitter Johnny Hopp. His first pitch was a ball.

Cain then fired three curves past Hopp for a called strike-out and fanned both Billy Martin and Gene Woodling on sweeping hooks to retire the side. The slim lefthander retired the side in order in the final pair of innings, wiffing two more in the process. Box:

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 2 (INS)—The veteran Billy Talbert of New York blasted Australian Davis Cup ace Frank Sedgman out in the quarter final round today of the 25th annual Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Talbert, the 32-year-old stylist, took the measure of the top-seeded foreign entrant, 2-6, 10-8, 6-4.

In losing, Sedgman joined his three other countrymen, who bowed out of the tourney yesterday.

In the other quarter-final match played today second-seeded Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, O., downed Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-1, 3-6, 12-10.

Barnum Paces All-American Golf Tourney

Shoots 8-Under-Par 64 In First Round, Demaret Runner-up

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Little regarded John Barnum, hulking 220-pound pro of Grand Rapids, Mich., shot an eight-under-par 64 with a record cracking 29 on the last nine to take the first round lead today in Tam O'Shanter's $15,000 All-American Golf jamboree.

Texas-born Barnum, who turned pro four years ago after a successful amateur career around Chicago, needed only 25 putts in fashioning his 35-29 card against Tam's 36-36—72 par for 6,915 yards.

He one-putted every green but the 10th on the back nine in his fantastic windup which was a stroke better than Byron Nelson's record 30 set in 1945.

Putts dropped from three to 20 feet for the 39-year-old, 6 foot 4 inch wizard as he grabbed a three-stroke lead over gaudily-garbed Jimmy Demaret and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who came in with 67 scores in the first lap towards top prize of $2,250.

For four hours Demaret had led the money-hungry pack of 116 pros with his 34-33—67, only to relinquish it close to nightfall to Barnum, whose biggest victory since 1947 was winning the Michigan pro-amateur event several weeks ago. His 64 was only one stroke shy of matching the course record set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1948.

Barnum did much to bring the pro contingent to the front in the opening round.

Frank Stranahan opened defense of his All-American amateur crown with a sizzling pair of 33's or 66 which looked as if it would put the play-for-pay boys to shame. The Toledo weightlifter stampeded to a six stroke lead over the simon-pure field of 31.

Trailing him with 72's in this bracket were Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., Mexican amateur champion and North Texas State team star, and Tom Nieporte of Cincinnati, Ohio State's national collegiate champion.

The All-American women's tournament lead was split between pros Babe Zaharias and Beverly Hanson of Pasadena, Calif., each with even feminine par of 76.

Grouped at 68 in the pro pack were Fred Haas New Orleans; Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich.; Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla, Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., and Dutch Harrison, Chicago.

The 69 shooters included Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., Ansel Snow, Myrtle Beach, S. C.; Jack Shields, Chicago, Jack Burke, Houston, Tex., and Jack Mann, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The pre-tourney favorite, Lloyd Mangrum, jotted down a 36-34—70 while his bodyguard of two uniformed policemen wearily watched over his shoulder after shadowing him around the course.

Mangrum has been guarded around-the-clock since receiving a telephone threat last Saturday night warning him not to win the St. Paul Open. The next day he won it, regardless.

In all 41 players matched or broke par on the TAM playground. The biggest group in the category was bracketed at 71. Among the 17 in this group was defending All-American Champion Bobby Locke.

Schoeneman Is Dark Horse Candidate For Commissioner's Job

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Chicago Herald-American today said that George J. Shoeneman, who retired a week ago as U. S. Internal Revenue Commissioner, is the "dark horse" candidate who "probably will" be named next week to succeed A. B. Chandler as commissioner of baseball.

Schoeneman, a veteran of more than four decades of government service, has been head of the Internal Revenue Bureau since July 1, 1947. He has supervised collection of billions of dollars in income and excise taxes. His salary is $10,000 annually.

The Herald-American said that Schoeneman, who is 62, will be the recommendation of the special screening committee which reports to the major league club owners at a special meeting of New York City next Tuesday.

Del Webb, one of the members of the screening committee, was reported to have visited the White House yesterday, the paper said, presumably to discuss with President Truman Schoeneman's availability.

Congress Urged Not To Tamper With Baseball

Keating Is Lukewarm About Investigation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) said today that "congress had better be darned careful before it starts tampering with baseball."

Keating is a member of a judiciary subcommittee studying whether baseball violates anti-trust laws.

The committee had an open date today. It goes back into action tomorrow with George Trautman, boss of the minors, again on the stand. Trautman will finish reading a 31-page statement he started yesterday.

Some committee members, notably Chairman Celler (D-NY), have suggested that baseball needs a rather complete overhauling. Celler suggested that the future may bring four major leagues, and said baseball should start right now reorienting its thinking.

Keating told a reporter that he takes a different view.

"I have been impressed with how complicated baseball is," he said. "And I've also been impressed by the testimony of the men who have studied the game for years.

"We can't possibly become experts on baseball in a week or a month. I think we will have to pay a lot of attention to what they have to say.

What they have had to say, so far, adds up to about this:

"If you don't want to destroy baseball, you had better leave it pretty much alone."

Keating said he doesn't think the committee had any business looking into baseball in the first place.

"From the start I've been lukewarm about conducting an investigation of baseball," he said.

"At a time when the world is on fire it seems to me that we have more important things to do. I still think so.

"But a majority of the committee thought otherwise. Having gotten into it. I think we must find out what it's all about."

Keating has been doing that, by the way. Yesterday Trautman mentioned sending a player out on option, and Keating immediately asked for—and got—a detailed explanation of what it means.

(A major league club which sends a player out on option has the right to recall him, usually at the end of the year.)

Boston Clouts Ball, Trounces Browns Twice

Trails New Yorkers By Single Game After 12-1, 11-6 Victories

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox regained some of their lost ground in the American League's blistering pennant race today with a 12-1 and 11-6 doubleheader sweep over the St. Louis Browns.

Ray Scarborough kept the Brownies' eight hits well scattered during the opener. But they became savage in the seventh inning while scoring all of their nightcap's runs.

When the Red Sox came to bat in the bottom of that frame, their margin had been whittled to 7-6 as Satchel Paige took over the St. Louis mound.

Paige filled the bases by passing Clyde Vollmer and Lou Boudreau after Billy Goodman had signed with none out.

Charlie Maxwell, who had bashed two previous pinch-hit homers, then went in to bat for pitcher Bill Wight and lashed a grandslammer into the right centerfield bleachers to sew up the game and return his forces into second place, only a game back of the New York Yankees. Box:

Tigers Blank Yankees, 6-0

Bob Cain's Relief Pitching Highlight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—A brilliant relief pitching effort by Bob Cain preserved a shutout for the Detroit Tigers and starter Hal White today as the Bengals defeated the New York Yankees, 6-0. The loss cut the Yanks' first-place edge over Boston's Red Sox and Cleveland's Indians.

The blanking was New York's third of the season, Cain and Early Wynn, Cleveland righthander, previously having held the champions scoreless. Detroit led 2-0, when Cain entered the game with the bases full in the seventh, none out and a two balls and no strike count on Pinch-Hitter Johnny Hopp. His first pitch was a ball.

Cain then fired three curves past Hopp for a called strike-out and fanned both Billy Martin and Gene Woodling on sweeping hooks to retire the side. The slim lefthander retired the side in order in the final pair of innings, wiffing two more in the process. Box:

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Big Bob Rush checked the New York Giants with four hits as the Chicago Cubs pounded out a 6 to 3 triumph today.

The victory gave the Cubs an edge of three games to two in the series and dropped the second place New Yorkers ten full games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Billy Talbert Beats Sedgman

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 2 (INS)—The veteran Billy Talbert of New York blasted Australian Davis Cup ace Frank Sedgman out in the quarter final round today of the 25th annual Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships.

Talbert, the 32-year-old stylist, took the measure of the top-seeded foreign entrant, 2-6, 10-8, 6-4.

In losing, Sedgman joined his three other countrymen, who bowed out of the tourney yesterday.

In the other quarter-final match played today second-seeded Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, O., downed Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-1, 3-6, 12-10.

Shoots 8-Under-Par 64 In First Round, Demaret Runner-up

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Little regarded John Barnum, hulking 220-pound pro of Grand Rapids, Mich., shot an eight-under-par 64 with a record cracking 29 on the last nine to take the first round lead today in Tam O'Shanter's $15,000 All-American Golf jamboree.

Texas-born Barnum, who turned pro four years ago after a successful amateur career around Chicago, needed only 25 putts in fashioning his 35-29 card against Tam's 36-36—72 par for 6,915 yards.

He one-putted every green but the 10th on the back nine in his fantastic windup which was a stroke better than Byron Nelson's record 30 set in 1945.

Putts dropped from three to 20 feet for the 39-year-old, 6 foot 4 inch wizard as he grabbed a three-stroke lead over gaudily-garbed Jimmy Demaret and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who came in with 67 scores in the first lap towards top prize of $2,250.

For four hours Demaret had led the money-hungry pack of 116 pros with his 34-33—67, only to relinquish it close to nightfall to Barnum, whose biggest victory since 1947 was winning the Michigan pro-amateur event several weeks ago. His 64 was only one stroke shy of matching the course record set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1948.

Barnum did much to bring the pro contingent to the front in the opening round.

Frank Stranahan opened defense of his All-American amateur crown with a sizzling pair of 33's or 66 which looked as if it would put the play-for-pay boys to shame. The Toledo weightlifter stampeded to a six stroke lead over the simon-pure field of 31.

Trailing him with 72's in this bracket were Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., Mexican amateur champion and North Texas State team star, and Tom Nieporte of Cincinnati, Ohio State's national collegiate champion.

The All-American women's tournament lead was split between pros Babe Zaharias and Beverly Hanson of Pasadena, Calif., each with even feminine par of 76.

Grouped at 68 in the pro pack were Fred Haas New Orleans; Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich.; Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla, Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., and Dutch Harrison, Chicago.

The 69 shooters included Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., Ansel Snow, Myrtle Beach, S. C.; Jack Shields, Chicago, Jack Burke, Houston, Tex., and Jack Mann, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The pre-tourney favorite, Lloyd Mangrum, jotted down a 36-34—70 while his bodyguard of two uniformed policemen wearily watched over his shoulder after shadowing him around the course.

Mangrum has been guarded around-the-clock since receiving a telephone threat last Saturday night warning him not to win the St. Paul Open. The next day he won it, regardless.

In all 41 players matched or broke par on the TAM playground. The biggest group in the category was bracketed at 71. Among the 17 in this group was defending All-American Champion Bobby Locke.

Schoeneman Is Dark Horse Candidate For Commissioner's Job

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Chicago Herald-American today said that George J. Shoeneman, who retired a week ago as U. S. Internal Revenue Commissioner, is the "dark horse" candidate who "probably will" be named next week to succeed A. B. Chandler as commissioner of baseball.

Schoeneman, a veteran of more than four decades of government service, has been head of the Internal Revenue Bureau since July 1, 1947. He has supervised collection of billions of dollars in income and excise taxes. His salary is $10,000 annually.

The Herald-American said that Schoeneman, who is 62, will be the recommendation of the special screening committee which reports to the major league club owners at a special meeting of New York City next Tuesday.

Del Webb, one of the members of the screening committee, was reported to have visited the White House yesterday, the paper said, presumably to discuss with President Truman Schoeneman's availability.

Babb Motors Score 14th Straight Win

Babb Motors, holders of first place in the High School Rec Softball League, made it 14 in a row yesterday by defeating Ridgedale on the Rolling Mill diamond, 11-10. The league leaders have posted 18 wins in 21 games played.

Milton White with four hits and Wayne Holly with a homer and triple headed the winners. Donnie Ziler homered for Ridgedale. Score:

Congress Urged Not To Tamper With Baseball

Keating Is Lukewarm About Investigation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) said today that "congress had better be darned careful before it starts tampering with baseball."

Keating is a member of a judiciary subcommittee studying whether baseball violates anti-trust laws.

The committee had an open date today. It goes back into action tomorrow with George Trautman, boss of the minors, again on the stand. Trautman will finish reading a 31-page statement he started yesterday.

Some committee members, notably Chairman Celler (D-NY), have suggested that baseball needs a rather complete overhauling. Celler suggested that the future may bring four major leagues, and said baseball should start right now reorienting its thinking.

Keating told a reporter that he takes a different view.

"I have been impressed with how complicated baseball is," he said. "And I've also been impressed by the testimony of the men who have studied the game for years.

"We can't possibly become experts on baseball in a week or a month. I think we will have to pay a lot of attention to what they have to say.

What they have had to say, so far, adds up to about this:

"If you don't want to destroy baseball, you had better leave it pretty much alone."

Keating said he doesn't think the committee had any business looking into baseball in the first place.

"From the start I've been lukewarm about conducting an investigation of baseball," he said.

"At a time when the world is on fire it seems to me that we have more important things to do. I still think so.

"But a majority of the committee thought otherwise. Having gotten into it. I think we must find out what it's all about."

Keating has been doing that, by the way. Yesterday Trautman mentioned sending a player out on option, and Keating immediately asked for—and got—a detailed explanation of what it means.

Mountain City Nine Host Today At 6:30

Frostburg's Little Leaguers suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of Hagerstown yesterday in the opening game of the best-of-three series for sectional honors at Hagerstown. The score was 19-1.

Zaccaria and Wolfe limited the Mountain City team to four hits while the Hub City aggregation jumped on Wilson, Patterson and Hunter for an even dozen safeties and took advanage of the 11 fielding bobbles charged to the visitors.

Doyle with two doubles and a single led the Hagerstown offensive. Jennings rapped a pair of two-baggers and McPhail garnered two singles. Parker accounted for two of the four hits credited to Frostburg.

Hagerstown can sew it up or Frostburg can even up the series when the teams clash in the second game today at 6:30 p. m. at the Frostburg Ball Park. If Frostburg can turn the tables today, the third and deciding game of the series is set for Saturday afternoon in Frostburg. The score:

Boston Clouts Ball, Trounces Browns Twice

Trails New Yorkers By Single Game After 12-1, 11-6 Victories

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox regained some of their lost ground in the American League's blistering pennant race today with a 12-1 and 11-6 doubleheader sweep over the St. Louis Browns.

Ray Scarborough kept the Brownies' eight hits well scattered during the opener. But they became savage in the seventh inning while scoring all of their nightcap's runs.

When the Red Sox came to bat in the bottom of that frame, their margin had been whittled to 7-6 as Satchel Paige took over the St. Louis mound.

Paige filled the bases by passing Clyde Vollmer and Lou Boudreau after Billy Goodman had signed with none out.

Charlie Maxwell, who had bashed two previous pinch-hit homers, then went in to bat for pitcher Bill Wight and lashed a grandslammer into the right centerfield bleachers to sew up the game and return his forces into second place, only a game back of the New York Yankees. Box:

The American Zone champion must play the European winner, Sweden for the right to challenge Australia for the trophy.

Robinson Given Hero's Welcome

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (INS) — Sugar Ray Robinson, wearing a light yellow suit, came home to a hero's welcome today, although he is just another ex-champion.

The former middleweight titleholder, who recently lost his crown to Randy Turpin in England, said it was "hard to hold back the tears at this wonderful reception."

A special New York city scroll was presented to the fighter from Harlem by Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, who said:

"Robinson is only a temporary ex-champion and the city is honoring him because he is a champion both in and out of the ring and for the good he has done for others."

A crowd of about 2,500 watched the ceremony on a small stand erected in front of city hall and often cheered the former champion who arrived this morning on the Liberte with plans to begin training soon for his September return match with Turpin.

Mexico And U. S. Net Teams Meet

Larsen Opposes Vega, Flam Faces Llamas

RYE, N. Y., Aug 2 (AP)—Lefty Art Larsen, the new stormy petrel of American tennis, makes his bid for Davis Cup recognition tomorrow when he meets Mexico's Armando Vega to open the second round of the American Zone competition.

The slender, high-strung stylist from San Leandro, Calif., and his 27-year-old opponent from below the border take the center court of the Westchester Country Club at 1 p. m. (EST) in the first of two singles matches.

Then Herbie Flam, 22-year-old retrieving artist from Los Angeles, will square off against Mario Llamas, the champion of all Mexico.

The doubles match will be staged Saturday with the final two singles, reversing tomorrow's lineup, on Sunday. The United States is favored to clinch the victory on Saturday.

The winner of the U. S.-Mexico match will qualify to play the Canada-Cuba victor for the American Zone title. Canada and Cuba also are playing this week-end in Montreal.

The American Zone champion must play the European winner, Sweden for the right to challenge Australia for the trophy.

Robinson Given Hero's Welcome

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (INS) — Sugar Ray Robinson, wearing a light yellow suit, came home to a hero's welcome today, although he is just another ex-champion.

The former middleweight titleholder, who recently lost his crown to Randy Turpin in England, said it was "hard to hold back the tears at this wonderful reception."

A special New York city scroll was presented to the fighter from Harlem by Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, who said:

"Robinson is only a temporary ex-champion and the city is honoring him because he is a champion both in and out of the ring and for the good he has done for others."

A crowd of about 2,500 watched the ceremony on a small stand erected in front of city hall and often cheered the former champion who arrived this morning on the Liberte with plans to begin training soon for his September return match with Turpin.

Change Game Time

The Cumberland Black Sox will play the Centerville Reds in an Interstate Baseball League game tomorrow at 4 p. m. instead of 3 p. m. at Centerville, Pa.

Game Rescheduled

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Newsreel Life—Then, Now And Forever

One of the comforting things about newsreels is their essential timelessness. Nothing has changed very much in human behavior or in the newsreels' special attitude toward news and especially toward people. There is a program belting around the TV circuit called, if memory serves and I'm not sure in this case that it does, "News of Yesteryear." It is just a collection of old newsreels and you'll find that the only difference in life as depicted by the newsreels is in the clothes, particularly the bathing suits.

John Crosby

One of these programs opened with shots of Woodrow Wilson, grinning nervously, as he picked the first draft number out of a fish bowl—a ceremony which combines high tragedy and high comedy in about equal proportions and one which the newsreels have commemorated several times since 1917. It struck me at the time that this drawing of first draft numbers out of fish bowls is almost exclusively a news-reel ceremony, that before the invention of photography there wouldn't have been any fishbowls or any ceremony.

• — • — •

Much of the newsreel-land, in fact, appears to have been composed entirely for the cameras. You get the feeling that after the Kleig lights have been turned off, the sets are struck, Grover Whalen takes off his grease-paint and the little roll of film is the only memento of an event that never really took place. Following the fishbowl were the shots of the men in training in 1917, another sequence we've become tragically familier with—the men exchanging their civilian clothes for khaki, the calisthenics, and also my favorite shot of all, the troops at mess while the announcer says proudly that this army is getting the best food ever given to any army. It's a claim that the Army has been making over many wars now and one, I feel, they'll never sell in Duluth or even in Pittsburgh.

Then came the shot we were ll waiting for, Colleen Moore, one of the picture stars of her day, making a fuss over the doughboys just like Ann Sheridan in the last war, like lots of film stars in this one. When a movie star kisses a GI, as we're not supposed to call them any more, the cameras are always conveniently nearby; the osculation seems to be more a matter of public record than one of enjoyment between a boy and girl.

But, of course, newsreels have covered many things besides wars. Over the years, I should say the greatest and most changeless of newsreel stars has been the Chris Craft. In "News of Yesteryear," there was one 22-year-old shot of a pretty movie starlet on a surfboard, doing the "Black Bottom." You and I have seen many, many variations of the girl on the surfboard in the last couple of decades. The bathing suits are briefer, the hairdos are different, "The Black Bottom" has fallen in disuse, the tricks on surfboards have grown steadily more complicated. The Chris Craft alone has remained basically unchanged—trim, expensive, and apparently designed only to pull pretty girls and handsome boys on surfboards.

Oh, there were lots of other shots, none of which will surprise you. A fashion show, for example. A 1919 strip of film showing the latest techniques in women's coiffure. The newsreels have always gone in heavily for disasters of a pictorial nature—floods and earthquakes in particular. This one was no exception. There were 1930 shots of an earthquake in Italy—the ruins, the refugees, the nine-figure estimate of the physical damage. Then, of course, there was the latest invention, a newsreel standby. The latest invention—I think they dream them up in newsreel offices—is usually a device to shell stone crabs without getting your fingers wet or something equally pertinent to the stresses of modern life. This one, a 1929 film, was an umbrella automat—you pop a quarter into it and out pops an umbrella just as the rain starts—an invention that has got lost somewhere in the pressure of wars and economic revolutions.

• — • — •

There were a few things missing in these ancient newsreels. Not a single girl was crowned queen of the cherry festival, a serious omission; there weren't any shots of the new girl figure-skating champ—or queen of the ice, as we used to call her; there were no bobsleds, no battleships and not a single monkey dressed in tophat doing a tango. Otherwise, though, newsreel life hasn't changed a bit since 1917.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

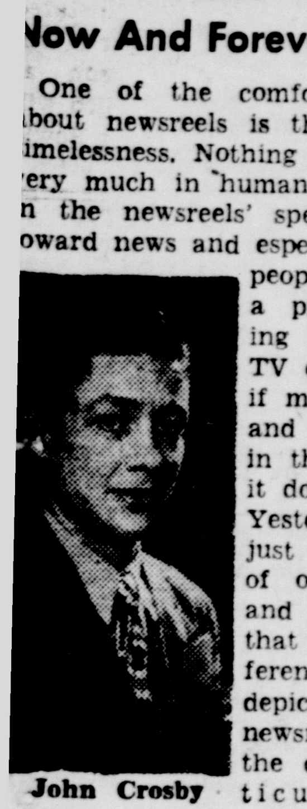
Newsreel Life—Then, Now And Forever



John Crosby

One of the comforting things about newsreels is their essential timelessness. Nothing has changed very much in human behavior or in the newsreels' special attitude toward news and especially toward people. There is a program belting around the TV circuit called, if memory serves and I'm not sure in this case that it does, "News of Yesteryear." It is just a collection of old newsreels and you'll find that the only difference in life as depicted by the newsreels is in the clothes, particularly the bathing suits.

One of these programs opened with shots of Woodrow Wilson, grinning nervously, as he picked the first draft number out of a fish bowl—a ceremony which combines high tragedy and high comedy in about equal proportions and one which the newsreels have commemorated several times since 1917. It struck me at the time that this drawing of first draft numbers out of fish bowls is almost exclusively a news-reel ceremony, that before the invention of photography there wouldn't have been any fishbowls or any ceremony.

Much of the newsreel-land, in fact, appears to have been composed entirely for the cameras. You get the feeling that after the Kleig lights have been turned off, the sets are struck, Grover Whalen takes off his grease-paint and the little roll of film is the only memento of an event that never really took place. Following the fishbowl were the shots of the men in training in 1917, another sequence we've become tragically familier with—the men exchanging their civilian clothes for khaki, the calisthenics, and also my favorite shot of all, the troops at mess while the announcer says proudly that this army is getting the best food ever given to any army. It's a claim that the Army has been making over many wars now and one, I feel, they'll never sell in Duluth or even in Pittsburgh.

Then came the shot we were waiting for, Colleen Moore, one of the picture stars of her day, making a fuss over the doughboys just like Ann Sheridan in the last war, like lots of film stars in this one. When a movie star kisses a GI, as we're not supposed to call them any more, the cameras are always conveniently nearby; the osculation seems to be more a matter of public record than one of enjoyment between a boy and girl.

But, of course, newsreels have covered many things besides wars. Over the years, I should say the greatest and most changeless of newsreel stars has been the Chris Craft. In "News of Yesteryear," there was one 22-year-old shot of a pretty movie starlet on a surfboard, doing the "Black Bottom." You and I have seen many, many variations of the girl on the surfboard in the last couple of decades. The bathing suits are briefer, the hairdos are different, "The Black Bottom" has fallen in disuse, the tricks on surfboards have grown steadily more complicated. The Chris Craft alone has remained basically unchanged—trim, expensive, and apparently designed only to pull pretty girls and handsome boys on surfboards.

Oh, there were lots of other shots, none of which will surprise you. A fashion show, for example. A 1919 strip of film showing the latest techniques in women's coiffure. The newsreels have always gone in heavily for disasters of a pictorial nature—floods and earthquakes in particular. This one was no exception. There were 1930 shots of an earthquake in Italy—the ruins, the refugees, the nine-figure estimate of the physical damage. Then, of course, there was the latest invention, a newsreel standby. The latest invention—I think they dream them up in newsreel offices—is usually a device to shell stone crabs without getting your fingers wet or something equally pertinent to the stresses of modern life. This one, a 1929 film, was an umbrella automat—you pop a quarter into it and out pops an umbrella just as the rain starts—an invention that has got lost somewhere in the pressure of wars and economic revolutions.

● — ● — ●

There were a few things missing in these ancient newsreels. Not a single girl was crowned queen of the cherry festival, a serious omission; there weren't any shots of the new girl figure-skating champ—or queen of the ice, as we used to call her; there were no bobsleds, no battleships and not a single monkey dressed in tophat doing a tango. Otherwise, though, newsreel life hasn't changed a bit since 1917.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

F P T E L O R F J T E J Y O M P B P L O P, F P T E
O M F B J T K W J I F U M W L O P T K U R M T E—
H J T E Y R H H J B.

Louis' Victory Proves Ex-Champ Definite Threat

Joe Given Ovation After Brion Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP) — Joe Louis' smashing 10-round victory over tough young Cesar Brion of the Argentine here last night convinced many boxing fans that he must still be considered a definite threat to regain the crown he wore for more than 11 years. Louis weighed 207 pounds, Brion 196.

The 37-year-old former king of the heavyweight ranks received a thundering ovation from more than 12,000 fans crowded into the Cow Palace after he had pounded out a convincing decision over Argentina's championship contender.

The crowd paid $66,525 to see the fight. An additional $10,000 was realized from sale of motion picture rights.

Louis finished the last four rounds of the battle with a steady barrage of blows that had the 24-year-old Brion groggy at times and seemingly ready to hit the canvas. Brion's gameness in taking everything that Joe had to offer earned him the plaudits of the crowd.

The fighter from the Argentine, employing a crouch which obviously had Louis puzzled, took the play away from the former champ in the opening round. He stayed on top of Louis for the first half of the battle, scoring effectively with left jabs and pummeling Joe on the body in the close-range fighting. His aggressiveness had him out in front on points as late as the sixth round.

Louis finally found the range and staggered Brion with left hooks to the jaw. He had the South American in a bad way in the seventh round.

Brion managed to weather the storm, however, and he stood up under heavy punishment for the remainder of the fight. Brion suffered cuts on the corners of both eyes. Several stitches were required to close one cut.

After the fight Louis paid tribute to Brion as a "rough, willing fighter." He expressed the opinion that Brion would develop into a strong contender for the title.

Woman In Black Is Sought As Fix Queen In Canada

FORT ERIE, Ont., Aug. 2 (INS) —Royal Canadian mounted police sought a mysterious "woman in black" today as the possible fix queen in a horse race scandal that has resulted in suspension of six jockey's two for life.

Meanwhile, the Ontario Racing Commission announced it will widen its investigation to cover every race run in the province this year. Commission member Donald Mac Intosh said the probe is "only beginning."

At Aylmer, Quebec, agents of five police bodies including the FBI, were reported on the alert for possible "fixes" at Connaught Race Track.

(FBI Agent Glen Bethel was reported checking possible activities of big-time U. S. gamblers.)

The woman in black — reported to be the wife of a big-time gambler—was said to have won $11,000 on two longshots, Saucers and North Drive, at the Fort Erie track. She left the track without cashing her second ticket.

North Drive's victory led to the race fixing investigation and the lifetime ban on Jockeys Bobby Keane and Bill Marchese.

"The Authority on Authorities"

REMEMBER PSYCHOLOGY

IT HAS been said that good play by a declarer is a matter of arithmetic and geometry combined—arithmetic to do the card-reading that places the assets of his opponents and that applies tables of probabilities to doubtful situations, and geometry to plan what shall be done about the situation. But there is a third important factor, psychology. It is needed to protect against hamstringing moves by the enemy and also to bamboozle them into mistakes.

George A. Alderton II, one of Detroit's greatest bridge masters, earned a terrific top on this national tournament deal by a series of deceptive plays. He began on the first trick, to which West led the heart 6. Making it appear he might operate on the spades, he discarded the club 6 from dummy and, when East played the 9, put on the J to create the illusion that maybe East had the 10.

Now he took the phantom finesse of the diamond 7 to the J, so West might think East held up the K or Q. Now he made his one risky play, leading the club 10 and, after East covered with the Q, winning with the K. That made both defenders sure he had four clubs for his opening bid. The rest was delightful smooth sailing to him. He scored the heart A, laid down the diamond K, overtook the Q with the A and cashed three more diamonds.

Sure that East had the heart 10, West discarded on these diamonds the heart 8, Q and K and then, in order to retain his spades, tossed the club 5 and 7. Meantime East decided he had to hold his three spades, so discarded down to those cards and the lone club A. Mr. Alderton thereupon threw East in with the club 9 to the A. The victim could score nothing now except his spade A and then return his J to the K. The heart 10 then took the final trick for a total of eleven. Only tricks won by the defense were with East's two black aces.

Louis' Victory Proves Ex-Champ Definite Threat

Joe Given Ovation After Brion Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP) — Joe Louis' smashing 10-round victory over tough young Cesar Brion of the Argentine here last night convinced many boxing fans that he must still be considered a definite threat to regain the crown he wore for more than 11 years. Louis weighed 207 pounds, Brion 196.

The 37-year-old former king of the heavyweight ranks received a thundering ovation from more than 12,000 fans crowded into the Cow Palace after he had pounded out a convincing decision over Argentina's championship contender.

The crowd paid $66,525 to see the fight. An additional $10,000 was realized from sale of motion picture rights.

Louis finished the last four rounds of the battle with a steady barrage of blows that had the 24-year-old Brion groggy at times and seemingly ready to hit the canvas. Brion's gameness in taking everything that Joe had to offer earned him the plaudits of the crowd.

The fighter from the Argentine, employing a crouch which obviously had Louis puzzled, took the play away from the former champ in the opening round. He stayed on top of Louis for the first half of the battle, scoring effectively with left jabs and pummeling Joe on the body in the close-range fighting. His aggressiveness had him out in front on points as late as the sixth round.

Louis finally found the range and staggered Brion with left hooks to the jaw. He had the South American in a bad way in the seventh round.

Brion managed to weather the storm, however, and he stood up under heavy punishment for the remainder of the fight. Brion suffered cuts on the corners of both eyes. Several stitches were required to close one cut.

After the fight Louis paid tribute to Brion as a "rough, willing fighter." He expressed the opinion that Brion would develop into a strong contender for the title.

Woman In Black Is Sought As Fix Queen In Canada

FORT ERIE, Ont., Aug. 2 (INS) —Royal Canadian mounted police sought a mysterious "woman in black" today as the possible fix queen in a horse race scandal that has resulted in suspension of six jockey's two for life.

Meanwhile, the Ontario Racing Commission announced it will widen its investigation to cover every race run in the province this year. Commission member Donald Mac Intosh said the probe is "only beginning."

At Aylmer, Quebec, agents of five police bodies including the FBI, were reported on the alert for possible "fixes" at Connaught Race Track.

(FBI Agent Glen Bethel was reported checking possible activities of big-time U. S. gamblers.)

The woman in black — reported to be the wife of a big-time gambler—was said to have won $11,000 on two longshots, Saucers and North Drive, at the Fort Erie track. She left the track without cashing her second ticket.

North Drive's victory led to the race fixing investigation and the lifetime ban on Jockeys Bobby Keane and Bill Marchese.

NOTICE OF AUDIT

In the Matter of the Estate of Mary E. K. Hodges, No. 13750 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland. Cumberland, Maryland, July 28, 1951.

This is to give notice that an audit filed in the above entitled cause, distributing the funds in the hands of W. Royce Hodges and The First National Bank of Cumberland, Committee, will be ready for ratification on the 20th day of August, 1951, unless cause to the contrary be shown.

JOSEPH E. BODEN, Clerk.

REMEMBER PSYCHOLOGY

IT HAS been said that good play by a declarer is a matter of arithmetic and geometry combined—arithmetic to do the card-reading that places the assets of his opponents and that applies tables of probabilities to doubtful situations, and geometry to plan what shall be done about the situation. But there is a third important factor, psychology. It is needed to protect against hamstringing moves by the enemy and also to bamboozle them into mistakes.

George A. Alderton II, one of Detroit's greatest bridge masters, earned a terrific top on this national tournament deal by a series of deceptive plays. He began on the first trick, to which West led the heart 6. Making it appear he might operate on the spades, he discarded the club 6 from dummy and, when East played the 9, put on the J to create the illusion that maybe East had the 10.

Now he took the phantom finesse of the diamond 7 to the J, so West might think East held up the K or Q. Now he made his one risky play, leading the club 10 and, after East covered with the Q, winning with the K. That made both defenders sure he had four clubs for his opening bid. The rest was delightful smooth sailing to him. He scored the heart A, laid down the diamond K, overtook the Q with the A and cashed three more diamonds.

Sure that East had the heart 10, West discarded on these diamonds the heart 8, Q and K and then, in order to retain his spades, tossed the club 5 and 7. Meantime East decided he had to hold his three spades, so discarded down to those cards and the lone club A. Mr. Alderton thereupon threw East in with the club 9 to the A. The victim could score nothing now except his spade A and then return his J to the K. The heart 10 then took the final trick for a total of eleven. Only tricks won by the defense were with East's two black aces.

Four Youths Held In Area Crime Wave

Admit Complicity In Eight Explosions, Fires, Train Derailments In Creek Section

Lie Detector Helps End Probe Of Two-Year Wave Of Mystery Crimes

Four Westernport youths, ranging in ages from 15 to 25, have admitted complicity in a series of train derailments, explosions in powder magazines, and arson, after being interrogated by Allegany County authorities since Tuesday.

The culprits include 18-year-old William David Taylor, who is serving a three-year sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville after being convicted of arson in the powder magazine explosion of the Harris Powder Company in Westernport, December 28, 1950.

The Taylor youth was brought to Cumberland for questioning by special authority signed by Associate Judge George Henderson of Fourth Judicial Circuit Court here at the request of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher. The others involved are Paul Russell Taylor 15, brother of William David; John Francis Humes, 15, and Arthur Leon Kerling, 25.

All reside on Kolberg Hill, Westernport with the exception of Kerling, who is married and lives on Westernport Hill.

Sign Statements

Fletcher, after a night questioning session which finally ended about 1 o'clock this morning, said the four youths admitted in signed statements they were involved in nine separate crimes in and around the Westernport area.

Listing the vandalism and crime wave as beginning August 11, 1950 with the derailment of extra engine 842 east, of the Western Maryland Railway with a broken lock and thrown switch at the west end of the West Virginia Junction yard, Fletcher said other offenses included another derailment at Foundry Siding August 16, 1950 in which an engine and five freight cars were overturned near Luke by a broken switch; another broken lock and cocked switch at the east end of Hampshire Mine Siding October 16, 1950; opening of the switch at the west end of West Virginia Junction again and east end of Westernport yards November 22, 1950.

Admit Explosions

Also confessed to by the young terrorists was an open switch at the west end of West Virginia Junction again on December 6, 1950; the first explosion at the Harris Powder Company magazine of which William David Taylor was convicted; another thrown switch at West Virginia Junction, May 29, 1951; an attempted effort to blow up a dynamite magazine of the Harris Powder Company June 7, 1951; and the explosion of 60,000 dynamite caps in a magazine of the same company June 11, 1951.

Investigating authorities said all four youths were involved in the crime wave until the elder Taylor was sent to the reformatory.

The others admitted the remainder of the terror reign except the attempted arson of the powder magazine June 7, when officials stated, two confessed complicity and involved the third, but Kerling denied having anything to do with the attempt.

Termed Terror Mob

Labeled the "Bar-Fusee Gang" by C. R. Cobb, arson investigator of the State of West Virginia Fire Marshall's office because of their use of a crowbar to break and enter and fusees to set off the fires and explosions, the group of vandals had held the town of Westernport and surrounding suburbs in a constant threat of terror of where they would strike next.

The apprehension of the gang was said by Cobb to be "the breaking up by the nucleus of a terrorist mob that had a beginning and would have gained momentum until nothing would have stopped it."

Cobb, an expert with a Keeler Polygraph, or lie detector, was instrumental in breaking down the defense of the four boys, Fletcher declared, adding that most of the crimes would not have been solved without its use.

Probe To Continue

No charges have yet been placed against the gang, Fletcher went on, pending further questioning and investigation into other acts of arson not yet solved.

Fletcher had nothing but praise for the efforts of all the law enforcement officials involved in the tracking down of the gang which had kept them on the jump since last August.

In a statement after the questioning period ended Fletcher said "Cooperation of the highest order between all agencies was responsible for the bringing to an end of the series of law violations.

"It is unfortunate there was no possible way for the public to know the extent of the law enforcement officers' diligent efforts to discover those responsible for the acts.

Praises All Officers

"We are all greatly relieved to know the source of the series of crimes is now known as it has been a constant worry to all responsible Allegany County authorities. This particular series of crimes was not a threat to private persons, as such, but to the lives and property of the entire community of Westernport and surrounding territory and we are indeed very grateful to have been able to apprehend those persons responsible."

Going on to extend congratulations for a job well done to the Maryland State Police under the direction of Lt. William E. O'Hara; assistance of Western Maryland Railway police, led by H. B. Clark, special agent; deputies of Sheriff Edward R. Muir's office, Westernport police under supervision of Chief Burza Hanlin, and Luke authorities led by Chief Joseph Wilks, Fletcher had a special pat on the back for the work done by Cobb with the lie detector, saying "it is doubtful if all the offenses would have been discovered if it wasn't for his excellent work."

Fletcher then turned and thanked Officer Howard R. Taylor, guard at the state reformatory who brought William David Taylor here for interrogation.

The officers appeared very tired but with happy expressions on worn and haggard countenances following the breaking of the crime cases.

Fletcher then added all law enforcement agencies in the county would "welcome any information from private citizens of Westernport and vicinity in connection with other offenses or arson not yet solved."

Pair Released On Bond, 2 Held In Wire Theft

Bullitts Charged With Larceny

Two men were released yesterday on $500 bond each and two others were charged with larceny and held in Allegany County jail, in connection with the theft of 650 pounds of copper wire, authorities said last night.

John Gordon and Eugene T. Bush, both of Frostburg, were released on bond in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who said Gordon's mother, Mrs. Idabelle Gordon posted bond for the two men. They have been released for appearance at court at the call of the State's Attorney, Dick stated.

The other two, Bermon and Nechona Bullitt, Eckhart, are being held in the county jail on a larceny charge after being interrogated in the State's Attorney's office.

Officials reported one of the quartet admitted stealing the copper wire and the others became involved when they attempted to sell the wire to a junk dealer in Somerset, Pa.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police said Pennsylvania State Police arrested the four Saturday after Calvin Nair, the dealer, notified them of the alleged attempt to sell him the stolen goods.

Pfc. Louis Pagler of the Somerset detachment picked up the quartet and held them for questioning. All were lodged in Somerset County jail and Pagler notified authorities Baker went to Somerset to question the men and brought them here after they waived extradition to Maryland.

Police said last night that questioning of the four men had revealed the place of business where the theft occured. Investigation is continuing in several other wire thefts which have been reported in recent months in the area.

Four Autos Crash On Baltimore Street

About $400 damages were caused in a four-car crash yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock on Baltimore Street. Police said last night the change in the traffic light caused a backlog in automobiles. The fourth car of the mishap crashed into the other three and received most of the damage.

The fourth automobile was driven by William Miley Jr., 718 Glenmore Street, the third by Ezra T. Shaffer, 200 Wills Creek Avenue, the second by Morris L. Barnes, 19 Washington Street and the lead car by Hamilton Radbaugh, 3 Springfield Street. The mishap was investigated by Officer Charles W. Thompson but no charges were preferred.

Auto Victim Said Improved

The condition of five-year-old Diane Lee Twigg, Frostburg, who was seriously hurt in a traffic accident here last week, was reported as good last night by Allegany Hospital attaches.

City police said the child suffered facial lacerations and a probable skull fracture when struck by an automobile driven by Charlotte T. McIntosh, 34, of 225 Bond Street, at the intersection of Cumberland and Market Streets.

Officer Louis D. Downey said the girl and her mother, Mrs. William O. Twigg, were crossing the Market Street bridge when the child stepped from the curb and was struck by the car. No charges were filed against the driver pending the outcome of her injuries, they added.

Mrs. Ethel Meredith, Chicago, who was injured Wednesday afternoon when her car went out of control and careened from Route 40 at the bottom of Sideling Hill, was reported "satisfactory" by Memorial Hospital attaches last night. Her son, Michael, also injured in the mishap, is listed as "good."

Delegate Urges State-Paid Teacher Salary Increases

Educator Seeks Standardized Earnings

A Republican Delegate today urged state-paid teacher pay increases before a Legislative Council subcommittee investigating the thorny problem.

Delegate Estel C. Kelley (R-Allegany) said since the state sets requirements for entrance of high school graduates into Maryland colleges and universities, it should also assume the responsibility of granting teacher pay increases.

Maryland's Republican Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has taken the position that teacher pay boosts are a local problem and not the responsibility of the state.

A teacher representative, Miss Frances Walsh, president of the Frederick County Teachers Association, urged the subcommittee to support a program to pay all Maryland teachers the same amount.

She said that teachers are attracted to those counties which pay the most.

State Ranks 34th

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, pointed out that Maryland ranks thirty-fourth in the amount it contributes to its schools, and yet ranks seventh in wealth.

Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, president of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers, also argued in support of state-paid teacher increases.

And a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, Mrs. Stanley Buckley, said pay increases should be the full responsibility of the state.

She said 29 high school teachers and 17 elementary school teachers have left the county since last June for better paying jobs.

Allegany County has done its utmost in paying its teachers, she declared.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners submitted a statement to the effect that it has done all it possibly can do this year in the matter of teacher pay raises.

The board reported that it has granted $100 per year pay increases to all teachers earning less than $3,000 per year. The board indicated that 124 county teachers were affected by the raise.

Earlier, a Democrat and a Republican, both members of the subcommittee, joined to suggest two solutions to the pay problem.

State Senator Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Kimble (R-Allegany) suggested legislation that would (1) grant teachers a flat increase and (2) shorten the number of years required for advancing from minimum to maximum scales.

Also appearing before the group was Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College. She said she believed a 10 per cent increase in present scales would be satisfactory to most teachers.

Four Counties Represented

Educators and officials from Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties were at the hearing to present their views on the teacher pay question. It was the third in a series of hearings on the matter.

Other speakers included Eugene Pruitt, Frederick County superintendent of schools; State Senator Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County; B. E. Feete, president of the Frederick County Council of Parents and Teachers; Wick Burham, president of the Washington County Board of Commissioners and Commissioners C. V. Eldridge, Lester Mobley, Joseph Hoffman and Chester Delphy; Simon Clopper, supervisor of assessments for Washington County; Garrett County Commissioner Jonas Sines; S. R. Pagenhardt, secretary to the Garrett County Board of Education, and R. Bowen Hardesty, Garrett County supervisor of schools.

Celanese Talks Bogged Down On Monetary Issues

Conciliator Will Aid In Negotiations

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), yesterday asked the United States Conciliation Service to aid in negotiation of a contract with the Celanese Corporation of America.

Playford Aldridge, president, said Conciliation Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., is expected to be in Cumberland Monday at 2 p.m. when contract talks are tentatively scheduled to resume.

The TWUA official said negotiations are deadlocked and that the outlook is gloomy at present.

Aldridge said the company and the union were "bogged down" on all issues of a monetary nature when the talks broke off yesterday afternoon.

Under the 10 per cent WSB formula, the union is entitled to a 3.75 cents an hour wage increase at the Amcelle plant. A 10 cents an hour wage boost last fall brought the average wage at the plant to 1.489.

Some 4,600 hourly paid employes are represented by the union.

One of the monetary issues involved in the contract discussions is the union's request for a third week of vacation after five years of service.

The present pact provides one week's vacation, with pay of 2½ per cent of earnings for the previous year for workers with less than five year's service, and two weeks, at five per cent of earnings, for those with five or more years of service.

The present pact is due to expire August 8.

Herbert W. Payne, TWUA synthetic yarn director, is heading the union negotiators.

Aldridge said no meetings are scheduled before the one tentatively set Monday, but added the union indicated its willingness to meet at any time.

A membership meeting has been scheduled Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the TWUA hall, 34 North Mechanic Street, for a report of the negotiating committee.

Company States Issues

The status of the contract talks were confirmed by H. C. Givens, Jr., manager of the Amcelle plant.

Givens stated that "discussions with the union which began early in June were terminated yesterday with little progress being noted toward reaching agreement on what the union terms the major points of its demands.

"These issues include a demand for a 25 cent per hour wage increase for all employes, three weeks' vacation for employes with more than five years' service, two holidays, Armistice Day and Armed Forces Day, in addition to six national holidays already recognized by the company, time and one-half for all off-scheduled work and time and one-half for all Sunday work.

Some Agreement Noted

Numerous other changes affecting various provisions of the present contract have been discussed and agreement reached in some cases.

"Several additional demands which were discussed in the early stages of negotiations are not now considered to be of major importance.

State To Ask Murder Charge If Shooting Victim Succumbs

Michael Critical After Emergency Operation

The State's Attorney said last night a murder charge would be placed against Margaret E. Gray, 39, in the event of the death of a 50-year-old Celanese worker whom he said she admittedly shot and critically wounded about 3 a. m. yesterday.

The shooting victim is Nile Jennings Michael of the North Branch section who underwent an emergency operation yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital after the shooting occurred in the old tollgate house near North Branch where the couple lived together. Michael, five years ago, faced charges of killing his wife, authorities added.

Hospital attaches gave Michael little chance to survive the bullet wound and listed his condition as "very critical."

Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, said the Gray woman admitted shooting Michael in the right groin with a .22 caliber single shot rifle. The bullet ranged up through his intestines and shattered the liver. The woman is being held in Allegany County jail awaiting arraignment.

Lived as "Man And Wife"

Criminal Investigator William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police revealed the couple had lived together as "man and wife" in the tollgate house. After the Gray woman shot Michael, he added, she went to the nearby home of Mr. and Mrs. John Emerick and reported the incident. The Emericks immediately notified authorities, Baker related, and he and Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, went to the scene.

Trooper Baker reported he found Michael lying in bed and bleeding profusely. An ambulance was summoned to rush him to the hospital.

Fletcher stated the Gray woman apparently shot Michael following an argument. She had been drinking, he added.

Baker declared the gun, owned by Michael, was kept in a room used as a bedroom and kitchen. The woman had been arrested six times on misdemeanor charges within the past year, police added, and had previously stated Michael had threatened to do her bodily harm.

Investigated Reported Shooting

Police noted an investigation was made last year on a reported shooting involving the Gray woman and Michael at the tollhouse. The woman had claimed she shot her common-law spouse with a .410 shotgun, but further interrogation then had revealed she and Michael were shooting at tin cans while drinking.

Michael also previously was involved in a slaying when he was arraigned in June 1946, in Trial Magistrates Court on a charge that he "did on June 13, with malice and aforethought, kill and murder his wife, Irene Michael." Authorities at that time debated as to whether Mrs. Michael fell or was kicked to death.

Former Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., held Michael for action of the grand jury and in November the charge was changed to manslaughter in Circuit Court.

After Michael was found guilty of manslaughter he received a suspended three-year sentence and was paroled by former Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Rowan received the appointment recently from Archbishop Francis P. Keough, head of the Baltimore diocese. The young student will sail for Europe on September 7 from New York, on the SS Liberte, a French liner and will study at Seminaire de St. Brieuc located in Brittany. He will receive his visa papers from the French consul in Baltimore and, according to Rowan, his stay will be possibly for six years.

Rev. John Duggan, chancellor of the Baltimore Diocese notified Rowan last Friday of his opportunity to study in France. The first two years will be spent studying philosophy and the latter four years theology. Another student from Baltimore will accompany Rowan on the September trip.

Street Oiling Program To Be Completed Today

Over 30 Miles Of Roads Included

The Street Department today will wind up work on the oiling of this city's unpaved streets today.

Work on grading, ditching, rolling and oiling the some 30 miles of unpaved streets within the city limits began June 12, according to Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent.

The last of 32 tank loads of oil will be used by the work crews today as they complete work in South Cumberland.

The task has been unusually difficult this year, officials said, both because of heavy damage from the worst winter in years and heavy spring rains which delayed the opening of the annual oiling program.

At the same time, other crews have been busy preparing for the paving of Trost and Piedmont Avenues.

Corrigan said curbing of Trost Avenue, from its intersection with Holland Street and the City line, and Piedmont Avenue, from Edgewood Avenue to the city line, has been completed.

Men are working now on catch basins and final grading will begin next week, he added.

Bids for the blacktopping of the streets are being asked by the Mayor and City Council. They will be accepted until August 13 at 9 a. m.

Other street department crews have been busy this week cleaning catch basins and removing debris washed on city streets by last week's heavy rains.

Four Youths Held In Area Crime Wave

Lie Detector Helps End Probe Of Two-Year Wave Of Mystery Crimes

Four Westernport youths, ranging in ages from 15 to 25, have admitted complicity in a series of train derailments, explosions in powder magazines, and arson, after being interrogated by Allegany County authorities since Tuesday.

The culprits include 18-year-old William David Taylor, who is serving a three-year sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville after being convicted of arson in the powder magazine explosion of the Harris Powder Company in Westernport, December 28, 1950.

The Taylor youth was brought to Cumberland for questioning by special authority signed by Associate Judge George Henderson of Fourth Judicial Circuit Court here at the request of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher. The others involved are Paul Russell Taylor 15, brother of William David; John Francis Humes, 15, and Arthur Leon Kerling, 25.

All reside on Kolberg Hill, Westernport with the exception of Kerling, who is married and lives on Westernport Hill.

Sign Statements

Fletcher, after a night questioning session which finally ended about 1 o'clock this morning, said the four youths admitted in signed statements they were involved in nine separate crimes in and around the Westernport area.

Listing the vandalism and crime wave as beginning August 11, 1950 with the derailment of extra engine 842 east, of the Western Maryland Railway with a broken lock and thrown switch at the west end of the West Virginia Junction yard, Fletcher said other offenses included another derailment at Foundry Siding August 16, 1950 in which an engine and five freight cars were overturned near Luke by a broken switch; another broken lock and cocked switch at the east end of Hampshire Mine Siding October 16, 1950; opening of the switch at the west end of West Virginia Junction again and east end of Westernport yards November 22, 1950.

Admit Explosions

Also confessed to by the young terrorists was an open switch at the west end of West Virginia Junction again on December 6, 1950; the first explosion at the Harris Powder Company magazine of which William David Taylor was convicted; another thrown switch at West Virginia Junction, May 29, 1951; an attempted effort to blow up a dynamite magazine of the Harris Powder Company June 7, 1951; and the explosion of 60,000 dynamite caps in a magazine of the same company June 11, 1951.

Investigating authorities said all four youths were involved in the crime wave until the elder Taylor was sent to the reformatory.

The others admitted the remainder of the terror reign except the attempted arson of the powder magazine June 7, when officials stated, two confessed complicity and involved the third, but Kerling denied having anything to do with the attempt.

Termed Terror Mob

Labeled the "Bar-Fusee Gang" by C. R. Cobb, arson investigator of the State of West Virginia Fire Marshall's office because of their use of a crowbar to break and enter and fusees to set off the fires and explosions, the group of vandals had held the town of Westernport and surrounding suburbs in a constant threat of terror of where they would strike next.

The apprehension of the gang was said by Cobb to be "the breaking up by the nucleus of a terrorist mob that had a beginning and would have gained momentum until nothing would have stopped it."

Cobb, an expert with a Keeler Polygraph, or lie detector, was instrumental in breaking down the defense of the four boys, Fletcher declared, adding that most of the crimes would not have been solved without its use.

Probe To Continue

No charges have yet been placed against the gang, Fletcher went on, pending further questioning and investigation into other acts of arson not yet solved.

Fletcher had nothing but praise for the efforts of all the law enforcement officials involved in the tracking down of the gang which had kept them on the jump since last August.

In a statement after the questioning period ended Fletcher said "Cooperation of the highest order between all agencies was responsible for the bringing to an end of the series of law violations.

"It is unfortunate there was no possible way for the public to know the extent of the law enforcement officers' diligent efforts to discover those responsible for the acts.

Praises All Officers

"We are all greatly relieved to know the source of the series of crimes is now known as it has been a constant worry to all responsible Allegany County authorities. This particular series of crimes was not a threat to private persons, as such, but to the lives and property of the entire community of Westernport and surrounding territory and we are indeed very grateful to have been able to apprehend those persons responsible."

Going on to extend congratulations for a job well done to the Maryland State Police under the direction of Lt. William E. O'Hara; assistance of Western Maryland Railway police, led by H. B. Clark, special agent; deputies of Sheriff Edward R. Muir's office, Westernport police under supervision of Chief Burza Hanlin, and Luke authorities led by Chief Joseph Wilks, Fletcher had a special pat on the back for the work done by Cobb with the lie detector, saying "it is doubtful if all the offenses would have been discovered if it wasn't for his excellent work."

Fletcher then turned and thanked Officer Howard R. Taylor, guard at the state reformatory who brought William David Taylor here for interrogation.

The officers appeared very tired but with happy expressions on worn and haggard countenances following the breaking of the crime cases.

Fletcher then added all law enforcement agencies in the county would "welcome any information from private citizens of Westernport and vicinity in connection with other offenses or arson not yet solved."

Pair Released On Bond, 2 Held In Wire Theft

Bullitts Charged With Larceny

Two men were released yesterday on $500 bond each and two others were charged with larceny and held in Allegany County jail, in connection with the theft of 650 pounds of copper wire, authorities said last night.

John Gordon and Eugene T. Bush, both of Frostburg, were released on bond in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who said Gordon's mother, Mrs. Idabelle Gordon posted bond for the two men. They have been released for appearance at court at the call of the State's Attorney, Dick stated.

The other two, Bermon and Nechona Bullitt, Eckhart, are being held in the county jail on a larceny charge after being interrogated in the State's Attorney's office.

Officials reported one of the quartet admitted stealing the copper wire and the others became involved when they attempted to sell the wire to a junk dealer in Somerset, Pa.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police said Pennsylvania State Police arrested the four Saturday after Calvin Nair, the dealer, notified them of the alleged attempt to sell him the stolen goods.

Pfc. Louis Pagler of the Somerset detachment picked up the quartet and held them for questioning. All were lodged in Somerset County jail and Pagler notified authorities Baker went to Somerset to question the men and brought them here after they waived extradition to Maryland.

Police said last night that questioning of the four men had revealed the place of business where the theft occured. Investigation is continuing in several other wire thefts which have been reported in recent months in the area.

The fourth automobile was driven by William Miley Jr., 718 Glenmore Street, the third by Ezra T. Shaffer, 200 Wills Creek Avenue, the second by Morris L. Barnes, 19 Washington Street and the lead car by Hamilton Radbaugh, 3 Springfield Street. The mishap was investigated by Officer Charles W. Thompson but no charges were preferred.

Auto Victim Said Improved

The condition of five-year-old Diane Lee Twigg, Frostburg, who was seriously hurt in a traffic accident here last week, was reported as good last night by Allegany Hospital attaches.

City police said the child suffered facial lacerations and a probable skull fracture when struck by an automobile driven by Charlotte T. McIntosh, 34, of 225 Bond Street, at the intersection of Cumberland and Market Streets.

Officer Louis D. Downey said the girl and her mother, Mrs. William O. Twigg, were crossing the Market Street bridge when the child stepped from the curb and was struck by the car. No charges were filed against the driver pending the outcome of her injuries, they added.

Mrs. Ethel Meredith, Chicago, who was injured Wednesday afternoon when her car went out of control and careened from Route 40 at the bottom of Sideling Hill, was reported "satisfactory" by Memorial Hospital attaches last night. Her son, Michael, also injured in the mishap, is listed as "good."

Delegate Urges State-Paid Teacher Salary Increases

Educator Seeks Standardized Earnings

A Republican Delegate today urged state-paid teacher pay increases before a Legislative Council subcommittee investigating the thorny problem.

Delegate Estel C. Kelley (R-Allegany) said since the state sets requirements for entrance of high school graduates into Maryland colleges and universities, it should also assume the responsibility of granting teacher pay increases.

Maryland's Republican Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has taken the position that teacher pay boosts are a local problem and not the responsibility of the state.

A teacher representative, Miss Frances Walsh, president of the Frederick County Teachers Association, urged the subcommittee to support a program to pay all Maryland teachers the same amount.

She said that teachers are attracted to those counties which pay the most.

State Ranks 34th

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, pointed out that Maryland ranks thirty-fourth in the amount it contributes to its schools, and yet ranks seventh in wealth.

Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, president of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers, also argued in support of state-paid teacher increases.

And a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, Mrs. Stanley Buckley, said pay increases should be the full responsibility of the state.

She said 29 high school teachers and 17 elementary school teachers have left the county since last June for better paying jobs.

Allegany County has done its utmost in paying its teachers, she declared.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners submitted a statement to the effect that it has done all it possibly can do this year in the matter of teacher pay raises.

The board reported that it has granted $100 per year pay increases to all teachers earning less than $3,000 per year. The board indicated that 124 county teachers were affected by the raise.

Earlier, a Democrat and a Republican, both members of the subcommittee, joined to suggest two solutions to the pay problem.

State Senator Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Kimble (R-Allegany) suggested legislation that would (1) grant teachers a flat increase and (2) shorten the number of years required for advancing from minimum to maximum scales.

Also appearing before the group was Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College. She said she believed a 10 per cent increase in present scales would be satisfactory to most teachers.

Four Counties Represented

Educators and officials from Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties were at the hearing to present their views on the teacher pay question. It was the third in a series of hearings on the matter.

Other speakers included Eugene Pruitt, Frederick County superintendent of schools; State Senator Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County; B. E. Feete, president of the Frederick County Council of Parents and Teachers; Wick Burham, president of the Washington County Board of Commissioners and Commissioners C. V. Eldridge, Lester Mobley, Joseph Hoffman and Chester Delphy; Simon Clopper, supervisor of assessments for Washington County; Garrett County Commissioner Jonas Sines; S. R. Pagenhardt, secretary to the Garrett County Board of Education, and R. Bowen Hardesty, Garrett County supervisor of schools.

State To Ask Murder Charge If Shooting Victim Succumbs

Michael Critical After Emergency Operation

The State's Attorney said last night a murder charge would be placed against Margaret E. Gray, 39, in the event of the death of a 50-year-old Celanese worker whom he said she admittedly shot and critically wounded about 3 a. m. yesterday.

The shooting victim is Nile Jennings Michael of the North Branch section who underwent an emergency operation yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital after the shooting occurred in the old tollgate house near North Branch where the couple lived together. Hospital attaches gave Michael little chance to survive the bullet wound and listed his condition as "very critical."

Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, said the Gray woman admitted shooting Michael in the right groin with a .22 caliber single shot rifle. The bullet ranged up through his intestines and shattered the liver. The woman is being held in Allegany County jail awaiting arraignment.

Lived as "Man And Wife"

Criminal Investigator William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police revealed the couple had lived together as "man and wife" in the tollgate house. After the Gray woman shot Michael, he added, she went to the nearby home of Mr. and Mrs. John Emerick and reported the incident. The Emericks immediately notified authorities, Baker related, and he and Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, went to the scene.

Trooper Baker reported he found Michael lying in bed and bleeding profusely. An ambulance was summoned to rush him to the hospital.

Fletcher stated the Gray woman apparently shot Michael following an argument. She had been drinking, he added.

Baker declared the gun, owned by Michael, was kept in a room used as a bedroom and kitchen. The woman had been arrested six times on misdemeanor charges within the past year, police added, and had previously stated Michael had threatened to do her bodily harm.

Investigated Reported Shooting

Police noted an investigation was made last year on a reported shooting involving the Gray woman and Michael at the tollhouse. The woman had claimed she shot her common-law spouse with a .410 shotgun, but further interrogation then had revealed she and Michael were shooting at tin cans while drinking.

Michael also previously was involved in a slaying when he was arraigned in June 1946, in Trial Magistrates Court on a charge that he "did on June 13, with malice and aforethought, kill and murder his wife, Irene Michael." Authorities at that time debated as to whether Mrs. Michael fell or was kicked to death.

Former Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., held Michael for action of the grand jury and in November the charge was changed to manslaughter in Circuit Court.

After Michael was found guilty of manslaughter he received a suspended three-year sentence and was paroled by former Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Street Oiling Program To Be Completed Today

Over 30 Miles Of Roads Included

The Street Department today will wind up work on the oiling of this city's unpaved streets today.

Work on grading, ditching, rolling and oiling the some 30 miles of unpaved streets within the city limits began June 12, according to Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent.

The last of 32 tank loads of oil will be used by the work crews today as they complete work in South Cumberland.

The task has been unusually difficult this year, officials said, both because of heavy damage from the worst winter in years and heavy spring rains which delayed the opening of the annual oiling program.

At the same time, other crews have been busy preparing for the paving of Trost and Piedmont Avenues.

Corrigan said curbing of Trost Avenue, from its intersection with Holland Street and the City line, and Piedmont Avenue, from Edgewood Avenue to the city line, has been completed.

Men are working now on catch basins and final grading will begin next week, he added.

Bids for the blacktopping of the streets are being asked by the Mayor and City Council. They will be accepted until August 13 at 9 a. m.

Other street department crews have been busy this week cleaning catch basins and removing debris washed on city streets by last week's heavy rains.

Mobster Held As Narcotics Law Violator

T-Men Nab Wexler In New York City

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—U. S. Treasury agents tonight arrested Irving Wexler, 62, alias Waxey Gordon, notorious bootleg era racketeer, as a narcotics law violator.

The former Broadway bootlegger had 17 ½ ounces of heroin in his possession when picked up with two other persons at 68th Street and York Avenue, on Manhattan's East Side, Treasury agents notified police.

All three men were taken to the East 67th Street police station where they were held pending arrival of New York Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan.

One of the men arrested with Wexler was identified as Sammy Kass, described by Treasury agents as "another notorious character."

The other was said to be Benjamin Katz, not further identified.

The arrest was made by James Ryan, head of the Treasury's narcotics division in New York City and his men at 8:15 p. m. (EST).

In Washington the Treasury said four automobiles also were seized.

A graduate of a number of prisons—Leavenworth, Sing Sing, Holmesburg (Pa.), Elmira (N. Y.) Reformatory, Lewisburg (Pa.) and the Tombs in New York, Wexler was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's first big victim when Dewey was a young gang-buster.

Dewey's public career got a tremendous boost when he won a conviction of Wexler for income tax evasion in 1933. Wexler got a 10-year sentence and was released in 1940 after serving seven years.

The mobster, who once drove around New York in an armored car with bodyguards, took a subway train as he left New York's federal courthouse at that time.

He popped up in San Francisco a year after his release from Leavenworth and was booked on a vagrancy charge with two associates.

A police judge advised him, "the climate here is not good for men like you," and Wexler came back to New York.

In New York, Wexler was booked on a vagrancy charge again and advised that New York police would arrest him on sight. But Wexler, a native New Yorker, won a court fight to stay in the city so long as he behaved himself.

In October, 1942, he was arrested for black market operations in sugar.

He pleaded guilty to the indictment, with two co-defendants. In January, 1943, Wexler was sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

In November, 1947, he and two others were arrested for the alleged sale of $40,000 worth of stolen wrist watches. But he won a dismissal of the charge in New York's felony court.

Impersonated Officer

Pretty Medalo Frances Evans, 26, yesterday was arrested by the FBI and charged with impersonating a WAF officer over a four-day period at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Tex. The attractive redhead said it was a joke and part of a plan to become an officer in the WAF. (Story at bottom of page)

Mental Test Law For Reporters Is Sought By Mayor

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP) — Mayor Ralph J. Morissette wants Northern New York city to prohibit newspapers from hiring reporters unless they pass a mental test.

The Mayor asked the Common Council last night to enact a law, and he ordered an Ogdensburg Journal reporter not to enter City Hall again.

The council took no action.

The reporter, Charles Saunders, covered his City Hall beat today. He said Morissette was not there. The Journal declared that Saunders would continue on the beat.

Saunders said he'd be glad to take a mental test, if the Mayor would, too.

Morissette indicated that his indignation was aroused by an article Saunders wrote about a military police riot drill at Pine Camp. Saunders reported that the "rioters" had hollered "Down with Morissette."

Lausche Urges Truman To Run

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) —Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, noted "lone wolf" Democrat, started the 1952 political pot boiling in a big way today by urging President Truman to run for reelection in 1952.

Emerging from a conference with Mr. Truman at the White House, Lausche told newsmen:

"I told him I thought he should be the candidate for president in 1952."

He said the President smiled and thanked him.

Lausche made plain to the newsmen that he wasn't stopping at just stating his opinion to Mr. Truman. He said he had "expressed my views in the matter" to leading Democrats in Ohio.

Lausche's announcement came as a surprise to reporters, particularly in view of his record for playing a lone hand in Democratic Party affairs, often ignoring party organizations.

Petsche Turned Down

PARIS Aug. 2 (AP) — The three-week-old French cabinet was further prolonged tonight when the French National Assembly refused to confirm former Finance Minister Maurice Petsche as the new premier.

"Ike" Duties No Bar To Politics, Truman Asserts

Sure General Will Put Country First

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Truman said today that he doesn't think Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European duties will interfere if the General is in a political frame of mind in 1952.

A restrained and indirect discussion of the possibility that Eisenhower might be a 1952 presidential candidate—something the General won't comment on himself—dominated the weekly White House news conference.

Eisenhower is doing a magnificent job in Europe as head of the North Atlantic defense forces, Mr. Truman said, and he thought he would continue there as long as necessary.

Will Attend Jap Pact Signing

The President declined to speculate on how long that might be. He said that under any conditions, Eisenhower would put duty to the country first.

On other matters, Mr. Truman said:

1. He plans to fly to San Francisco for the opening of the conference called for signing the Japanese peace treaty, September 4. Asked whether this would preclude any presidential "whistle stop" campaigning across the country this fall, the President replied it would at this particular time.

2. His statement on wages, in his denunciation of the new controls law Tuesday night, speaks for itself. In that statement, Mr. Truman said that "to the extent that this act permits prices and the cost of living to rise, it will be necessary to allow reasonable adjustments in wages."

Baruch Helps Bring Up Question

The Eisenhower question came up in the light of statements by Bernard M. Baruch and Sens. Murray (D-Mont) and Brewster (R-Me). Murray, who wants Mr. Truman to run for reelection, and Brewster, who is generally regarded as a backer of Sen. Taft of Ohio for the Republican nomination, have said they thought Eisenhower's job in Europe would keep him out of the presidential field next year.

Baruch, longtime adviser of presidents, said in New York today that it would be "a great disservice to Gen. Eisenhower to put him into the political arena."

Redhead Jailed For Posing As WAF, Hitching Air Rides

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 2 (AP)—An attractive redhead who has been riding military aircraft around the country was in jail today on charges of impersonating an officer.

Col. Ben Lichty, commander of Bergstrom Air Force Base here, said it was "very embarrassing" that pretty Medalo Frances Evans, 26, had been able to spend four days at the jet fighter training base as a WAF officer.

He also was embarrassed because she was able to get a temporary identification card without proving she was an officer. A Berbstrom information spokesman explained:

"She got the card from a corporal in the pass section. There are two factors to consider: She is an attractive woman, and she was posing as a lieutenant. There's lots of difference between the rank of corporal and the rank of lieutenant, and like I said, she is an attractive woman."

The 120-pound redhead called on Col. Lichty Monday to ask that he help obtain a waiver of college credit so that she could become a WAF officer — something she already was pretending to be.

The colonel was impressed until she mentioned casually that she had flown in Monday from Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, where her husband is stationed. Non-military personnel don't fly in military aircraft without official clearance. Tuesday night she was arrested by the FBI.

Post New Bail Or Go To Jail, 39 Aliens Told

"Red" Congress Bonds Outlawed

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — The government today outlawed Civil Rights Congress bail for 39 aliens fighting deportation. They were told to produce new bonds or go to jail.

It was another sweeping blow at the congress — termed subversive by the government — which bankrolls Communists when they get in a legal jam.

Earlier this month, congress bail was outlawed in federal courts in New York City.

Some Aliens Make Deadline

The government moved briskly to rearrest the aliens, ordering them to turn themselves in by 2 p.m. (EST) — less than an hour after the decision was made public in Washington.

Some of the aliens made the deadline. A few were given a little more time for various reasons. Some could not be located in time to make the deadline and straggled in later.

They were directed to surrender in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit.

In a statement in Washington, Attorney General McGrath made it clear the Justice Department no longer regards as acceptable bonds offered by the Civil Right Congress.

Congress Labelled Subversive

The congress has been labelled Communist and subversive by the Attorney General's office.

Bonds totaling $260,000 were posted by the congress for the 11 top leaders of the U. S. Communist Party. They were convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate violent revolution.

Seven of them now are serving prison terms. But four never showed up, jumping $80,000 in congress bail. They were Robert Thompson, Gus Hall, Gilbert Green and Henry Winston.

Byrd Urges End To Delay In Case Of Boyle And RFC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called today for faster action on the case of Democratic National Chairman William Boyle, saying Boyle should resign or be fired if he profited from an RFC loan.

"Why the delay?" Byrd asked in a statement. He noted that last week and again today Mr. Truman told his news conference he was looking into the charges that Boyle got fees for using influence to obtain a loan for a St. Louis firm.

"Either Boyle is guilty or not guilty. Either he peddled his influence to his own advantage or he did not," Byrd said.

He said that if Boyle had influenced a government loan, he should immediately resign his party chairmanship or the National Committee "should be assembled and Mr. Boyle should be dismissed."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has published stories saying that the American Lithofold Corp., of St. Louis received a $565,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1949, after retaining Boyle. The loan had been rejected three times previously. The Post-Dispatch said Boyle received $8,000 from the firm. Boyle has said he had nothing to do with the loan, although he had once been a lawyer for the company.

U. S. Blocks Delivery Of Ships To Russia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The State Department disclosed today the United States is blocking delivery of 13 small German ships to Russia. It said the Russians have probably got more than their "rightful share" of Germany's war-end merchant marine anyway.

The U. S. action was reported with the release of an exchange of notes between the Soviet embassy and the State Department. The whole controversy dates back to a war-end agreement among the United States, Britain and Russia to split up the German merchant marine.

A special commission proposed in 1947 that the Russians receive 13 small vessels totaling 7,500 gross tons in addition to what they already held. This has never been done because the U. S. never gave formal approval to the report.

Man, Tummy Ache Cured, Hustled To Mental Hospital

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP) — British doctors cured a man of his severe stomach ache and hustled him to a mental hospital, the magazine Nursing Mirror said tonight.

Inside his stomach they had found:

Six ounces of hay, four pieces of metal, a razor blade, a piece of porcelain, a steel file, two stones, a pin, four pennies, three matches, a ladies' hair clip, a key, two nails, a pen, a knife handle, and two broken knife blades.

McCracken Case Ends In Mistrial

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP)—Henry Ford McCracken, 34, was found guilty of child stealing in the fatal beating of Patricia Jean Hull, 10.

A Superior Court jury acquitted him of kidnaping and failed to agree on a murder charge.

A mistrial was declared and the jury was discharged after Foreman W. H. Wilder said there was no possibility of agreement.

Superior Judge Robert Gardner set Aug. 13 for a new trial on the murder count.

Wilder said one juror refused to vote and another cast an unmarked ballot on the murder charge. The court said this was a violation of a juror's duty.

The jury had deliberated two days. The trial started July 9.

McCracken was charged with luring Patricia Jean from a Buena Park theater last May 19, beating her to death in his motel cabin and burying her body in a canyon.

McCracken told the jury that the girl died accidentally. She was trying to kick her way through a window in his cabin, he testified, when she fell from a table.

Virginia Hill's Coats, Etc., Sold For Taxes

The Internal Revenue Bureau, claiming she owes $161,0000 in back income taxes, held the auction on the front lawn of her $25,000 house. In 90-degree heat, it drew 2,500 persons.

The former girl friend of gangland big shots had a little .25 caliber pistol with two boxes of shells. The government got $36 for it. That was about average for the odds and ends.

Defense Housing Bill Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — The House Banking Committee tonight approved a $1,700,000,000 bill to ease housing shortages in key defense areas.

Only $200,000,000 of the money, however, would be in the form of outright grants and loans. The remaining $1,500,000,000 would be in the form of authorized mortgage insurance and would not require any appropriation of government funds.

The bill relaxes some restrictions imposed by a similar bill already passed by the Senate. It also increases the Senate-approved housing aid by $65,000,000.

Committee Chairman Spence (D-NY) called the House measure "a real bipartisan effort that is really going to put a roof over the people's heads."

Some committee members said they thought chances for passage were good, but several Republicans indicated they would offer amendments when the bill reached the House floor, probably in about two weeks.

A somewhat similar bill died in the House last April.

The $1,500,000,000 in mortgage insurance provided by the new bill is the same amount voted by the Senate but is only one half what the administration asked.

The House bill provides $75,000,000 in loans and grants for government building of houses in defense areas where private builders are unable to construct them. The Senate voted $50,000,000 for this purpose.

Girl, Found Sane, Released From Jail To Wed Ex-Priest

MILAN, Italy, Aug. 2 (AP) —Claire Young was pronounced sane tonight and freed from jail to marry Luciano Negrini, the Roman Catholic priest unfrocked and excommunicated as a result of their Chicago-born romance. Negrini met her at the jail.

The permit of the blonde, 21-year-old daughter of a Loyola University professor to remain in Italy was extended three months. It was due to expire Aug. 5.

Deputy Police Chief Gabriele Mundo announced these developments after summoning a psychiatrist, Dr. Mastrangelo of Milan's mental asylum, to check a report of the girl's mother, Mrs. James J. Young, that Claire was not rational.

Impulsiveness got Claire in a jam last Saturday.

She was jailed for slapping a police officer after she was informed that her residence permit would not be renewed, meaning her trip across the Atlantic had been in vain. Police arranged to deport her on the American liner Independence Aug. 6. She apologized yesterday for the slapping episode.

Negrini first said his priestly vows would never permit him to marry, but later said he would marry her. His excommunication followed.

A Vatican spokesman said Claire, a Catholic who met Negrini when he visited Chicago last year, also faces excommunication if she marries the 41-year-old former missionary.

McMahon Dares Russia To Allow Americans' Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) today dared the Kremlin to let a congressional delegation visit the Soviet Union "to tell the Russian people about the peaceful and friendly desires of the American people."

McMahon also suggested that in turn Congress invite the 14 members of the Soviet Politburo to this country "so they could breathe the clean air of democracy and decide for themselves whether the American people want war or peace."

In a Senate speech, McMahon proposed that Congress pass resolutions endorsing both trips but he did not indicate whether he plans to introduce such legislation.

Red Recruiter Says Noel Field, Duggan In Fold

Ex-State Dept. Aides Had Been "Cleared"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Hede Massing, a Viennese who said she worked in Washington as a Communist spy, told Senate investigators today that she enlisted two State Department aides in her organization in 1933 and 1934.

She identified the men as Noel Field and Lawrence Duggan. Field has disappeared behind the iron curtain, while Duggan plunged to his death from the 16th floor of a New York office building in 1948.

At the time Field consented to enter her "apparatus," Mrs. Massing testified, she believed he was employed in the State Department's Western European division. Duggan was connected with the department's Latin American division, she said.

Top-Level Communist

Mrs. Massing was called before the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee, which is trying to ascertain whether subversive influences at home have affected United States policy in the Far East. Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) described the witness as an ex-Communist who "operated on the higher level and who was in the know."

After Duggan's death, the Justice Department said an FBI investigation showed he was a "loyal employe" of the government. Sen. Nixon (R-Calif), then a representative, reported the House Un-American Activities Committee also had given Duggan a clean bill of health.

Mrs. Massing testified that Duggan was much easier to "reach" than Field. She said she was able to suggest to Duggan "that he could be of help to us" after only a few meetings, but that it required about nine months to bring Field into the fold.

Pair Knew She Was Red

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) asked whether the two men had any doubt that she was a Communist.

"Oh, no," Mrs. Massing replied emphatically.

She added that it was clear to the pair that she was engaged in espionage and wanted to obtain information "relative to the Soviet Union." Not military information, she explained; that was not her job.

Mrs. Massing is the former wife of Gerhardt Eisler, once described by the Un-American Committee as the No. 1 Communist in the United States. Facing charges of passport fraud and contempt of Congress, Eisler fled the country in 1949 and turned up as propaganda chief of the Soviet-controlled East German government.

Radio Attacks May Pave Way For Backdown

Claim U. N. Demands Line North Of Front

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators adjourned talks today on the tough issue of a Korean armistice buffer zone amid indications the Reds might be ready to compromise.

The delegates scheduled another meeting tomorrow at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Friday).

Today's session lasted more than two hours and was the longest in several days. This gave hope that some progress might have been made in eight days of deadlock over the issue.

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—A high United Nations source expressed belief today the Reds might be preparing to accept the Allied stand on a Korean cease-fire line despite their vocal insistence on the 38th parallel.

This view was based on Peiping and Pyongyang broadcasts which distorted the Allied attitude, making it appear the Allies were demanding a line much farther north than the present fighting front.

Thus, the U. N. sources theorized, the Communists would be able to accept the fighting front as the cease-fire line and still foster the impression they had wrung concessions from the Allies.

18th Meeting Begins

(The Peiping radio quoted the Kaesong correspondent of the Tientsin Progressive Daily as saying that U. S. senators, American radio announcers and the press were "howling" for establishment of the buffer zone between Pyongyang and Wonsan—roughly 65 to 90 miles north of 38.

(Actually the battle lines were far south of these points, and there was no official or unofficial word that a line ever had been proposed between Pyongyang and Wonsan.)

U. N. and Communist peace negotiators began their 18th meeting promptly at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. EST Thursday). The Allied delegation flew to the Kaesong talks in helicopters, arriving there 20 minutes before the starting time set for the critical conference.

The very fact that the talks have not broken down, despite seven fruitless meetings, appeared significant to most observers at this headquarters. Both sides still seemed willing to keep trying for an armistice.

Nam "Rejects" U. N. Stand

The Communist radio at Peiping Thursday night announced that Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate at Kaesong, had "repudiated" the U. N. buffer "deep across the 38th parallel."

A later Peiping broadcast Friday morning quoted Nam as saying " . . . demands which attempt to push the military demarcation line deep into the positions of our side . . . are absolutely unacceptable."

The news in that announcement seemed to be the Communist choice of the word "deep." It would indicate the Communists might agree to a buffer zone that was not too "deep" inside North Korea.

Allies Advance Two Miles

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Friday, Aug. 3 (AP)—Advances of more than two miles on the Central Korean front were recorded by attacking Allied troops Thursday against slight Red resistance.

Size of the Allied movement on the front south-southeast of Kimsong was not disclosed by an Eighth Army communique, but it referred to "patrols ranging forward of attacking forces."

Only platoon-sized Red elements were found, with contact light.

German Inter-Zone Trade Halts Today

BONN, Germany, Aug. 2 (AP)—All legal trade between West and East Germany will come to a standstill tomorrow because of a dispute over Russian restrictions on West Berlin's exports.

The interim agreement for trade between the West German federal republic and the Soviet-occupied east zone expires at midnight tonight.

A new inter-zonal trade agreement has been drawn up but both the Western Allies and the Bonn government have refused to allow it to be signed until the Russians lift their restrictions on the shipment of goods from West Berlin to West Germany.

Magazine Says Scientists Find Evidence For Existence Of God

NEW YORK — (AP) — Does a modern scientist, unravelling the secrets of the physical universe, find any evidence there for the existence of God?

A national magazine said "yes" to the question today.

The report was contained in an article in Colliers, based on a series of interviews with atomic physicists, astronomers, biologists, anthropologists and mathematicians. It was headed "What Scientists Believe." The reporter, Howard Whitman, quoted all but a few of those he interviewed as saying they believe in a supreme being.

Their reasons, the article said, are varied.

Some of them, after years of studying the patterns and laws of physical life, have arrived at the conclusion that a superior intelligence must have arranged these systems. Whitman quoted Dr. Jan Schilt, head of the astronomy department at Columiba University as saying:

"The hope and faith of astronomers is that eventually we will find that it is so because it couldn't be otherwise. The greatest shock would be to find that it all just happened by chance."

One researcher, Dr. J. B. Rhine, of Duke University, told the reporter that the spiritual quality of man could be proved, scientifically, in the laboratory.

Dr. Rhine, a psychologist, has devoted most of his life to a series of experiments in "extra-sensory perception." They have attempted to determine whether the human mind can reach out and obtain information beyond the limits of the five physicals — whether an "extra-physical" factor exists in human beings.

Colliers said Dr. Rhine replied: "The question of the human soul boils down to this: Is there anything spiritual in human personality? We have proved in our laboratory that there is. We now have experimental evidence that such an extra-physical factor exists in man."

For centuries, the questions of proof, evidence and demonstrability have constiuted an abyss lying between the scientist and the man of religion.

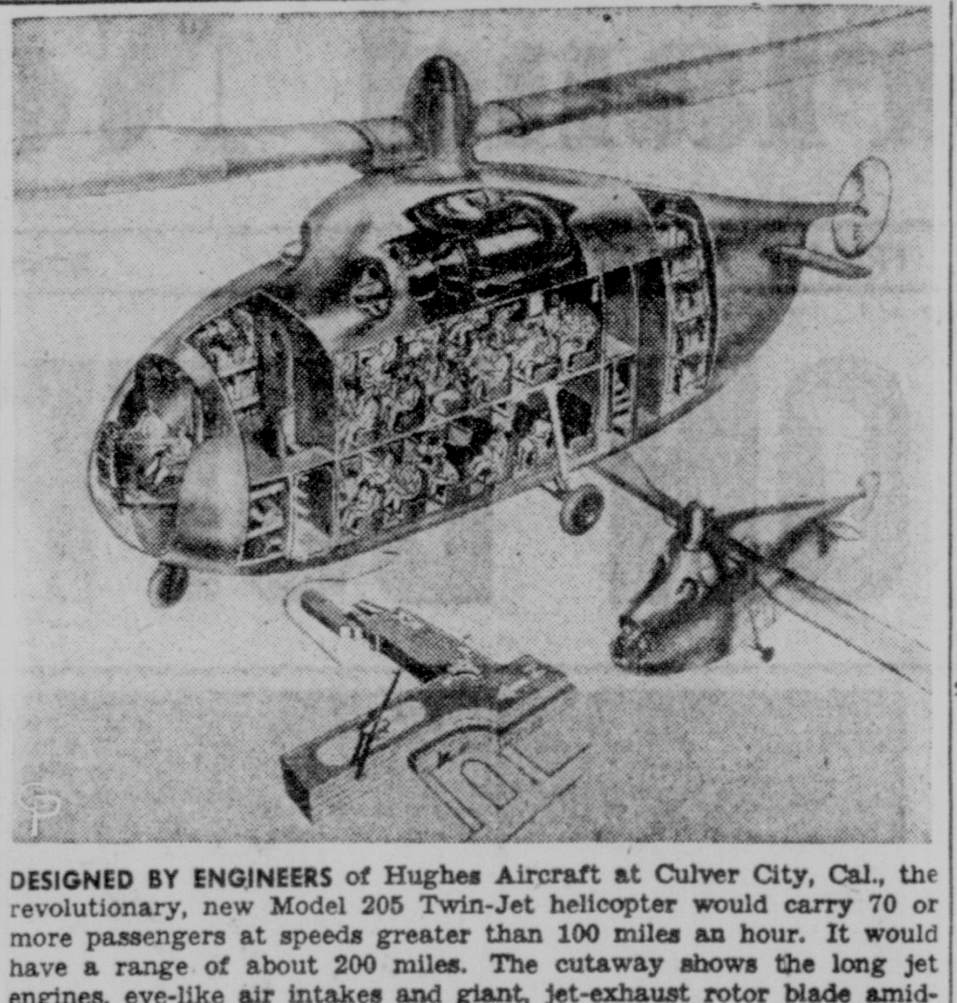
The scientist refused to accept anything on faith. If a phenomenon could be measured, set down in formula, and repeated invariably, he believed it. Without this evidence, he rejected it. Therefore, religious experience was considered non-scientific, and the existence of God — since it could not be scientifically demonstrated — was denied.

Some researchers still hold to that position, the article said. One told the writer that a god of love would not have permitted the existence of the materials from which the a-bomb is made.

Another said, however, "as I work at the atomic pile, I feel that God is there. I have faith that in the long run atomic energy will be beneficial."

Still another replied: "Where did mass and energy come from? We know we can't make it. We have found laws to prove we can't make it. There must be a higher power who can make it."

The magazine quoted Dr. Robert A. Millikan, widely-known California physicist, as saying "just how we fit into the plans of the Great Architect and how much He has assigned us to do, we do not know — but fit in we certainly do somehow, otherwise we would not have a sense of our own responsibility."



DESIGNED BY ENGINEERS of Hughes Aircraft at Culver City, Cal., the revolutionary, new Model 205 Twin-Jet helicopter would carry 70 or more passengers at speeds greater than 100 miles an hour. It would have a range of about 200 miles. The cutaway shows the long jet engines, eye-like air intakes and giant, jet-exhaust rotor blade amidship above the twin passenger decks. A special feature is a revolving baggage elevator aft. (International)

Polio War—1951

Hunt Pressed For Vaccine Or New Drug To Check Annual Epidemic

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK—(AP)—A penicillin for polio is one of this year's research hopes in the annual epidemic now threatening.

The new one won't be named penicillin, if discovered, but it will come from the same source, the good earth, and it will act on the same principles. Like penicillin, it will be an antibiotic.

This search centers at the New York Botanical Gardens with financial support of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Antibiotics are substances made by germs, molds and other invisibly small organisms that inhabit the soil. These creatures produce chemicals for their own private use, to get their food or defend their lives.

Theoretically, these microorganisms produce just about every chemical possible. It is virtually certain that somewhere there is a microfamily producing one that can kill the virus which causes polio. It may take a very long time, however, to find one that is also non-poisonous for human beings.

The botanical gardens are making the tedious search in thousands of samples of soil, gathered from all over the earth and flown to New York.

The foundation is investing four million dollars in research this year. One project is a synthetic chemical to kill polio virus. This will be something you can take in a spoon or pill. It will kill polio virus in your stomach. This aim is based on the medical belief that people get polio via food, drink or contamination entering their mouths.

A third chemical is sought to bolster the human serum that comes from the blood of polio patients. This serum has slight retarding effects on Polio. The chemical it is hoped, will add to the potency of the serum.

Another research is on gamma globulins, the fraction of your blood containing the antibodies by which your body fights all sorts of infections, including polio. This globulin comes from Red Cross blood donations. It is the same globulin that made the famous wartime measles remedy. Someone may find the key to making globulin work on polio.

The hope for a polio vaccine is still vague. By the end of this year the national foundation expects the first step will have been completed in the vaccine program. This is the census of the different kinds of polio viruses. Three are known. There may be others. Each one can cause the disease, but polio caused by one of them does not protect you from getting polio from a different virus. A vaccine will have to be made from all the polio viruses.

A vaccine already has been made for each of the three known polio viruses. Each one protects monkeys, but it may take years to find out whether vaccines will work for humans. Monkeys can be vaccinated and then given a dose of polio that will kill them if the vaccine fails. No one will take such a chance on human beings. In human outbreaks, the cases are too scattered for either speedy or accurate vaccine tests.

Another vaccine research seeks better ways of inactivating the viruses whose bodies must be used to make a vaccine. Inactivate means either to kill or to render harmless. The trouble is that inactivators destroy some of the immunity sought in the vaccine. The old ways of inactivating are formaldehyde and ultra-violet light. One new way is nitrogen mustard, the poison gas made for the last war. Another is super-sounds, the waves too high-pitched for human ears. These waves kill germs. They probably will kill viruses, and maybe not destroy so much of the vaccine powers.

675 Marylanders Face Induction In October

The State Selective Service office reported yesterday 675 Maryland men will be drafted in October.

A spokesman said the nation's draft call for that month is 41,000. Approximately 5,000 will be sent to the Marine Corps and the others will head for the Army.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, director, said Maryland's draft quota for August is 688. Local boards will send 18 selectees to Martinsburg, W. Va., ror induction.

Improved methods helped North Carolina farmers produce 81,995,000 bushels of corn in 1950 on the same acreage that grew 77,525,000 bushels in 1949.

Offshore Lands And Education

The big fight to tie federal aid to education to federal title to offshore lands will come in the Senate, according to Rep. Mansfield (D., Mont.). Mansfield had attempted by amendment in the House on July 30 to have moneys paid for mineral leases on the continental shelf turned over to the Treasury for "urgent developments" essential to national defense in the present period of emergency and thereafter for aid to education.

The Mansfield proposal was thrown out on a point of order. The House then went on to pass a bill which would give to the states undisputed title to submerged lands lying between low-water mark and a line three miles off shore. The federal government would keep control of land on the continental shelf beyond the three-mile limit, but any individual state would get 37½ per cent of moneys received for leases on such land lying off its seaward boundary.

The House vote was 265 to 109, more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a presidential veto. President Truman in 1946 vetoed a measure to give the states control over off-shore lands. The House sustained the veto, failing to override by 17 votes. Proceeds from the lease of offshore lands under the Mansfield proposal eventually would have gone to the states as "grants-in-aid" to primary, secondary, and higher education. In the Senate Senator Hill (D., Ala.) has offered a similar amendment to the offshore lands bill.

The language of the Mansfield amendment may have been intentionally vague. Thus would have been avoided the controversy over money for parochial schools which twice has bogged down Senate-passed aid to education bills in the House.

The Senate voted for federal aid, 59 to 22, in 1948, and 58 to 15, in 1949. Its measures were blocked in the House Committee on Education and Labor as the result of irreconcilable differences over aid to parochial schools. Rep. Barden (D., N. C.), a bitter foe of aid to any except public schools, is chairman of that committee.

Barden in 1949 offered a substitute for the Senate aid-to-education bill which would have specifically forbidden use of federal funds to provide transportation or health services for either public or parochial schools. Cardinal Spellman characterized the substitute as discriminatory against parochial schools and said its advocates were "conducting a craven crusade of religious prejudice."

Chiefly to benefit under the offshore lands bill as passed by the House would be Texas, California, and Louisiana, where submerged oil deposits are known to exist. Texas is particularly favored, for the bill would extend to that state rights to land 10½ miles (three leagues) offshore. The special provision for Texas recognizes the language of the treaty by which Texas was admitted to the Union.

The Supreme Court on June 5, 1950, ruled that the federal government had "paramount rights to and full dominion and power over" lands under marginal seas. The Court did not, however, determine whether actual title to those lands rests with the states or the federal government. Rep. Celler (D., N. Y.), an opponent of the pending bill, has declared that, "The President has no choice but to veto it."

Probably Inevitable

Human nature being what it is, racketeering could have been expected to develop in the veterans education program. It did. According to the report of the Government Accounting Office, federal overpayments of at least $20,000,000 were made during the past five years to schools and colleges participating in the program.

While the GAO is charitable enough to say that some of the excess payments were the result of accounting errors, it cites enough sharp practices to indicate that there was a widespread effort by individuals and institutions to feather nests at the government's expense. Some colleges, on joining the program, raised tuition fees as much as 300 per cent. Others were guilty of gross overcharges for books and equipment. Still others made the government pay for such items as "entertainment and banquets" and "flowers for funerals."

Perhaps the worst feature of the program was the overnight creation of schools which had no other purpose than to "cash in" on a market that was swollen by the demand of some 7,000,000 veterans for education of one sort or another. Many of these schools were started by men without educational background.

They lacked ordinary facilities and equipment. They taught courses which plainly were of no practical value to anybody. In innumerable cases it was clear that both schools and students were around just for a free ride.

It is unfortunate that an enterprise which was designed to help veterans get a start in life—and which of course did help millions of them—should have been tainted with so much scandal. But that was probably envitable.

A Patron Of The Arts

The world of art lost one of its leading patrons and one of its stormiest figures in the automobile accident which killed 78-year-old Dr. Albert Coombs Barnes. He was irascible and unpredictable. He was acid and arrogant with those with whom he disagreed. He barred all but a selected few from the magnificent collections of art house in the private museum on his estate at Merion, Pa.

But as a connoisseur of paintings he had few peers. He was a generous patron of modern artists, and he has left behind him one of the world's finest collections of modern masterpieces.

His first claim to fame was as the discoverer of an antiseptic, argyrol. If this was a long way from the field of art, his discovery furnished him with the millions with which he indulged his taste for paintings.

He spent perhaps $5,000,000 in amassing a collection which includes the staggering total of 200 Renoirs, 100 Cezannes, 75 Matisses, 35 Picassos, and hundreds of other treasures of all periods beginning with the Sixth Century before Christ. It is a tribute to his discernment that this collection is valued at somewhere between $20,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Many people found it difficult to understand why Dr. Barnes refused to let anyone see his fabulous collection except a few intimate friends just as they found it difficult to understand his innumerable feuds. But, whatever the reason, the public is the gainer now. The works of art which Dr. Barnes devoted much of his life ad fortune to amasscing are now to be opened to public view.

Future generations will owe Dr. Barnes a debt of gratitude.

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

DDT And Other Insecticides

DDT still is one of our most popular insecticides. The housewife finds it just as effective for her purpose as does the farmer and fruit grower. The public health aspects of DDT are well known. The compound has contributed toward the downfall of malaria laden mosquitoes in a large part of the world. A recent report from Mexico stated that annual spraying of houses with the product during the past four or five years has reduced the incidence of malaria by 75 to 95 per cent in certain communities.

Mixtures of DDT and other substances are proving excellent remedies in other ways. When the insecticide is combined with benzyl benzoate, it makes a good scabies treatment. DDT larvicides, dusts, and sprays also have been used against disease carrying ticks, fleas, and lice. The same can be said of the filth and nuisance insects such as flies, roaches, bedbugs, and beetles. DDT controls many plant pests including the species that attack vegetables, fruit, shade, and forest trees as well as field and grain crops. Most food growers are acquainted with the dangers associated with its use along this line; but the consumer never should take chances. Fresh fruit and vegetables must be washed thoroughly before they are eaten.

DDT is insoluble in water but mixes moderately well in mineral and vegetable oils and is readily soluble in organic solvents such as kerosene. It comes in many forms and the concentrations employed vary from 1 to 75 per cent. Some manufacturers sell DDT in oil solutions or petroleum; others prepare emulsion concentrates that are diluted with water before using. Powders are available so that DDT can be applied as a dust or added to a wetting agent mixed with water and utilized later as a spray. Aerosol bombs also are popular; these are oil solutions that are dispersed as mist or smoke. DDT also has been incorporated into paints, polishes, and waxes.

During World War II the Germans developed another type of insecticide while they were searching for nerve gasses to be used in chemical warfare. These organic phosphate compounds include parathion, TEPP, and HEPT, which are used chiefly in controlling aphids, mites, and other fruit and vegetable pests rather than in combating insects that attack man and animals. They are so potent they must be employed only by experts; otherwise fatalities will occur. Up to a year ago, more than 198 deaths had been reported, all traceable to improper use.

Absorption takes place through the skin, eyes, and the gastrointestinal tract. Of the three, parathion is the most dangerous. Symptoms of poisoning include giddiness, headache, nausea, vomiting, excess salivation, tearing of the eyes, confusion, and weakness. In severe cases convulsions, marked constriction of the bronchi, and heart failure may occur. Users of these products must take every precaution by wearing protective clothing and a face mask while spraying, followed by thorough washing of the hands and face after finishing the job. Now that we are aware of the hazards of the products, the incidence of fatalities will decrease.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen describes how hernias develop.

SETS OF TEETH

Mrs. V. writes. How many teeth can the average person expect to get in a lifetime?

REPLY

Twenty at first and later, 32. The store variety usually contains 28. The first and second sets come free, but the third does not unless you go to England.

POISON IVY

C. P. writes: Is it safe to handle poison ivy with rubber gloves?

REPLY

It may be, if the person is only mildly susceptible to the plant. The gloves should be washed well with soap and water before removing them. Otherwise touching them with the bare skin may result in a skin eruption. Moreover, the poisonous substance may remain on gloves, shoes, and other pieces of wearing apparel for a long time unless they are washed or cleaned before putting them away.

KNUCKLE CRACKER

B. T. writes: How can I get over the habit of cracking my finger joints? This annoys me as well as everyone else about me.

REPLY

Concentrate on something more in keeping with your age — not thumbsucking, nail biting, or hair pulling.

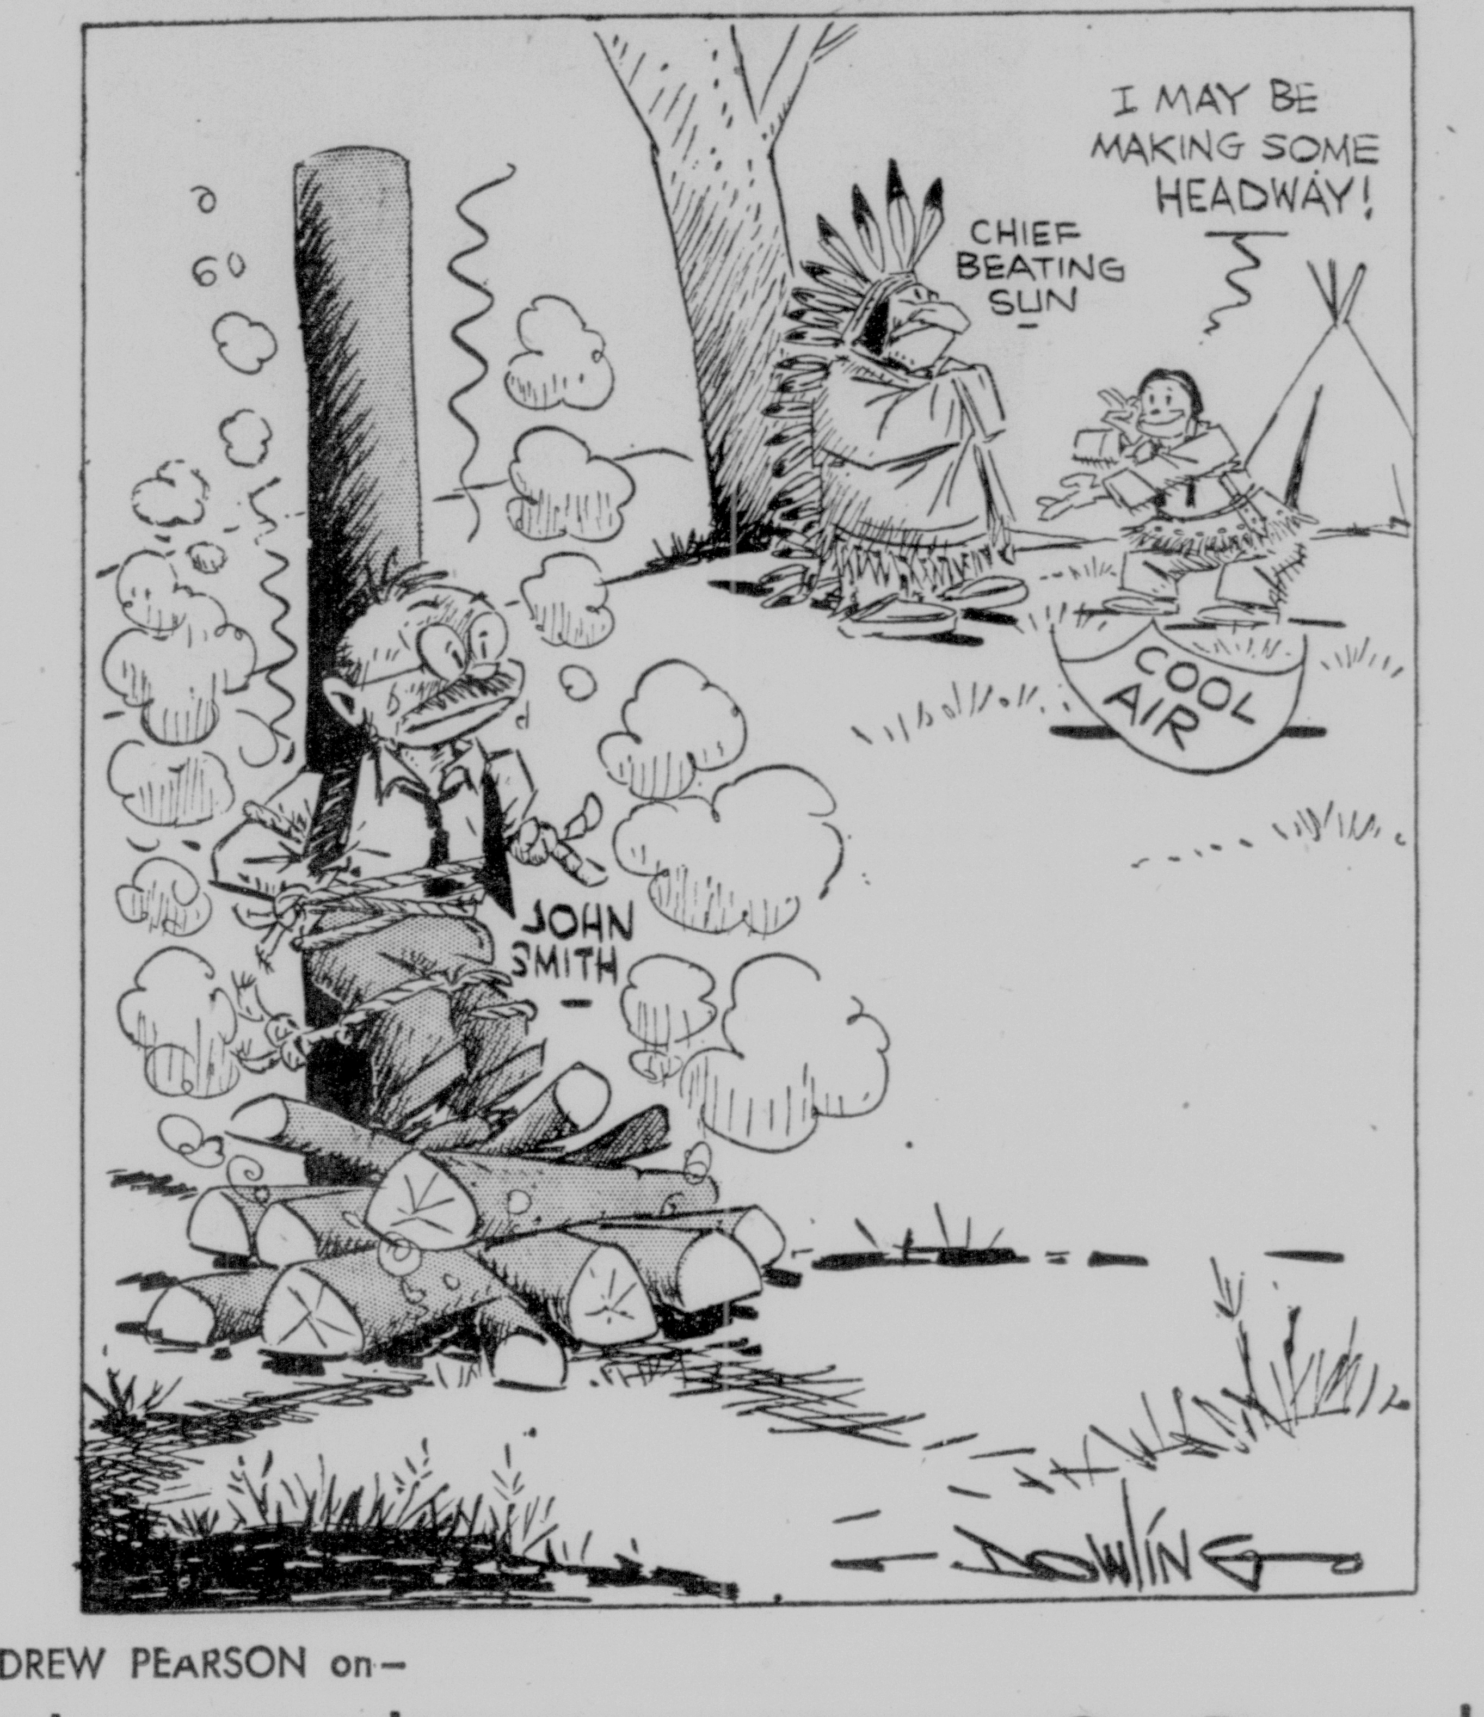
CHILD TIPTOES

Mrs. L. writes: A 14 month old boy walks and runs on tiptoes. He falls and stumbles frequently. Will this be outgrown?

REPLY

Yes as a rule, but the child should be examined for the existence of abnormalities to account for these manifestations.

Pocahontas To The Rescue



DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Bends An Ear To 1952; Assistant Army Secretary Fishes By Helicopter; Grand Mufti Paid To Assassinate Arabs Friendly To West

WASHINGTON—President Truman has sent a confidential memo to all Cabinet officers orderng them to clear their out-of-town appearances with Democratic National Chairman Bill Boyle. Some folks consider this a tip that HST plans to run again, since this is the first time he has sent formal political instructions to his Cabinet. Anyway here is the confidential letter:

"Mr. Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, made a suggestion to me which I think is worthwhile. He would like very much to be notified when Cabinet offcers, secretares and undersecretaries go into any community outside of Washington for the purpose of making a speech, so he can arrange a proper reception for them when they get into town.

"He thinks that would not only help their prestige in the community, but would give our local leaders a chance to be in the limelight to some extent, and that is a very necessary procedure in a political organization.

"I'll appreciate it very much if this procedure can be followed," the President concluded in what amounts to a polite, but positive order.

Free Fishing Trip

If it's hot in Washington and you are high enough up in the Pentagon, it's fairly easy to go fishing in cool, far-off Newfoundland. Or at least Assistant Secretary of the Army Earl D. Johnson found this to be so the other day.

Mr. Johnson has the excuse that his mobilization assignment is with MATS, the air transport agency of the armed services, so he slips away for flights with MATS from time to time. Accordingly last July 10 found him on a hospital plane from Westover, Mass., flying to the air base at Stephensville, Newfoundland.

The hospital plane is equipped with stretchers for flying wounded out of Korea, and just what it was doing on the run to Europe is not known.

Arriving at Stephensville, Assistant Secretary Johnson was entertained by the commanding officer, Col. Clayton Hughes. Another colonel, Andrew Cannon, a MATS transport group commander, whose headquarters is Kelly Air Base, Texas, also had some time to kill in the cool of Newfoundland, so the three cooked up a fishing trip.

An air force helicopter, normally used for air rescue operations, was on hand, and Col. Hughes arranged to give Assistant Secretary Johnson a demonstration. The rescue demonstration featured a flight to a salmon stream where they attempted to rescue some salmon.

Assistant Secretary Johnson, when queried about the incident, explained that he also made a helicopter inspection of the air force's installations, but admitted he spent most of the time fishing—about six hours.

"However," he added a little ruefully, "I didn't catch any fish."

Congressional Grandparents

Three-month-old Kristie Lynn Cavalcante of Uniontown, Pa., whose two grandfathers served in the House of Representatives at the same time, will add a grandmother to the congressional list when Congresswoman-elect Vera Buchanan of Pennsylvania is sworn in this week.

Kristie Lynn is the granddaughter of Mrs. Buchanan and the late Rep. Frank Buchanan of Pennsylvana. After her husband's death this year, Mrs. Buchanan was elected to his seat in a special election.

Kristie Lynn also is the granddaughter of former Rep. Tony Cavalcante of Pennsylvania, who was a colleague of Buchanan for one term in the House. Some day her dad, William Cavalcante, a Uniontown law student, hopes to succeed his father in Congress.

If this happens Kristie Lynn really will have something to brag about—three grandparents and one father in Congress.

Communism In Arab World

Though it was known that an agent of the ex-Grand Mufti of Jerusalem assassinated King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, it is not generally known that the Grand Mufti, having been Hitler's paid agent in the Near East, has now taken over the same job for Moscow.

The Mufti has turned up at various Pan-Islamic meetings throughout the Middle East as the tool of Moscow and stager of revolt against the West. And to show that Moscow is the great friend of the Arab world, the Mufti has been given the job of establishing an Arab university in Communist Warsaw.

Furthermore it is now beginning to look as if the Grand Mufti and his agents were behind the agitation against the British in Egypt, the assassination of the late pro-British premier of Iran and the murder of other leaders friendly to the West.

One significant aspect of the Mufti's operations is the way the Nazis and the Communists not only are using the same tactics, but bet their money on the same man. During the war, Hitler and Mussolini paid the Mufti nearly half a million dollars. And on April 5, 1945, just one month before the war ended, the Nazis signed a contract with him to continue stirring up trouble in the Near East.

Though Hitler killed himself soon afterward, the Mufti is certainly carrying out his part of the bargain.

Cigarets For Germans

Careful scrutiny of the law governing Marshall Plan aid shows that it's full of sleepers, designed to aid private interests in this country as much as the needy people of Europe.

For example, the law provides ECA dollars to buy tobacco for Germany, but stipulates that the tobacco must be purchased in the United States. This is a $45,000,000 windfall for U. S. tobacco interests at the U. S. taxpayers' expense. For the taxpayers are already subsidizing over $30,000,000 of Greek tobacco which is rotting in Greek warehouses.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Whether or not President Truman wants to run for another term, the Democratic party leaders will want to consider whether he would be the strongest candidate they could name this time. It is no secret that the Republicans would like to see Mr. Truman a candidate again because they think he would be a weak contender.

The question as to what the President's real strength was in 1948 from a party viewpoint plays a part in such discussions. This week "U. S. News & World Report" published a statistical analysis which shows that Mr. Truman ran far behind the Democratic ticket in enough states last time as to indicate that the Democratic party was much stronger than the presidential nominee.

Thus, in 18 states which accounted for 200 of Mr. Truman's 304 electoral votes, the President failed to lead the ticket. Congressional candidates ran way ahead of him in those states. In Illinois, for example, Senator Douglas, Democrat, carried the state by 408,000, while Mr. Truman carried it by only 34,000. Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives had a majority of 178,000 in Illinois. Adlai Stevenson carried the state for governor on the Democratic ticket by 572,000.

Narrow Margin In Ohio

The same thing happened in Ohio, where Mr. Truman squeezed through with only 7,107, while the Democratic governor won by 221,000 and the Democratic congressional candidates had an average of 132,000 more votes than the Republican candidates.

In 30 states with 388 electoral votes, Mr. Truman lagged behind the congressional candidates of his party. In 18 states with only 143 electoral votes, including the ten whose 101 electoral votes he did carry, Mr. Truman outran the local candidates.

So, in summary, Mr. Truman may possibly not have carried enough states with sufficient electoral votes to make the requisite 267 except for the fact that he had behind him the strong candidates on the local tickets. Often the straight-ticket voters, who are anxious to assure the election of their local candidates for state offices or for Congress, will mark the entire ballot all one way just to make sure. The 1948 ballotting, however, does show how many voters split their ticket in order to vote for the state and congressional nominees of the Democratic party but against Mr. Truman.

The obvious conclusion is that Mr. Truman was not stronger but much weaker than his party in 1948 throughout the country. If it be thought that this was due to the disaffections in the South it will be noted that the President ran behind his ticket in all the Northern states and Western with the exception of California, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Massachuetts.

The Northern states whose electoral votes he lost in 1948 were Maine, Vermont, New Hampshore, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oregon. But he ran behind his ticket also in the following Northern states: Rhode Isalnd, Ohio, Illinois, West Virginia, Missouri, Colorado, Utah, Montana, Arizona, and New Mexico.

Which Is Stronger

The issue is really whether Mr. Truman is stronger today than he was in 1948 or whether the Democratic party will be so much stronger in 1952, that if the President is renominated, he can count on his party to pull him through.

The public opinion polls show that the President is not as popular as he was in 1948 but, if his party is much stronger, presumably he could be elected. This, however, is offset by the fact that many people, in their desire to vote against the top of the ticket, will vote the straight ticket of the opposing party and this is something that worries the candidates who will be running on the congressional or state tickets.

The decision as to whether to try to run Mr. Truman again will be made by handpicked delegates to the Democratic National Convention and any president can be renominated if he wants to bring it about. The recent comment, however, by Jacob Arvey, the Illinois Democratic leader, which was lukewarm about a Truman renomination indicates that the local leadership is far more concerned about Mr. Truman running again than is apparent on the surface. Hence, the frenquent statements by Mr. Truman's appointees that they want him to run again are not to be taken as necessarily reflecting Democratic party sentiment.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Frederick V. Field

Frederick Vanderbilt Field has come into the news as a millionaire Don Quixote, duelling the windmills of the law, in grim, determined hopelessness. His thin, youthful figure gives him the air more of a Hamlet than a Don Quixote. He rejected the disciplines of his family, his country, his God, but goes to jail for accepting the discipline of Joe Stalin.

It all seemed so unnecessary and so fruitless. Freddie used to be a gentle and lovable person, charming to a fault, gay and big-hearted. That tight mouth and fist clenched about his pipe, that fighting to be silent when his very nature should force him to speak out loud, shows what the disciplines of communism can do to a man, once he submits to its rigidities.

When I first met Freddie Field, he was not a Communist. He was a mild but very confused Norman Thomas Socialist who had come to the Far East on his honeymoon and was full of ideas on how to save the world.

In the 29th Century, he would probably have become a clergyman, perhaps a missionary. In the period of Theodore Roosevelt, he might have fought the trusts or gone in for conservation. In the era of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he became a Communist, but with a bitterness, a vindictiveness hardly understandable to those who believe that boys and girls of good families could not possibly become Stalin's stooges. It is too often boys and girls of good families who make bad headlines.

Freddie's background was not unusual for a Vanderbilt. He lived in a marble palace on Fifth Avenue and in the mignficent estate, "Highlawn" in Lee, Massachusetts, near Lenox and Stockbridge.

Freddie went to Hotchkiss where he encountered the mild reformism that went in those days as socialism. After that came Harvard where he made the best clubs and the "Crimson."

Frederick Vanderbilt Field's mother was a gentle woman who managed the complicated affairs of such a household with competence and efficiency. I lived for some months of the year in the Berkshires and can say that the townspeople still remember Mrs. Field favorably.

The same cannot be said about the father. He was a curiously gross person, reactionary, selfish, overpowering. We once argued about revolutions and the Communists and the forces at work in the world. I reached the conclusion that had he lived in Germany, he would have been a Nazi.

There can be no question but that the really dominant factor in Freddie's conversion to Marxism was a revolt against his father, who did nothing but live on inherited wealth. This revolt turned to distress as his father's life became increasingly messy.

His great friendship with Joseph Barnes, at college and at the Institute of Pacific Relations, ended when his first wife left him and married Barnes. To an outsider, Freddie and his first wife seemed to be perfectly mated and very attached to each other. Often the man with his fist against his own life turns to some rigid discipline as a rationalization for the causes of his bitterness.

The tragedy in Field's life is that he rebelled against the disciplines of a society he knew and understood and yet accepted the rigid disciplines fo international communism, on account of which he is now in jail and likely to be for some time. It is this Communist discipline which forces him to lie by silence.

It is difficult to understand what pressures, intellectual or otherwise, the Communists can force upon such a person that will drive him to the extremities which Field is obviously pursuing. What urgencies are employed? What power do they exercise over him? What fears, what hopes do they engender?

I do not know.

I was discussing this situation the other day with a man who was Field's friend at Harvard. They were both on the "Crimson" and both belonged to the same clubs. They had been quite close. This man, no more than I, could visualize the Freddie Field we knew, all mixed up in the silliness of refusing to answer because Communist discipline required him not to answer.

Yet, we know that Larry Duggan went to his death, by suicide or was pushed out of a window, because of the same discipline. And we know of Whittaker Chambers's fears and of Alger Hiss's curious conduct.

The long arm of the Kremlin reaches far and plucks at all kinds and classes of persons, it's horrible work to perform.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Stalin And Mao II

WASHINGTON

Chinese Communist dictator Mao Tse-tung has clearly warned his opposite number in the Kremlin that he considers all of Asia an exclusive province for the expansion of Chinese power. This is the only reasonable interpretation of the real meaning of seven articles, written by high Chinese Communist officials and published within the last month in China.

These seven articles make up 45 closely-typed pages of turgid Communist prose. The best way to extract their inner meaning is to ask the reader to perform a difficult act of the imagination.

Imagine, then, that Klement Gottwald, Communist President of satellite Czechoslovakia, suddenly announces "The Gottwald theory of revolution," hailing his "theory" as the greatest contribution to Marxist doctrine since Lenin's death. Assume further that "the Gottwald theory of revolution" must guide all future revolutionary activity in Western Europe, according to Gottwald, because the economic and social structure of Czechoslovakia is much more like Western Europe's than is Russia's.

This is sheer fantasy, of course. "The Gottwald theory of revolution" would never see the light of day, nor, for very long, would Gottwald. Yet this is precisely, and without the slightest exaggeration, what Mao Tse-tung has now done, through the medium of the seven articles by his chief subordinates. Although Stalin's name is not even mentioned in four of these articles, in the three others there are formal bows in his direction. But on the essential points, Mao makes himself entirely clear.

Classic Type Revolutions

"Mao Tse-tung's theory of the Chinese revolution," an "enrichment of Marxism-Leninism," must be the basis for solving the "problems of revolution in the colonial and semi-colonial countries." These countries are "Viet-Nam (Indo-China), Burma, Indonesia, Malaya, and the Philippines," with "India, Japan, and other countries," in a second, less urgent category. The new dogma is stated explicitly:

"The classic type of revolution in imperialist countries was the October revolution (in Russia). The classic type of revolution in colonial and semi-colonial countries is the Chinese revolution."

Stalin will most certainly understand what is meant by this. Mao is in effect saying to Stalin: "Europe is yours. But Asia is mine. Keep out."

It is reasonable to assume that this none too subtle declaration of ideological independence and expansionist intention has shaken the Kremlin like nothing else since the defection of Tito. But does this mean that Mao Tse-tung is to become another Tito?

The whole tone of the seven articles indicates very clearly that Mao Tse-tung will welcome a really equal alliance with the Soviet Union, provided the sphere of expansion of each partner is clearly marked out. For a time at least the Kremlin may accept this, as the best of a bad bargain. But in the Kremlin's view, it can only be a very bad bargain.

Kremlin Has Lever

The Kremlin's propaganda has never for a moment acknowledged Mao Tse-tung's ambitious claims. Mao is regularly pictured as a humble and grateful disciple of the great Stalin. Moreover, according to the best intelligence, the Russians are making a determined effort to infiltrate and control the Chinese Communist apparatus. Finally, the Kremlin has a very powerful lever to use on Mao; the Chinese Communists cannot possibly carry on the Korean War, for example, without the weapons and supplies which can come only from Russia. It is interesting that the seven articles were published soon after the Malik peace bid, which suggests that the Kremlin may have been using precisely this lever.

At any rate, there is now no doubt that the seeds of conflict between the two great Communist powers have been sown. Yet if the conflict does break into open flame, nothing would be more foolish than to expect in China a precise repetition of Titoism. For one conclusion is implicit in all the available evidence. Mao Tse-tung's China is more violently expansionist than Stalin's Russia.

The Soviet leaders have had 30 years to digest their revolution. The Chinese Communists are intoxicated with the new wine of power. "Mao Tse-tung's theory of the Chinese revolution" calls for "armed struggle"—which means violent revolution. The armed struggle in "the colonial and semi-colonial countries" is to be promoted and supported now, not at some time in the distant future. And an open break with the Kremlin, if it comes, is just as likely to increase as to diminish this appetite for power throughout Asia.

Moreover, the Chinese Communist ambition to expand is altogether likely violently to stimulate the Soviet impulse to expand. If a competition for world Communist leadership develops, Stalin must literally at all costs outdo Mao Tse-tung, in order to contain and control his heretical rival. Thus Mao Tse-tung's challenge to the Kremlin gives the West no grounds whatsoever for complacency. But at least it is worth noting that Mao Tse-tung is no bought-and-paid-for satellite stooge, and that he is not likely to become one without a most determined struggle. For this is one of the central facts of our time.

"Fantastic" Plan To Gain Offshore Oil Wells Bared

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — A member of Congress protested today against what he termed a "most fantastic" plan of a private group to take over offshore Louisiana oil wells by using public land scrip issued years ago to old soldiers.

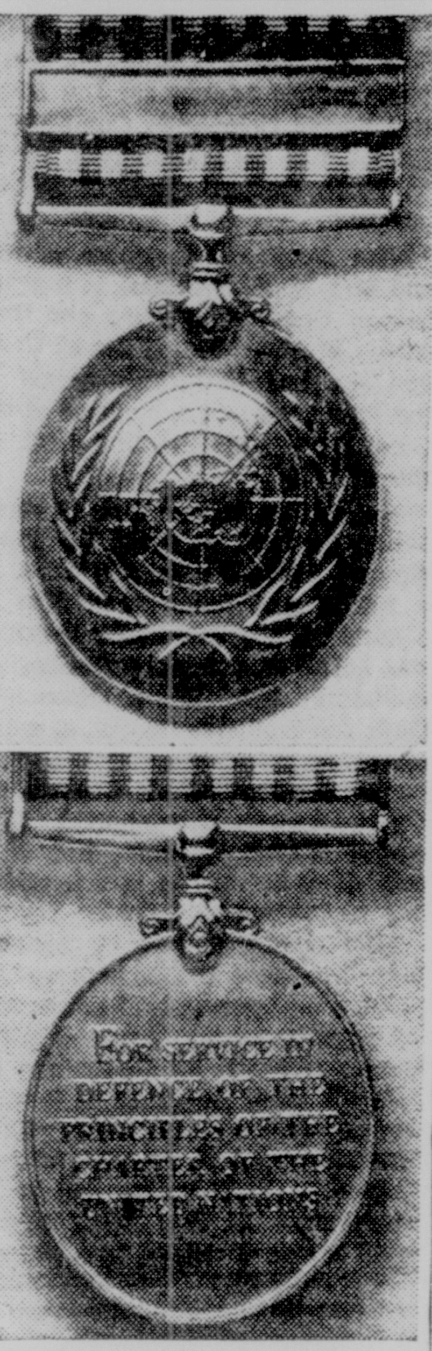
The protest was made by Rep. Willis (D-La) who, in a letter, asked Secretary of the Interior Chapman to deny the land applications of the group. Willis said it is headed by E. L. Cord, former automobile manufacturer.

The land scrip involved, Willis told a reporter, was issued by Congress after some of the Indian wars, the War of 1812 and the Civil War. Each of these scrip certificates, he said, entitled the soldier to whom it was issued or his heirs and assigns to claim a tract of public land, usually 160 acres.

The Cord group, Willis continued, assembled old scrip certificates calling for more than 1,900 acres of public land, then filed applications claiming land around oil wells in the Gulf of Mexico on the theory that this submerged land is public land and subject to claims by scrip holders.

Actually, Willis said, the Cord group is thus seeking title to 40 oil wells off the coast of Louisiana, producing 12,000 barrels of oil daily. These, he said, are all the producing wells in the area.

Marion Clawson, director of the land bureau, told a reporter Cord previously had tried to apply the scrip against submerged lands off California, but that the application had been denied.



HERE is a front and back view of the medal which has been established for veterans of the United Nations forces in Korea. The medal is of bronze alloy, suspended on a ribbon of vertical blue and white stripes. On one face is the United Nations emblem. On the other is inscribed "For Service in Defence of the Principles of the Charter of the United Nations." (International)

Mason Termed 'Complete Fraud'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Grand jury proceedings were started today against Sam Mason, denounced by a Senate subcommittee as "a complete fraud" who raked in $250,000 by promising cheap leases on government property.

Attorney General McGrath announced that the Justice Department would ask the federal grand jury to indict Mason on charges of perjury and obtaining money through false pretenses.

Mason's story, according to witnesses who appeared before the Senate's subcommittee on investigations, was that the government was going underground to escape an atomic attack and that many of its surface buildings would become "surplus".

Fathers Maxim Markiw and Peter Hewko of the Order of St. Basil in New York testified they paid Mason up to $200,000 for leases they never got. They said they hoped to earn enough money from their investment to expand the activities of their Greek Catholic Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohdan Katamay of Philadelphia said they and their relatives kicked in about $35,000 on the scheme. Katamay is editor of the Ukranian newspaper "America".

Md. Youth Gets Tax "Refund" Of $508,666

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—An 18-year-old Rockville, Md., high school boy, seeking a tax refund of $21.88, received a government check for a whopping $508,666.26.

Jay G. Biesser didn't know whether he was the beneficiary of a windfall or the victim of red tape.

The case came to light today when he got in touch with the Bureau of Internal Revenue to find out what it was all about. He learned that the Treasury wants the check back and is willing and anxious to replace it with one for $21.88.

A Treasury spokesman said he had not seen the check, but presumed the person operating the check writing machine put down the serial number of the check instead of the amount to be paid. The check is numbered 50-866-626.

Shampoos Given King's Swans To Remove Oil

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The swans in the River Thames, under terms of ancient law, belong to the King—and lately they looked a mess.

The untidy appearance was due to the fact that a ship which should have known better discharged a lot of bilge and oil into the river. The swans became sticky and the color of mice. They were no credit to the King.

It was all set right today in a spectacular roundup of swans. Men in boats crowded them up against a dock. They were fished out, and despite outraged squawking their feet were tied. Then they were hauled in vans to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals where experts gave them shampoos.

Meat 'Maldistribution' Predicted By DiSalle

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP) — Price Control Director Michael V. DiSalle predicted today that a "maldistribution of meat will occur" as a result of recent changes in the price control law.

Moreover, he said, both meat price control and price rollbacks will be difficult to achieve.

DiSalle spoke at a mid-summer conference of the United Jewish Appeal, Jewish fund-raising organization.

"Instead of strengthening the act, I think they have weakened it substantially," he said.

The price chief particularly assailed amendments which he said prevent imposition of slaughtering quotas and which put difficult limitations on price rollbacks.

Peiping Radio Urges War Production Hike

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Communist negotiators may be talking of an armistice in Korea but the Peiping radio today talked in terms of war.

The Red broadcast, heard by the Associated Press, urged Korean civilian workers to increase production in support of the front line troops.

It said "victory can only be consolidated and peace guaranteed by increasing our strength."

It also said women workers in an army clothing factory were hard at work to "complete their quota of winter uniforms before Aug. 15, so-called Communist "Liberators" day.

House Defers Action On Oatis Resolution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The House debated today whether diplomacy or "tough" action is the best way to get William N. Oatis, American newsman, released from a Czech prison. A decision was put off for a week.

Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment on "espionage" charges.

The House was all set to adopt a resolution condemning the action of the Czechoslovakian government and calling for steps to obtain his release. But it got snagged over a decision on how strong the resolution should be.

Fairchild Helps AEC On Atom Plane Project

HAGERSTOWN, Md. Aug. 2 (AP)—The Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. acknowledged today it is one of the firms cooperating with the government in its work toward development of atom-driven aircraft.

The Atom Energy Commission has announced that definite progress has been made toward the developing of submarines and planes using atomic propulsion.

Fairchild has been helping with the nuclear energy project for the past five years, it was learned. The work has been going on at Oak Ridge, Tenn., by the aircraft firm's nuclear energy for the propulsion of aircraft division.

Probers Quiz Adams

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (AP)—William (Little Willie) Adams spent about 10 minutes today with a grand jury investigating Baltimore crime.

Henry Parr III Weds

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 2 (AP) — Henry A. Parr III, 46, former president of the Maryland Jockey Club, and Mrs. William H. Labrot were married quietly today at Famous Beach Farm north of here.

Poles Mutiny, Sail To Sweden

YSTAD, Sweden, Aug. 2 (AP) — Sixteen mutineers locked up their officers at pistol point aboard a Polish minesweeper today and took the ship to this South Swedish port.

Twelve of the 16, with the permission of Swedish police, went ashore to plead with higher Swedish authorities for asylum. The four others sailed back tonight across the Baltic to face whatever fate might await them in Poland. Home port of the vessel, the Hedregfariczon, was given as Kolberg, in Polish Pomerania, only 100 miles south of Ystad.

A Swedish police official said the minesweeper's officers had insisted on taking the vessel back to Poland immediately.

"They are afraid of the consequences," he said.

This was the first mutiny aboard a Communist man-o'-war in the Baltic since the Russian revolution.

The mutineers told the police they had locked up their officers in the wardroom before setting their course toward the nearest point on the Swedish coast. With one of the mutineers on the bridge and the officers peering out of the scuttles, the Hedregfariczon docked this morning in this little port.

This is the second Baltic mutiny aboard a Communist ship in two weeks. Three Lithuanians locked up Russian crew members of the trawler Samsun July 19 and also escaped to Sweden.

Sweden has turned down a request by Rear Adm. Konstantin Rodionov, Soviet ambassador, that the Lithuanians be returned to Russia.

Armed Prospector Keeps Lonely Vigil

DURANGO, Colo., Aug. 2 (AP) — A 56-year-old prospector from Oregon, armed with a pistol, kept a lonely vigil in the Southwestern Colorado mountains tonight — and authorities, fearful he might use the weapon, gave him plenty of room.

Sheriff Chester Petty said the man, identified as Millard Carmean, had threatened to shoot anyone approaching too close.

The man was reported to be still on a pinnacle with a sheer 250-foot drop, about 22 miles northwest of here in what the sheriff called "really rough country."

The sheriff and Carmean's relatives are hopeful that the prospector's 18-year-old daughter might be able to persuade him to leave his mountain hideaway without using the .38-caliber pistol he is believed to have with him.

Mrs. Charlene Smith of San Diego notified the sheriff she hoped to reach Durango some time tonight.

EX-PRIEST VISITS AMERICAN GIRL—Luciano Negrini (left) leaves Milan's San Vittore jail on a motorbike with an unidentified driver after visiting Claire Young, 21, Chicago girl who yesterday was released. Negrini was unfrocked and excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church shortly after the visit, leaving the 43-year-old former priest free to marry.

British Goodwill Gesture To Iran

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP) — Britain warmed up a plane today for the cabinet mission assigned to new talks with Iran on the oil crisis, then delayed the departure so the mission would not arrive in Tehran until after the Moslem sabbath.

The Moslems observe Friday as their holy day and day of rest.

Britain's quick appreciation of such a point was considered by observers here as striking a new note in the long dispute over the future of the $1,400,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

There seemed little doubt that W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy in Tehran, had impressed upon both Britain and Iran that bitterness must be banished from their negotiations.

Comi Found Guilty

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., Aug. 2 (AP)—Joseph Comi, Baltimore juke box operator, today was found guilty of numbers writing charges and sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction and fined $1,000.

A Howard County jury deliberated 40 minutes before returning the guilty verdict.

Defense Department Obligates $35 Billion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Defense Department said today it obligated $35,300,000,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30 for major equipment, clothing, food, fuel and military construction.

The total covered contracts placed and announced intentions to buy specific items from private industry and government shipyards and arsenals.

The year ended with $4,500,000,000 remaining of the funds available for military procurement, except for what one defense official called the "trivial" sum of $200,000,000. The unused spending authority has been carried over to the current year.

Stassen To Decide Soon

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 2 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said today he will make up his mind in the next month of two whether to seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1952.

Engineer Is Hero In Train-Truck Crash

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 2 (AP)—An engineer jumped from his burning locomotive and pulled a driver from a flaming truck today after the truck and train crashed at a crossing north of here.

State police listed the Pennsylvania Railroad Diesel freight engineer as Clarence Zech, York, Pa. and the truck driver as Robert Albaugh, 20, Detour, Md.

Albaugh was taken to Frederick Memorial Hospital with a broken right leg and undetermined head injuries. The engineer was not hurt.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 2 (AP) — Frank M. Hurst, prominent Alexandria basket broker and former congressional candidate, died early today in Washington, D. C., after a two-week illness. He was 50 years old Hurst had been engaged in buying and selling baskets for over 25 years in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Washington.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

One of the best reporters in the business, he lectures, writes books, movie scenarios, and even obligingly does guest columns . . . Seems only yesterday, to some of his fellow newspapermen in Washington, that loose-jointed Bob Considine got his start at the Washington Times-Herald . . . Now he's back again on his home beat . . . But look out, he's throwing rocks!

AUSTINE

I Knew Me When

By BOB CONSIDINE

One cannot throw a rock in Washington these days without braining a briefcase-carrying general, or a sailor in the park with his girl. Once again it is a phantasmagoria (you can stop here, Madam) of uniforms that reach all the way from Pentagon and Embassy plumage to the trim outfits of the Lady Marines, whose gay summer hats apparently were designed by Michael Arlen.

This is a remarkable contradiction. Washington was created, at the suggestion of a gentleman of the same name, as a place the military would never be able to find!

No kidding.

BOB CONSIDINE

Seems that one day the Founding Fathers were sitting around Independence Hall, swapping hints on how best to powder the wigs and wondering what laws to pass for the new country, when suddenly a number of muskets were pushed through the window panes and a ragged militiaman bawled, "Okay, boys, divvy up the Treasury."

This suggestion badly frightened some of the greatest men in history. They quickly ascertained that these were Pennsylvania troops who, after Yorktown, had mutined because they were not being paid. They felt they had won the war and thus were entitled to a share of the booty.

The Founding Fathers took it on the lam out a back door, not even stopping to listen to James Madison as he denounced the Philadelphia Police Department (thus starting a lively precedent) for not providing better protection.

In ensuing weeks the Capital of the United States was Princeton, N. J., Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa., York, Pa., Annapolis, Md., Trenton, N. J., and New York—with the mutinous militarists in hot pursuit of men whose marbled memorials now dot the land.

•—•—•

Gen. G. "Washington" had returned to Mt. Vernon by this time, to lick his wounds. But the other greats of the time still needed him. They asked him to suggest a place where they could meet as a Congress without being stuck up or mugged. The General mulled over the question for a time, and then a bright mischievous look (fit to make Gilbert Stuart drop his palette) glittered in his eye.

He suggested that the boys set up shop in a swamp near a trading post named Georgetown. Historians do not record his exact words, but I learn from a strictly peachable source that George said:

"Those blokes will never find you there."

P. S.—They did time proved.

DEFENSE NOTE:—As an added precaution against mob control over the early U. S. Government, Maj. L'Enfant built Washington around a series of circles—so that cannon could be set up in the circles and fire down any of the streets that pour into the circles.

The mobs did not come, but L'Enfant has since learned that he erected the perfect defense against the motorist. If the Russians ever attack Washington, I hope they come by car. They'll be slaughtered!

HOW TO GIVE A WASHINGTON COCKTAIL PARTY: Move out of your comfortable hall bedroom and find a closet. Then pick up Washington telephone book and begin the invitation list with the president of the American Automobile Association.

TRAVEL IN WASHINGTON NOTE: The Washington cab-driver is a biological phenomenon. He is born with a head that can make a 360 degree turn without snapping his jugular. Riding in a Washington cab is always an intimate adventure. You are the jockey's guest, not his commander. In all probability he knows you, or something about you.

One of them consented to pick me as a fare in front of the Washington Times-Herald one night not long ago, and as we sailed off toward our first red light his head went into its rotation process and he said.

"You one of those newspaper people?"

"Yes," I answered with the wit that has made me the toast of a Continent. (Antarctica.)

"Did you ever meet a friend of mine named Bob Considine?" he asked.

It took courage but I answered affirmatively.

The cabbie shook his head—rather kindly and reflectively, I like to think—and mused:

"Y'know, I knew that bum when he didn't have shoes."

P. S.—So did I.

Do you know the strategies to use if you have a boss who's hypercritical, thoughtless, or rude?

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

When the person for whom you work is of a civil and considerate sort, earning a living can be a great pleasure. But work is just drudgery if you have a boor for a boss.

What should you do when you find your days are being made miserable by the person to whom you are responsible? Find another job? Only as a last resort. Strike back? Not if you want to change his ways and the atmosphere of your days. You've everything to gain, though, just by being the clever, capable business girl you set out to be, and this is your big chance to prove it.

Problem-Type Bosses

Let's consider the chief grievances women have against their bosses. From a poll made in widely different fields, the major complaints are these:

1. Being hypercritical of mistakes yet blind to exceptional performance. With this type of big brass, a girl loses faith in her ability and interest in her work — and fast.

2. Failure to organize work so that it flows smoothly, either through thoughtlessness or inability. Too often, a girl finds herself with slack time on her hands while the VIP takes a client to a three-hour lunch, and then is so swamped and pressured at the tired end of the day that it is impossible to produce her best work.

3. Unnecessary brusqueness, often reaching the point of rudeness, in dealing with assistants. When this is the most prevalent attitude of the man in command, inevitably it builds up frustration in those who work for them, and tempts them to return curt word for curt word, or causes them to fall into a dispirited routine that stifles ambition.

4. Expecting loyalty to the extent of covering for him when he's playing hookey, yet giving no loyalty in return, such as not defending the girl when she is falsely blamed in a situation of which he is fully cognizant.

Are you equal to handling each of the above problem bosses? Can you gently change their office practices and better the atmosphere in which you work to everyone's advantage? You can if you are of the caliber that wins success. Strategy in handling difficult people is something that can be learned.

Handling The Boss

In the case of No. 1, by a subtle account of the successful outcome of work assigned you, you can call attention to your prowess without boasting. In the case of No. 2, by tactful suggestions you can smooth out the work schedules. If your problem is No. 3, by your own exemplary manner you can set a pattern of conduct for everyone in the office. And No. 4 is a problem that can be resolved by quiet discussion.

Note the key words in each of those solutions — subtle, tactful, exemplary, and quiet — all are keys to charm. Master them, and you'll be irreplaceable; soon you'll discover you have a boss who's far less reproachable!

P. S. from J. R. P.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

The Germans used to buy most of Greece's tobacco crop. Now that Germany is forced to buy American tobacco, however, the taxpayers not only furnish the money for the tobacco Germany buys but also pays for the Greek tobacco crop which Germany does not buy. In other words, the taxpayers put out approximately $75,000,000 per year, so that American tobacco interests can sell $45,000,000 worth of tobacco to Germany.

NOTE—Largest exporters of ECA tobacco to Germany are L. B. Jenkins of Kinston, N. C., J. E. Bohannon of Bolling Green, Ky., Universal Leaf of Richmond, Va., and Austin Tobacco Co. of Greenville, Tenn.

It is estimated that 91 per cent of today's students use a pen, compared to 52 per cent 10 years ago.

France Strives To Get Its Army Out Of Doghouse

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS—(AP)—French generals are waging a vigorous campaign to bring the army out of the doghouse where it has languished since 1940.

As National Defense Minister Jules Moch put it: "The country must understand its rearmament program and what it means."

So he put on the biggest military parade ever to march past President Vincent Auriol on July 14 (Bastille Day) and followed it up with an "Army Week," during which citizens were encouraged to climb around on tanks, peer down the barrels of Guns and ask all the questions they pleased.

Most French military leaders have been frankly concerned that the army enjoyed so little public esteem since its shattering defeat by Hitler's armies in 1940.

Low budgets, Communist peace propaganda and the unpopular war in Indochina have kept the army in the background ever since. When France was called on for a major contribution to the Atlantic pact in Europe, the fear of giving the Communists election ammunition caused politicians to soft pedal the French effort.

Now, with the elections over, the brakes are off. A large scale effort to fill the officer and NCO cadres is under way. The army is being pictured as a career of which any Frenchman may be proud.

Main feature of "Army Week" was a big tented exhibition on the wide parade ground of the Invalides, which houses the army museum and Napoleon's tomb.

The exhibition was free to all. A special effort was made to attract youths of 15 to 18. There were information bureaus where the boys could chat with students from the Polytechnique or St. Cyr military schools or with bemedalled veterans of the Foreign Legion.

All day long and under floodlights far into the night, military bands blared marital music as thousands poured through the exhibition.

"That makes them think they are seeing something really new," a young soldier remarked with a grin.

Since a Frenchman is always interested in food, a field bakery passed out free samples of army bread. Five-in-one rations were on display, closely modelled on American army rations of the last war but adapted to French tastes. Each one-man ration had its packet f Caporal cigarets, a box of matches and some chewing gum—new features for the French. There were 18 different menus, besides six variants for Moslem troops.

One feature which caused some head shaking among veterans of 1914-18 was the concentrated red wine in cans or individual nylon packets. You mix one part of wine to five of water and it's ready to drink.

A scale model set out on sand showed a complete armored division with its 3,950 vehicles and 15,000 men. Veterans of Verdun gasped to learn that it had four times the firepower of a whole army corps of the First World War. Then they gasped again to learn what an armored division cost—more than $114,000,000.

Special atention was devoted to amusing the small boys who thronged the exhibition. They could see unending film shows of army life, take a ride in a French jeep around a bumpy track with humpback "bridges," try their brain at intelligence tests for recruits and test themselves on electric machines which showed their reaction in a truck driving contest.

A 100-ton pontoon bridge was thrown across the Seine in mid-Paris by army engineers before a crowd of watching thousands. Within four hours Sherman tanks had crossed to the other bank.

"Formidable!" exclaimed a spectator, "what the army can do."

An official judgement was more cautious.

Army Week was an unqualified success but there remains a lot to do."

Greenwood Plan Sparks Contest On How Best To Spike Reds' Lies

Now there's a nationwide contest on to give everybody a chance to beam his ideas through Russia's iron curtain and into Ivan's living room.

Like other contests, there are big prizes for the top five winners—free trips to Europe No box tops or coupons are needed—only an idea how democracy's message can penetrate the iron curtain.

The contest is open to any American. It is the outgrowth of a broad program launched here last year to educate Greenwood's citizens about Communism. A grass roots campaign, the program has enlisted school leaders, editors, government officials and plain citizens to show how Communism can be curbed at the local level.

Out of the community wide anti-Communism program came the nationwide contest. It originated when the manager of the town's Chamber of Commerce, Chauncey W. Lever, heard U. S. Sen. William O. Benton of Connecticut declare that America was losing the cold war to Russia because of a lack of ideas.

What this country needed, Benton asserted, was a Marshall Plan of ideas.

Lever, wise to the ways of promotion, thought of the contest with Chambers of Commerce across the nation collecting ideas from the man in the street on how to fight the cold war.

He telegraphed his suggestion to Benton. News of it spread. Radio commentators liked the idea, publicized it and christened it the Greenwood Plan.

Meanwhile the National Committee for a Free Europe operating from New York, was sponsoring the Crusade for Freedom and setting up Radio Free Europe to broadcast America's message to satellite peoples behind Communism's barriers

Lever took his idea to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, director of the Crusade For Freedom. He liked Lever's suggestion and immediately merged it with the Crusade For Freedom which by then had gained the support of more than 16,000,000 Americans.

Briefly, the plan, launched nationally in June, is designed to comb America's towns, cities and rural areas for suggestions on how best to spike Communist lies and promote world freedom and peace, Lever explains. Local committees screen the best idea and send them to state committees which screen them again and then forward the surviving ideas to a national committee.

From there the suggestions are put into use by Radio Free Europe or by the Voice of America.

The authors of the five best ideas will get the free trip to Europe. While there they will learn how Radio Free Europe is conducting its word war. State winners will receive plaques, commemorating their contributions.

The Greenwood Plan has been before the public only a few short weeks now but already ideas are pouring in from more than 200 Chambers of Commerce that have adopted the plan and are conducting their own grass roots campaign.

Entertain With Sunday Breakfast

For a pleasant change from the usual summer program of luncheons and teas, have a Sunday breakfast party. A breakfast lends itself to informality and may be served buffet style either indoors or out, and eleven o'clock is a good time. The following suggested menu includes seasonal fruit and dishes which do not require last minute preparation:

Sliced Fresh Peaches
with
Corn Flakes and Cream
Creamed Eggs and Chicken in
Patty Shells
Orange Blossom Butterhorns
Relishes Honey Jam
Coffee

The buffet table can be attractively arranged: First in line will be the chilled sliced peaches which have been sprinkled with thin corn syrup to preserve the color. Next comes the fresh, crisp cereal in colorful bowls, with sugar and cream adjacent; then a tray of patty shells and a casserole of the creamed eggs and chicken. The hot rolls are piled in a napkin-lined basket, and a tray of appetizers neighbor with a crystal compote of rosy jam and a jar of orange blossom honey. Last but not least is an urn of steaming coffee.

Orange Blossom Butterhorns

Three-quarters cup scalded milk, ¼ cup shortening, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup bran, 1 cake compressed or 1 package granular yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 2 eggs, well-beaten, 3¼ cups sifted flour.

Combine milk, shortening, sugar, salt and bran; cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Add to mik mixture. Add eggs, beat thoroughly. Add flour; mix to soft dough *Cover; let stand 10 minutes. Knead on lightly floured surface. Place in greased bowl; let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Punch down. Divide dough in thirds; roll into circles 9 inches in diameter. Cut in triangles and roll to form butter-horns. Arrange on greased baking sheet. Cover. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven (450° F.) about 15 minutes.

Yield: 3½ dozen butterhorns.

* Dough may be stored in refrigerator overnight.

CHEESE ROLLS WITH SOUP: Many a summer day, your appetite says "just soup please." If it's to be a guest meal, simply take down one of your favorites among the condensed soups — and serve it with something special like cheese rolls. For these, scoop out the insides of long hard rolls and fill the centers with softened cheese spread—perhaps pimiento or chive cheese. Chill in the refrigerator several hours. Then slice to serve for pleasant crunching with the hot soup.

Next time you make yeast puffs on a bright summer morning, give them a gay air by topping with sparkling cherries or luscious peaches. Prepare muffin pans by putting ½ teaspoon of melted butter or margarine in each. Cover with about 1 teaspoon of cinnamon-sugar mixture and arrange pitted cherries or sliced peaches in each cup. When sweet yeast batter is light, stir down and drop in muffin cups, filling about ½ full. Let rise until light (about 30 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Serve oven-warm puffs with chilled lemonade for an afternoon snack, and as a dinner feature with cold sliced ham and potato salad.

Here are 8 cooling ways to serve cranberry sherbet on your menus this summer.

Spoon generous servings into frosty sherbert glasses.

Serve as topping for fresh fruit cup.

Cooling Cranberry Sherbet

It takes only seconds, to get a party-pink cranberry sherbert into the freezing tray of the refrigerator. In little more than time to open the can of sauce, a colorful dessert is ready for the freezer. Make the sparkling cranberry sherbet in the cool morning hours. Then decide how you will serve it. Try it plain or give it a perky party air.

Serve a Fruit-In-Season Salad Plate: Ripe juicy California Bartlett pears, Santa Rosa plums, melon wedges or balls, grapes, ripe cherries or the season's berries.

Macaroni Stars Many Salads

Macaroni salads take on a starring role during the summer and early fall months. They're hearty enough to feature as main dishes for luncheon and supper menus and, unlike most salads, they can be completely prepared during the coolest part of the day and allowed to stand for hours before serving. In fact, the long chilling improves macaroni salads because the combined flavors have a better chance to blend.

To be at their best, macaroni salads should contain something crunchy like crisp celery, something colorful like strips of green pepper or quartered tomatoes and something to give them zest like scraped onion or a tangy salad dressing. There's no limit to the number of possible combinations. They can be made with meat, fish, fowl, eggs, fruit or any of the salad vegetables.

Another advantage to macaroni salads is that they are the perfect picnic salad. They wait almost indefinitely for "lunch-time" without wilting—and they are mighty satisfying after a few hours of outdoor activity. To save on dishes as well as last minute preparations, pack macaroni salads for outdoor meals in paper cartons. Before covering the cartons, garnish each container with a bright tomato wedge and a spring of parsley or with a green pepper ring centered by a radish rose.

The attached kitchen-tested salad recipes are from the home economics department of the National Macaroni Institute.

Here are some salads molded with gelatin and salads molded without gelatin, salads made with sour cream dressings and salads made with piquant French dressings, salads planned for parties and salads versatile enough to fit every need during the warm-weather months ahead.

During the past year, the Military Air Transport Service carried 400,000 passengers and 60,000 tons of cargo.

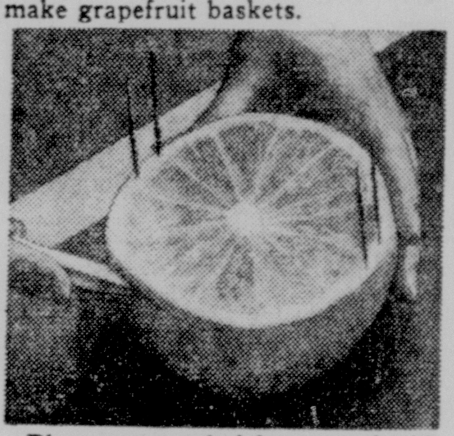
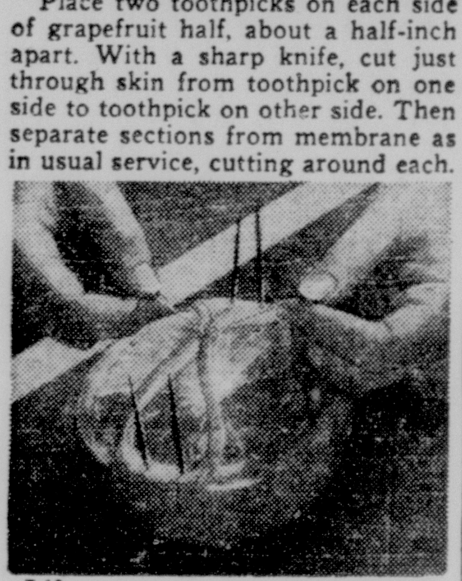
Beauty Basket From Florida

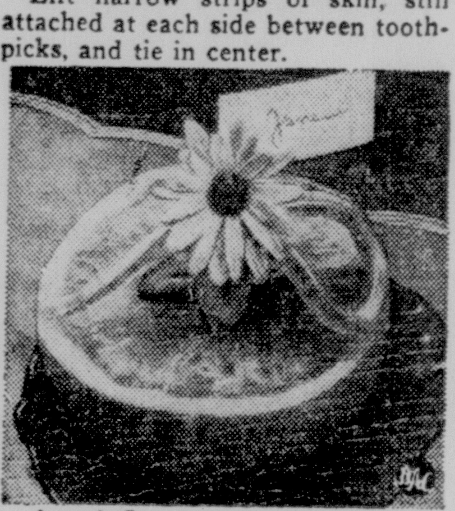
THE big juicy grapefruit that have helped make Florida famous are working overtime this year! Nature has extended the crop season, and we'll have this refreshing, tangy fruit all month. For a different, and picture-pretty first course serving, make grapefruit baskets.



Place two toothpicks on each side of grapefruit half, about a half-inch apart. With a sharp knife, cut just through skin from toothpick on one side to toothpick on other side. Then separate sections from membrane as in usual service, cutting around each.



Lift narrow strips of skin, still attached at each side between toothpicks, and tie in center.



Attach flower to handles of basket, or place card, using narrow ribbon or fine wire.

Sandwich Time

Sandwiches are popular summer foods when appetites lag and homemakers want to limit kitchen work. There is a variety to suit every taste, from the small finger sandwiches to the hearty sandwiches which are meals in themselves. Dainty sandwiches often are made in attractive shapes, and both dark and enriched bread are used in one sandwich for color contrast. A delicious filling for small sandwiches consists of a combination of minced avacado, chopped, cooked shrimp, lemon juice, and mayonnaise or other salad dressing. Crusts may be left on or removed as desired. Sandwich meals cut work to a minimum and are hearty and satisfying. A ham toastwich too usually meets with family approval. It is made by placing ham between two slices of bread which have been spread with a blend of butter or margarine and mustard. The sandwich is then dipped into a French toast egg-milk mixture, and browned in hot fat. No matter what occasion arises — summer afternoon party, family lunch, informal Sunday night supper — sandwiches are highly acceptable both for enjoyment and as a part of daily nutritional requirements.

Shore Dinner For Good Old Summertime

If you can't go to the ocean, bring it your way with seafood dishes that are real "catches" for a buffet supper party in the good old summertime.

Flaked fish or crab is the star in many a choice creamed-style casserole—ideal for buffet entertaining. And these dishes are so easy to whip up when you use condensed soup for the cream sauce.

Right along this line is Deviled Seaford, made with condensed cream of celery soup. You'll be pleased as punch at its goodness and convenience. You can use either flaked fish or crab for it, whichever fits your purse best.

For a party serve the seafood in baking shells or individual casseroles. Also have a crisp tomato lettuce salad, potato chips, and hot rolls. Decorate the buffet with seashells and a net. This will be one party you're sure to enjoy with fine food that takes little time from your hostess duties.

Deviled Seafood

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of celery soup; 1 can (6½ ounces) crab meat or 1 cup of flaked fish; 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper; 2 teaspoons chopped onion; 2 teaspoons lemon juice; ½ teaspoon prepared mustard; 2 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

Stir together the celery soup, flaked crab meat or fish, chopped green pepper and onion, lemon juice and mustard. Put mixture into one large or six small casseroles (baking shells are good for this). Apples Aid On Hot Days

Apples can rescue a dinner, dessert, packed lunch, picnic or party . . . now that we can get them in cans for easy storage, and complete dependability. Applesauce, apple slices, apple juice served as they come from the can, or used in recipes, add just the right amount of flavor, texture, color and nourishment to many a meal. And thrifty! Best buy in the market today.

Thinking of the problems of busy mothers and homemakers, cooks dreamed up three recipes for quickie desserts that make a hit with the home folks. The last minute applesauce dessert finds favor right away. It's so simple to do, you could even take it on a picnic . . . or serve it at porch or outdoor parties in your garden. The first step of combining the applesauce and flavorings can be done ahead of time, and the rest of the preparation at the picnic spot. For picnics, we suggest that you skip the whipped cream because of difficulty of refrigeration. It will be mixed, but you can make up for it by serving seconds . . . maybe even thirds.

Ever taste applesauce and sour cream with spices from the Far East? No wonder Columbus went sailing around the world for spices. He probably wanted them to add dash to his applesauce. Try this combination and then decide for yourself that quickie desserts can be delicious.

APPLES TO THE RESCUE

APPLES rescue the cook when time gets short. The Apple Kitchen recommends this Last Minute Applesauce Dessert because it's so quick and easy when made with canned apple sauce. The recipe is given elsewhere on this page.

Serve Banana Cookies With Iced Tea

Iced tea gets its innings from July 13-20 which is National Iced Tea Time. Goodness knows what the first gentlemen who discovered tea in the Orient would think of iced tea, but we Americans like it, and it was rather daring of us to try icy cold, a drink that had always been served as piping hot as possible.

With iced tea a favorite summer custom, we need some snacks to accompany this tall, refreshing drink, or other coolers we may serve. A likely candidate is a batch of homemade Banana Drop Cookies. Really different with their fresh banana fruit flavor, these cookies have a soft, tender texture and a glossy brown color. Because of the banana in the batter, these cookies keep moist and fresh.

Since in making these cookies, the banana is whipped into a liquid with a rotary egg beater or electric mixer, you will find every morsel of the baked cookies permeated with delicious, tropical banana flavor. Banana Drop Cookies are easy to make and they are a delightful beverage accompaniment.

Banana Drop Cookies

2¼ cups sifted flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup whipped ripe bananas (2 to 3 bananas)
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon sugar

Use fully ripe bananas . . . yellow peel flecked with brown.

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Add eggs, bananas and vanilla and beat until thoroughly blended. Drop by teaspoonfuls, about 1½ inches apart, onto ungreased cookie pans. Sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and 1 tablespoon sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 12 minutes, or until cookies are done. Remove baked cookies from pan immediately. Makes about 3 dozen medium-sized cookies.

Porch Supper A La Carte For Summertime

Outdoor eating is a delightful summer custom which makes appetites mount and the food taste better than ever. Advanced preparation of complete meals eliminates that last minute rush and enables the homemaker to enjoy it with the family. For the suggested sandwich supper, a tray of assorted sandwich makings and a delectable apricot shortcake may be stored in the refrigerator until mealtime. At the last minute the hamburger and frankfurter buns are arranged on a serving dish or roll basket, a beverage is prepared, the tray and dessert are removed from the refrigerator, and the whole meal is wheeled to the cool porch. Sandwich meals that allow everyone to fix his own are well suited to outdoor dining. A refreshing frozen dessert, such as the apricot shortcake which uses baker's cake as the basic ingredient, is a delight to the eye and palate, as well as easy to make. Homemakers welcome a summer meal idea that pleases their families and cuts work to a minimum.

FROZEN APRICOT SHORTCAKE

1 (No. 2½) can peeled apricot halves or 1¼ cups apricot pulp
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon apricot juice or cold water
1 egg
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
1" thick layer pound cake

Drain apricot juice from apricot halves. Mash apricots to a pulp with a fork then heat in saucepan. Soften gelatin in apricot juice, then dissolve in hot apricots. Cool apricot mixture. Beat egg until foamy, add sugar and vanilla and beat again. Whip cream and combine with egg mixture. Cut pound cake to fit bottom of a deep refrigerator tray. Spread apricot mixture over cake, cover with whipped cream mixture. Freeze in refrigerator tray using coldest control, until firm. Slice into 6 portions when serving.

Yield: 6 servings.

Spur Of Moment Party For Pigtail Crowd

Youngsters like to go to parties — and they love to give them! An elaborate affair for a special occasion is fine, when there's a special occasion handy. But when there isn't which is usually, it's the spur-of-the-moment, just-for-fun parties that liven up long summer days.

Something out of the ordinary, something the youngsters can whip up for themselves, above all something involving ice cream, is ideal for such a party. Here are a couple of unusual, uncomplicated ice cream desserts suitable for younger-fry get-togethers:

Cereal Ice Cream Sandwich

¼ cup butter
½ pound marshmallows (about 2½ dozen)
½ teaspoon vanilla
5 cups popped rice cereal
1 quart ice cream

Cook butter and marshmallows over hot water until syrupy, stirring frequently. Add vanilla; beat well. Put rice cereal in greased large bowl and pour on marshmallow mixture, stirring briskly. Press into greased shallow pan. Cut into 3-inch squares when cool. Put squares together with ice cream between. Serve at once.

Yield: 6 3-inch sandwiches (9 x 13 inch pan).

Buttercrisp Ice Cream

2 cups popped rice cereal
3 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ cup chopped nutmeats
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Crush popped rice cereal into fine crumbs; mix with brown sugar and nutmeats. Melt butter in heavy frying pan; add cereal mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until sugar melts and caramelizes slightly. Cool and crumble. Allow ice cream to soften slightly. Stir in crumbled cereal mixture and pack in refrigerator trays or in paper cups. Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator to harden.

Yield: 8 servings (1¾ cups butter crisp mixture).

Here are suggestions about adding shortening to your muffin batter. The usual practice is to add melted shortening to milk and egg, taking care that these liquid ingredients are at room temperature so that they will not solidify the shortening. Some cooks prefer to use oil instead of melted shortening. Others find it more convenient to cut the small amount of solid fat into the dry ingredients as in making biscuits. Whether melted shortening, oil, or solid shortening is used in making plain muffins, the results are equally good.

"What can I do, Mother?" is an oft-repeated question from teen age daughters as the long vacation days draw to a close. Why not teach them how to cook? The children will have fun, and cooking is a useful art that will stand them in good stead. Don't be dismayed if it takes them longer to prepare the meal or if they use more utensils than you would. They can make Sunday supper for the family if you plan a simple menu which includes chilled cantaloupe, golden enriched waffles and browned pork sausage. Children can prepare the waffle batter from a packaged pancake mix, and they'll enjoy using the waffle iron. Perhaps they'll want to appoint Dad to remove the cooked waffles from the iron. Remind them to leave the iron open to cool after the waffles have been made. Sprinkling pecans on waffle batter before closing the lid makes extra special waffles.

August 5-11 Is National Vegetable Week

Originally inaugaurated three years ago, this unusual health food event was designed to minimize economic loss to all concerned, make the best use of vegetables during peak seasons and to develop a cooperative plan to keep consumers well informed on unusual food buys, recipes, and vitamin-powered health-building vegetables.

The National Vegetable Queen, Miss Elaine Tessman, Osseo, Minnesota, an attractive brunette, will be the guest of honor at many related events during the summer.

Governor McKeldin of Maryland has issued an embellished proclamation calling upon the people of his state to join with the agricultural people in recognizing their week. The Governor also invited all the other Governors to issue similar proclamations. Several are already known to have been issued.

Jeannie's Summer Salad

Jean Patchett, America's top cover girl and first American Vegetable Queen uses everything available in fresh vegetables, chopped finely, except the tomatoes which are cut from bottom to stem in 8 segments. The sauce is an appetizing combination of:

1 cup chili sauce
1 cup mayonnaise
2 diced hard boiled eggs
6 chopped stuffed olives
salt and pepper to taste.

Mix thoroughly and chill well. To serve, place leaf lettuce nest on small dish. Place 4 saltines on top edges of lettuce. Put ample serving of chopped vegetables over cracker. Add sauce, topped with crumpled roquefort cheese.

To make more interesting, a little girl's face can be easily made on top of the salad by using 2 stuffed olive slices for eyes, a sliver of pickle for the nose, and a split radish for the mouth.

Vegetables In A Shell

The favorite recipe of Elaine Tessman, Minnesota State Vegetable Queen, is her recipe for "Vegetables in A Shell."

Scone Shell
1½ cups sifted flour
2 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
⅓ cup fat
⅓ cup milk
1 egg beaten

Mix dry ingredients, cut in fat, add egg and milk. Roll on a canvas covered board to 1½ inches larger than the 9 inch pan. Flute the edge. Prick bottom and side of shell. Bake 15 minutes at 425°F. Keep warm until ready to fill with creole mixture.

Creole Filling

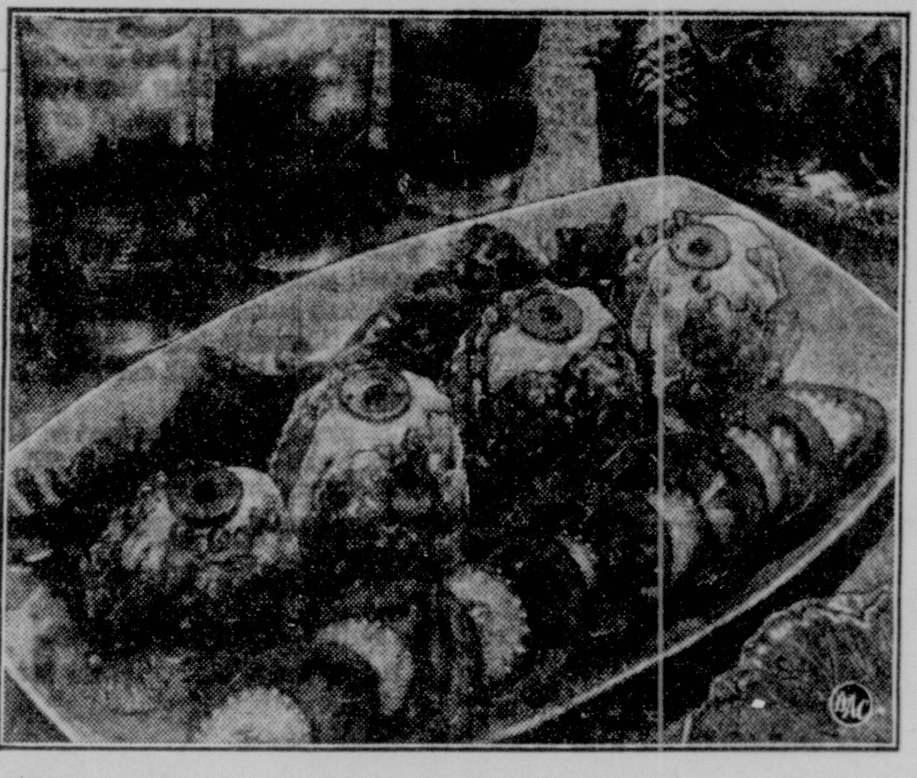
¼ lb. bulk pork sausage
¼ lb. ground beef
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup cooked carrot strips
1 cup cooked lima beans
1 cup cooked string beans
1¼ t. salt
¼ cup chopped onion
2 T. butter
¼ cup sour cream
1 cup water
¼ cup sifted flour
⅛ t. pepper

Brown meat in butter in skillet, add onion and pepper. Cook over a low heat until vegetables are tender. Stir in flour mixed with salt and pepper. Add sour cream and water. Stir and cook until all ingredients are blended, about 5 minutes.

Add carrot strips, lima beans and string beans. Heat until the vegetables hot. Serve in scone shell. Serve with tossed salad, hot rolls, oatmeal fruit cookies, berries and cream, coffee.

It's a good plan to keep a supply of sweet yeast rolls or coffee cake from the baker's on hand during the salad season. Then, if you're not in a muffin-making mood, you can still bring forth delightful breads that add substance to a salad main course. Your family will enjoy this new version of Ambrosia—rolls frosted with confectioners' sugar icing and sprinkled with coconut served with a banana, orange and grapefruit salad. Give a spicy accent to cottage cheese and fruit combinations by passing a basket of fragrant Cinnamon Rolls. Nut-topped rolls may be served with almost any salad, and you'd better plan on extras for dessert.

Recommended Summer Eating: Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad



IN the library of food ideas, Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad is high on the list of recommended summer fare. List your qualifications—you'll find them all fulfilled by this cool, refreshing main dish pictured above. The recipe can be found elsewhere on this page.

Canned Peas For Summer

Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad hits the spot on a hot day. Check the demands you make of a summer main dish and you'll find this one comes out with a high score. Taste good? A zesty combination of peas, tuna and celery with subtle spicing you'll enjoy. Economical? One of your best buys, with tuna budget-priced and canned peas a top bargain among all vegetable buys. Easy? Just open two cans, add celery and spices, and mix. Nutritious? Definitely. This salad is high in protein and the B vitamins, and contributes considerable amounts of the other essential vitamins, and minerals.

Spicy Pea and Tuna Salad

1 1-pound can peas
1 7-ounce can tuna, flaked
½ cup diced celery
4 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
Tomato slices

Drain peas; reserve liquid to use in sauces and gravies. Combine peas, tuna, celery, mayonnaise, onion salt and celery salt; mix well. Pack into individual molds; chill and unmold. If desired, garnish molds with salad dressing, paprika and sliced stuffed olives. Arrange around molds additional tomato slices, cucumber and salad greens. Yield: 4 servings.

Chilled Soup For Summer

Chilled soups make very cooling fare for summer meals. Once only served in the swankiest city hotels, chilled soups can now be found on dining tables in homes across the country. Here is one that is easy to make from ingredients on your pantry shelf. The mushroom and chicken flavor blend smoothly to make a delicious luncheon or first course soup. Place the serving bowl in chipped ice to keep the soup icy cold up to the last minute.

Chilled Mushroom Cream Soup

Eleven ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup, 1 cup light cream, 1 cup milk, 3-ounce can chopped broiled mushrooms, 1 tablespoon sherry, optional, chives, or chives salt.

Place contents of can of soup in bowl. Add cream and milk and beat until smooth with rotary egg beater. Drain mushrooms and add broth to soup. Finely chop the drained mushrooms and add to soup. Add sherry if desired and mix well. Place in refrigerator and chill well. Serve topped with a few chives or a sprinkle of chives salt.

If you have an electric blender, place all ingredients except chives in the glass container. Cover and turn on the blender. Run until soup is nearly smooth, about 15 seconds. Chill and serve as directed above.

Superlative Potato Salad Easy To Make

Creamy, zesty potato salad can be the basis for many a summertime supper. Popular favorite with everyone, it can be served in innumerable ways as the main dish for a hearty, delicious meal.

There's a two-fold knack in making a superlative salad, however, for delicious texture and flavor. The cooked potatoes should be thoroughly dried out over low heat until light and fluffy, and then moistened with a highly seasoned French dressing and chilled for at least an hour before the salad dressing or mayonnaise is added.

Superlative Potato Salad

3 cups diced hot potatoes
½ cup highly seasoned French dressing
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
Seasonings
½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
Lettuce

After potatoes are cooked, place over low heat, shaking in pan to dry potatoes thoroughly. Combine with French dressing, mixing well; chill 1 hour. Add eggs, celery and onion; season to taste with salt, pepper and other seasonings. Blend with salad dressing or mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce with a garnish of watercress. Serves 4. Serve with sliced meat, tomato wedges, ripe olives, crusty rolls or bread and tall glasses of beer for a summertime supper.

Diced cucumbers, radishes, green pepper, cabbage, carrot or other raw vegetable may be added to salad, if desired in place of all or part of the celery.

Two Local Residents Inherit $7,000 Each From Estate

The sisters are Mrs. Quinn Cessna, Ridgeley; Mrs. Hope Miller and Mrs. June Seeders, both of Baltimore. The cousin is Domenic J. Pouelle, address unknown.

Because the whereabouts of Domenic is not known, final settlement of the estate is being held up. The last known address of Domenic was South Paulina Drive, Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Pouelle were killed in an automobile accident 11 months ago in Quebec, Canada, where they moved in 1920 from their native Italy.

One of their two sons, Michael Ralph, hearing that America was the land of opportunity, became a stowaway on a ship bound for the United States in 1918. Since he didn't have the consent of his parents, then living in Naples, he changed his name to "Powell" upon reaching this country. "Powell" was his mother's maiden name.

Michael hired out as a coal miner upon landing and settled in Thomas, W. Va. It was there that the four brother-and-sister heirs mentioned above were born.

Domenic J. is the adopted son of Thomas Pouelle, other son of the man and woman killed in the Canadian crash. Thomas is also dead.

The Pouelles never knew of the whereabouts of their son, Michael, until after his death in 1923. Michael's children never visited their grandparents nor did the latter come to America to see them.

Powell, a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, estimates that all five heirs will receive about $4,400 after the Canadian and United States governments get their share of the estate in inheritance taxes.

The group will assemble at Central YMCA at 10 a. m. and transportation to the club will be available after the tour.

Crushed Stone Plant Opened

The Fry Coal and Stone Company, of Mercersburg, Pa., has installed a modern stone crushing plant at the Devil's Backbone quarry of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company on Wills Mountain near Corriganville.

The Mercersburg firm will supply crushed stone to the local firm on a contract basis. The Cement and Supply Company has several contracts to furnish rock for state and county road projects.

The plant, one of the best in this section, can produce from 800 to 1,000 tons each eight hours, according to George K. Steiner, general manager of the local company.

Leonard Fry, president of the Mercersburg company, has several plants in operation. One of them is supplying crushed stone for the Sideling Hill project on Route 40.

Fry has charge of the plant in operation at Devils Backbone and is employing about 15 men. His firm does both the quarrying and crushing.

On August 15, Steiner said, stone will be needed for the State Roads Commission job from Clarysville to Vale Summit where the Cumberland Contracting Company is relocating the highway.

The new plant, one of the few in this immediate area, will make it possible for area contractors to expedite their projects. In recent years the necessary long hauls of crushed stone has posed a problem and at times delayed road work.

Board Explains View In Teacher Salary Dispute

Says County Has Done All Possible

The County Commissioners yesterday told a Legislative Council subcommittee on teachers' salaries why they feel the county cannot afford to grant another pay increase.

Views of the board were explained in a prepared statement read at a meeting of the subcommittee here yesterday morning. Members of the board were unable to attend.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has declared that pay boosts for teachers are a local problem. The board has maintained it cannot grant another increase without causing a hardship in the form of higher taxes.

"It is not the board's intention," the statement said, "to agree with or condemn the position taken by Governor McKeldin in this matter. The question of financing proposed increases in state contributions to teachers' salaries is a state matter. However, the problem of granting increases on a local level is necessarily the concern of the County Commissioners.

"Prior to making the levy in April 1951, the County Commissioners carefully studied and considered a request for additional salary for county school teachers. Representatives of the Teachers' Association met with the Board and advised the Board that it is difficult to secure the services of qualified teachers in the lower or below $3,000 salary brackets, and that there was a real possibility that there would be an exodus of teachers from Allegany County in the 1951-52 term because of inadequate salaries.

"Our investigation disclosed that there would be 124 teachers in Allegany county for the next school term who would receive less than $3,000 and the County Commissioners, although faced with an increased tax rate, felt that some salary increase should be granted to these teachers, and therefore approved a budget with increases of $100 to each of these teachers over and above the local schedule and in addition to the automatic annual increase of $100. This increase was granted in the nature of a standard of living adjustment to those teachers most seriously affected by the rise in the cost of living. . . .

"Allegany county now pays and for a number of years has paid its teachers $100 per year more than the state schedule for Maryland calls for and the entire amount of this differential (approximately $56,000 for the ensuing term) is paid by the County Commissioners from tax revenues. This item has therefore been increased another $12,400 for next year. It is also worthy of note that Allegany county, by local act, also contributes approximately $20,000 per year to retired school teachers.

"The following is a schedule of local teachers' salaries to be paid under the present budget of the Board of Education for the 1951-52 term:

Total number teachers	561
Receiving less than $3,000	124
Receiving $3,000 to $3,400	64
Receiving $3,600 to $3,800	110
Receiving $3,900	162
	561

"The County Commissioners felt that in the light of local economic conditions and an already increased tax rate, that the increases granted county school teachers represented all that could be done for these teachers for the ensuing year in fairness to the general public and consistent with sound political economy.

"The position of the board in this matter was made public in a statement accompanying the levy in April, 1951. This statement and the records of the negotiations between this board and the Board of Education or the Teachers' Association will be made available to your committee upon request.

"If the board can be of further service to your committee please let us know."

Striker Not Entitled To Jobless Pay, Henderson Rules In Appeal

A worker who becomes unemployed because of a strike in which he has participated is not entitled to unemployment compensation, Associate Judge George Henderson ruled yesterday in a decision handed down in Circuit Court.

The opinion was filed in the case of John W. Broll against the Davis Coal and Coke Company and the state Employment Security Board.

According to court record, Broll stopped work on September 14, 1949, taking part in a labor dispute between his company and the United Mine Workers union.

His unemployment, the court found, "was due to stoppage of work existing because of the dispute." Under the law, the decision noted, Broll was therefore, disqualified from unemployment benefits.

Judge Henderson added that Broll failed to apply for maintenance work at the Davis Coal and Coke Company which would have been available to him if he had applied and disregarded his union obligation.

Broll later filed a claim for unemployment compensation benefits. The case was heard by a special examiner, who approved the claim.

Later, however, the case went to the Employment Security Board, which disallowed Broll's claim.

In his decision, Judge Henderson found the board's decision of March 16, 1950 "complete, logical and legally correct," and said it "can be affirmed without further discussion."

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Don't Forget To Turn On The Gas

Frequently, we read of some emotional young lady who decides to end it all, runs for the bathroom, locks the door, scratches her wrist with a dull razor blade, and then hollers for help. Sometimes the police come and break down the barrier which results in the leading characters getting their names in the paper. Apparently, it is foolish to leave razor blades lying around (although some bring their own), and it seems wise to take the locks off bathroom doors.

Usually the big scene comes after a row with a man who turns out to be a cad in the ladys estimation, and probably she is right. It is my opinion few 'women ever deliberately hurt a man if they are treated halfway decently, although some are prone to suicide, or think they are.

There was a humorous female writer in New York who was somewhat lugubrious and used to turn on the gas every time her beau stood her up on a date, although she never opened it up wide. She got so she knew the members of the pulmotor squad by their first names. The revival would be followed by a friendly party and a couple of drinks apiece. As the boys left, one of them [illegible] caution her about overdoing it.

"Be careful, honey,' he would say. "Just let it leak a little, always give us time to get here."

One of the most spectacular attempts was made years ago by the beautiful, blonde wife of a dashing restaurant man who ran a gaudy joint in Columbus Circle. The couple lived on the top floor of the building which was about six stories high. Sticking out from the fifth floor was a large triangular sign that flashed the name of this flea bag in electric lights. It seems about 4 o'clock one morning the lady and her husband got into a big row in their apartment over some trifle like him making eyes at one of the cash customers. One word led to another as they frequently do at that hour. While the argument proceeded, she was undressing so by the time it reached its climax she was clad like Lady Godiva.

Suddenly she announced she was going to jump, it being in the summer time when the weather was warm and the windows were open. Of course, there was no garment to grab her by, and she plunged a distance of about three feet where she caught on the electric sign and clung to it, having changed her mind enroute. The flashing bulbs kept her warm and lit up the scene for the onlookers. It was surprising how many arrived at that hour to watch and give bits of advice before the fire department turned up, and some lucky Joe climbed a ladder, gallantly wrapped a blanket around her, and brought her to the street. No further attempts were reported, although that one got plenty of publicity.

When I was a reporter on the New York Herald, there was an army officer who tried to commit suicide, but only grazed his ear which did little damage beyond putting a permanent crease in it. The city editor called me over and told me to go to Governor's Island to ask the commanding officer what he thought about the matter. He was a hard-boiled guy with definite opinions.

"Any man in the service who is that bad a shot ought to get thrown out," he said with great finality. "We need good marksmen."

A keen observer, who has hung around locker rooms, can find every Saturday and Sunday discouraged golfers about ready to swallow bichloride of mercury for which there are specific antidotes. There is the famous story of Tommy Armour and Sam Snead after the latter had missed several putts in an open championship and finally one of about 20 inches which cost him the title. He later asked the astute Armour to follow him for a few holes to make suggestions. He obligingly did and then called him aside.

"What should I do?" asked Snead.

"Go around to a drugstore and buy an old-fashioned straight razor and then cut your throat," advised Tommy.

Seems to me they are mixing from MacArthur's prescription. They are doing just about what he was derricked for.

They'll probably let the thirty-eighth parallel stay where it is, treat a couple of North Koreans for yellow jaundice and the war will rattle down in history as a dash on a dotted line.

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2—(INS)—Gale Robbins will be the envy of all the kids who are mad for Anthony Dexter when they hear she's the girl he makes love to in "The Brigand."

Tony didn't exactly kill the critics in "Valentino," particularly those who remembered the original. But the youngsters of today who know Rudy only as the Latin who used to thrill mother are crazy, but crazy for Dexter.

Gale, who is really a singer, does three dances with Tony in this adventure tale for Eddie Small. It's in technicolor so the teen-agers can breathe and sigh over their idol in his natural tints.

Charlie sat on the sidelines patiently while Rita took an hour's golf lesson, then they got in his car and drove off for cocktails at the beach.

The public's first official look at Rita will probably come at the premiere of "Captain Horatio Hornblower" at the Warner Theater August 8. Gilbert Roland, her most steady escort, has asked her to go with him.

If Rita shows up, she'll be worth seeing. Some of the Fath gowns she brought from Paris are dazzlers.

Lauren Bacall and Humphrey Bogart won't be back until August 30 which may be too late for her to accept "Phone Call From A Stranger" with Gary Merrill.

The Bogarts were pretty sick when they checked into London following the rough location jaunt on "African Queen"—but they're much improved and happy as all getout about coming home.

Jerry has already been told that he will be put in a hospital for a complete medical checkup. Hope he takes care of himself. All the money in the world (the boys took $60,000 as their cut for one week at a New York theater) isn't worth his health.

Anything wrong with the Ted Briskin-Penny Edwards romance? She was at Ciro's with wealthy Engineer Jerry Bialac which may or may not mean anything since Ted is in Chicago so much of the time.

Franchot Tone took the break-up of his romance with Barbara Peyton much harder than he admits. He had expected her to accompany him and the boys to Canada.

Lenore Coffee, who scripted one of Joan Crawford's big hits, "Possessed," has been hired by Joe Kaufman to repeat the chore on "Sudden Fear" — making Joan happy.

Posing As Civil War Veteran, Man With Unique Heart Bilks Hospitals

RENO, Nev.—(AP)—The Veterans Administration said today a man posing as a 104-year-old Civil War veteran while receiving expensive hospital accommodations here has done the same thing under 40 different names in hospitals all over the country.

Edward F. Reed, manager of the Reno V. A. Center, said files sent from Washington showed that Walter Engle Urwiler, 69, has publicly collapsed of apparent heart attack all over the country and received extraordinary treatment by posing as a Civil War veteran.

Red's statement followed a Veterans' Administration check of the story told by "Lt. John N. Boyer," who arrived in Reno July 17 and told of hitchhiking from an old soldiers' home at San Diego. The bearded Boyer said he was 104. He showed papers saying Boyer served with the 184th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Reed said V. A. files disclosed that Urwiler, born in Philadelphia and possessed of a unique heart condition, had used some two score names—including Boyer, Larson, Hansen and Keating—in gaining admittance to free room and board at hospitals over the country.

Arriving in Reno, the man appeared to be suffering from a severe heart attack.

He was taken to a hospital and given a private room, private nurses, an oxygen tent and other expensive hospital attention at no expense to him.

A few days later hospital officials learned Boyer was not listed among surviving Civil War Veterans. They transferred him to a less luxurious ward. Last Sunday Boyer checked himself out of the hospital as recovered.

That night a man who said he was Robert Larson, of Chicago, a 104-year-old Civil War veteran, showed up at Susanville, Calif., 90 miles north of here—and promptly suffered a heart attack. He was given a private room and special attention at a Susanville hospital.

The V. A. said Urwiler's peculiar "fluttering diaphragm," accompanied by a heart rate up to 300 beats per minute, has led uncounted doctors and nurses to think he was dying. It said the unique heart condition has been written up for times in American Medical Association Journals since 1936.

The journals said he has been in many hospitals under various names and in addition to being listed as a Civil War veteran has at times described himself as a deep sea diver, miner, trapper, Texas deputy sheriff and regular Army officer who fought the Japanese on Tarawa during World War II.

Rabid Bats Move North In Mexico Toward Texas

AUSTIN, Texas — (AP) — Dr. Kenneth Young, Texas state health department rabies expert, said today rabid vampire bats had been found in Mexico 100 miles southwest of Presidio County in the Texas Big Bend country.

He considered the situation "serious enough for us to watch it closely."

His information on the northward spread of the disease came from Dr. Aurelio Malaga-Alba, who Dr. Young said is in charge of Mexico's rabies control program.

"Those bats can travel 30 miles in one night, making it possible for them to cross into the state in a few days," Dr. Young said.

He said Dr. Malaga-Alba told him the carriers are a particular species of vampire bat which are extremely vicious and fight among themselves.

"They infect each other. Then they spread rabies to any animal or human they bite," Dr. Young said.

He said the vampires live entirely on blood. Swooping down at night, they attach themselves to any warm-blooded animal. They hang on with sharp front teeth until they drink their fill.

The Mexican government is cooperating with the state health department in charting the bat rabies' spread, Dr. Young reported. He said Dr. Malaga-Alba is now visiting the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau in Washington.

The disease was first reported in 1914 by a Brazilian scientist. It has spread steadily northward since then.

The area of the United States is about 1,905 million acres, excluding large rivers and lakes.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are "big-hearted" people "unselfish"?

Answer: No. They are unselfconscious, and are often genuinely surprised if you are grateful to them. They put themselves in the other fellow's place and enjoy the pleasure they give him as if they were feeling it themselves. Such people are altogether different from the man who will do anything you ask him because he is afraid you will be angry if he says no, or the one who tries to atone for his own shortcomings by doing things for you at his own expense. The really "bighearted" person has got what he wants from life for himself, and has a surplus of happiness to share with his neighbors.

Do Americans "idealize immaturity"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Harry A. Overstreet, noted philosopher and author of "The Mature Mind." The American "accent on youth" makes it considerably harder for us than for people of most other countries to adjust ourselves to the approach of old age. We must train ourselves beforehand to avoid the feeling that there's nothing more to live for once youth is past, by developing interests and tastes that will not fade with the year. Your body grows old much sooner than your mind does, so that mental activities can make life worth living long after you have "slowed down" as a swimmer or a tennis player.

Will most people "gyp you if they can"?

Answer: Certainly not. The majority of people have acquired a conscience which inhibits them from outright dishonesty, and still more from taking advantage of a person who is honest with them. Besides that, a mature-minded person realizes that the sense of security he gets from a life of fair play is worth more than any profit he can get from cheating. There are people who will "gyp you if they can" for various neurotic reasons, but they do not represent the mass of mankind Being always on the lookout for dishonesty in others usually means you are attributing your own conscious or unconscious wishes to them.

The automobile had passed a car driven by an uncle of the boys, William Hershberger, also of Meyersdale R. D. 1, just a few seconds before the crash. It is believed failure to negotiate a curve caused the crash.

Two Area GI's Are Returned For Reburial

Keyser, Frostburg Youths Die In Korea

The bodies of two area soldiers killed in the Korean War have arrived home for reburial services.

Rites were held yesterday afternoon from the Markwood Funeral Home, Keyser, for Pvt. Douglas L. Welch, 20, who died as the result of wounds received September 21, 1950. Rev. John C. McLaughlin, pastor of Keyser Presbyterian Church, officiated and burial was in Queen's Point Cemetery.

Pvt. Welch was a son of Harry H. Welch, Armstrong Street, Keyser. At the time of his death he was serving in Korea with Company M, 38th Infantry Regiment. He enlisted October 8, 1945, and received his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. He later served at Okinawa and in Japan. He was wounded in action about seven or eight months ago and hospitalized. Following recovery, he went back into the front lines.

Pvt. Welch was a student in Keyser schools. The class, with which he would have graduated last May, honored him by dedicating its year book to him.

Surviving are his father, four brothers, Keith B. Welch, with the U. S. Navy Air Corps, at Westover Air Base, Massachusetts; Kermit B. Welch, Zanesville, Ohio; Adrian L. Welch, U. S. Air Force at Tampa, Fla., and Torone Welch, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Paul Stevens and Mrs. Roland Biggs, both of Westernport, and Mrs. Herman Settle, Clarksburg, W. Va.

The body of Joseph M. Shannon, 18, son of John and Anna (Small) Shannon, 117 McCulloh Street, Frostburg, was scheduled to arrive home from Korea yesterday afternoon.

Pvt. Shannon was killed in Korea July 25, 1950. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, John Shannon, Baltimore, and Charles Shannon, at home, and three sisters, Mrs. George Lavin, Baltimore, and Anna Lee and Mary Louise Shannon at home. His brother, Cpl. Robert Shannon, 20, has been reported missing in action in Korea since December 6, 1950.

The body of Pvt. Shannon was scheduled to arrive at the Hafer Funeral Home yesterday afternoon. A funeral mass will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock, at St. Michael's Catholic Church, with interment in the parish cemetery.

Calf Is Stolen

KEYSER, W. Va.—State Police are investigating the theft of a calf from the pasture near the residence of Charles Thomas on the Laurel Dale Road. The calf was taken last Friday night.

Boy Is Drowned In Cheat River

TUNNELTON, W. Va. — Robert Kisner, ten-year-old son of Homer Kisner of Smokeless, near Tunnelton, was drowned Tuesday when he fell into Cheat River while playing near the Albright Bridge. It was the first drowning of the year in Preston county.

The body was recovered by William Johns, Jr., of Kingwood who was one of several persons using grappling hooks in the search.

The body was recovered about 100 feet from the spot where the boy fell into the river.

The boy had been visiting an uncle, Perry Kisner, at Albright and had gone on an errand to a grocery store with a cousin, James Kisner. Returning from the store, they stopped to play in the river. Bobby slipped off a rock and fell into swift current.

The victim had been making his home with his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kisner at Manown, near Kingwood.

Bridge Is Closed To Pedestrians

KEYSER, W. Va.—The south end of the Keyser-McCoole bridge is being closed by a barrier to all persons, except employes. There have been many complaints recently that persons, including a number of youths, have gone onto the bridge during the day and in the evenings, and have thrown articles from the bridge over the streets, onto house tops and into the streets below that have made conditions hazardous for persons living or walking below.

The final act was the tossing of a piece of reinforcing metal from the high point of the bridge over the street below, that fell close to a mother and her young daughter.

If either had been struck by the metal, it might have been a very serious matter, even death, according to Police Chief Claude Martin, who investigated.

Persons walking on the bridge in the future, until the work is completed, will be prosecuted.

Red Sox Capture Pair, Gain On Yankees

Tigers Blank Yankees, 6-0

Bob Cain's Relief Pitching Highlight

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—A brilliant relief pitching effort by Bob Cain preserved a shutout for the Detroit Tigers and starter Hal White today as the Bengals defeated the New York Yankees, 6-0. The loss cut the Yanks' first-place edge over Boston's Red Sox and Cleveland's Indians.

The blanking was New York's third of the season, Cain and Early Wynn, Cleveland righthander, previously having held the champions scoreless. Detroit led 2-0, when Cain entered the game with the bases full in the seventh, none out and a two balls and no strike count on Pinch-Hitter Johnny Hopp. His first pitch was a ball.

Cain then fired three curves past Hopp for a called strike-out and fanned both Billy Martin and Gene Woodling on sweeping hooks to retire the side. The slim lefthander retired the side in order in the final pair of innings, wiffing two more in the process. Box:

Barnum Paces All-American Golf Tourney

Shoots 8-Under-Par 64 In First Round, Demaret Runner-up

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Little regarded John Barnum, hulking 220-pound pro of Grand Rapids, Mich., shot an eight-under-par 64 with a record cracking 29 on the last nine to take the first round lead today in Tam O'Shanter's $15,000 All-American Golf jamboree.

Texas-born Barnum, who turned pro four years ago after a successful amateur career around Chicago, needed only 25 putts in fashioning his 35-29 card against Tam's 36-36—72 par for 6,915 yards.

He one-putted every green but the 10th on the back nine in his fantastic windup which was a stroke better than Byron Nelson's record 30 set in 1945.

Putts dropped from three to 20 feet for the 39-year-old, 6 foot 4 inch wizard as he grabbed a three-stroke lead over gaudily-garbed Jimmy Demaret and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who came in with 67 scores in the first lap towards top prize of $2,250.

For four hours Demaret had led the money-hungry pack of 116 pros with his 34-33—67, only to relinquish it close to nightfall to Barnum, whose biggest victory since 1947 was winning the Michigan pro-amateur event several weeks ago. His 64 was only one stroke shy of matching the course record set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1948.

Barnum did much to bring the pro contingent to the front in the opening round.

Frank Stranahan opened defense of his All-American amateur crown with a sizzling pair of 33's or 66 which looked as if it would put the play-for-pay boys to shame. The Toledo weightlifter stampeded to a six stroke lead over the simon-pure field of 31.

Trailing him with 72's in this bracket were Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., Mexican amateur champion and North Texas State team star, and Tom Nieporte of Cincinnati, Ohio State's national collegiate champion.

The All-American women's tournament lead was split between pros Babe Zaharias and Beverly Hanson of Pasadena, Calif., each with even feminine par of 76.

Grouped at 68 in the pro pack were Fred Haas New Orleans; Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich.; Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla, Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., and Dutch Harrison, Chicago.

The 69 shooters included Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., Ansel Snow, Myrtle Beach, S. C.; Jack Shields, Chicago, Jack Burke, Houston, Tex., and Jack Mann, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The pre-tourney favorite, Lloyd Mangrum, jotted down a 36-34—70 while his bodyguard of two uniformed policemen wearily watched over his shoulder after shadowing him around the course.

Mangrum has been guarded around-the-clock since receiving a telephone threat last Saturday night warning him not to win the St. Paul Open. The next day he won it, regardless.

In all 41 players matched or broke par on the TAM playground. The biggest group in the category was bracketed at 71. Among the 17 in this group was defending All-American Champion Bobby Locke.

Schoeneman Is Dark Horse Candidate For Commissioner's Job

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Chicago Herald-American today said that George J. Shoeneman, who retired a week ago as U. S. Internal Revenue Commissioner, is the "dark horse" candidate who "probably will" be named next week to succeed A. B. Chandler as commissioner of baseball.

Schoeneman, a veteran of more than four decades of government service, has been head of the Internal Revenue Bureau since July 1, 1947. He has supervised collection of billions of dollars in income and excise taxes. His salary is $10,000 annually.

The Herald-American said that Schoeneman, who is 62, will be the recommendation of the special screening committee which reports to the major league club owners at a special meeting of New York City next Tuesday.

Del Webb, one of the members of the screening committee, was reported to have visited the White House yesterday, the paper said, presumably to discuss with President Truman Schoeneman's availability.

Congress Urged Not To Tamper With Baseball

Keating Is Lukewarm About Investigation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) said today that "congress had better be darned careful before it starts tampering with baseball."

Keating is a member of a judiciary subcommittee studying whether baseball violates anti-trust laws.

The committee had an open date today. It goes back into action tomorrow with George Trautman, boss of the minors, again on the stand. Trautman will finish reading a 31-page statement he started yesterday.

Some committee members, notably Chairman Celler (D-NY), have suggested that baseball needs a rather complete overhauling. Celler suggested that the future may bring four major leagues, and said baseball should start right now reorienting its thinking.

Keating told a reporter that he takes a different view.

"I have been impressed with how complicated baseball is," he said. "And I've also been impressed by the testimony of the men who have studied the game for years.

"We can't possibly become experts on baseball in a week or a month. I think we will have to pay a lot of attention to what they have to say.

What they have had to say, so far, adds up to about this:

"If you don't want to destroy baseball, you had better leave it pretty much alone."

Keating said he doesn't think the committee had any business looking into baseball in the first place.

"From the start I've been lukewarm about conducting an investigation of baseball," he said.

"At a time when the world is on fire it seems to me that we have more important things to do. I still think so.

"But a majority of the committee thought otherwise. Having gotten into it. I think we must find out what it's all about."

Keating has been doing that, by the way. Yesterday Trautman mentioned sending a player out on option, and Keating immediately asked for—and got—a detailed explanation of what it means.

(A major league club which sends a player out on option has the right to recall him, usually at the end of the year.)

Mountain City Nine Host Today At 6:30

Frostburg's Little Leaguers suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of Hagerstown yesterday in the opening game of the best-of-three series for sectional honors at Hagerstown. The score was 19-1.

Doyle with two doubles and a single led the Hagerstown offensive. Jennings rapped a pair of two-baggers and McPhail garnered two singles. Parker accounted for two of the four hits credited to Frostburg.

Hagerstown can sew it up or Frostburg can even up the series when the teams clash in the second game today at 6:30 p. m. at the Frostburg Ball Park. If Frostburg can turn the tables today, the third and deciding game of the series is set for Saturday afternoon in Frostburg. The score:

Reese has hit safely in 12 straight games and in 24 of his last 25.

Dodger pitcher Carl Erskine went all the way and stopped Pirate Gus Bell's hitting streak at 18 games. It was Erskine's 11th win against eight setbacks.

Bell walked in his last turn at bat and scored ahead of Joe Garagiola when the Pirate catcher slammed his 10th home run of the season into the right field upper deck.

Boston Clouts Ball, Trounces Browns Twice

Trails New Yorkers By Single Game After 12-1, 11-6 Victories

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox regained some of their lost ground in the American League's blistering pennant race today with a 12-1 and 11-6 doubleheader sweep over the St. Louis Browns.

Ray Scarborough kept the Brownies' eight hits well scattered during the opener. But they became savage in the seventh inning while scoring all of their nightcap's runs.

When the Red Sox came to bat in the bottom of that frame, their margin had been whittled to 7-6 as Satchel Paige took over the St. Louis mound.

Paige filled the bases by passing Clyde Vollmer and Lou Boudreau after Billy Goodman had signed with none out.

Charlie Maxwell, who had bashed two previous pinch-hit homers, then went in to bat for pitcher Bill Wight and lashed a grandslammer into the right centerfield bleachers to sew up the game and return his forces into second place, only a game back of the New York Yankees. Box:

Robinson Given Hero's Welcome

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (INS) — Sugar Ray Robinson, wearing a light yellow suit, came home to a hero's welcome today, although he is just another ex-champion.

The former middleweight titleholder, who recently lost his crown to Randy Turpin in England, said it was "hard to hold back the tears at this wonderful reception."

A special New York city scroll was presented to the fighter from Harlem by Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, who said:

"Robinson is only a temporary ex-champion and the city is honoring him because he is a champion both in and out of the ring and for the good he has done for others."

A crowd of about 2,500 watched the ceremony on a small stand erected in front of city hall and often cheered the former champion who arrived this morning on the Liberte with plans to begin training soon for his September return match with Turpin.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Newsreel Life—Then, Now And Forever

One of the comforting things about newsreels is their essential timelessness. Nothing has changed very much in human behavior or in the newsreels' special attitude toward news and especially toward people. There is a program belting around the TV circuit called, if memory serves and I'm not sure in this case that it does, "News of Yesteryear." It is just a collection of old newsreels and you'll find that the only difference in life as depicted by the newsreels is in the clothes, particularly the bathing suits.

John Crosby

One of these programs opened with shots of Woodrow Wilson, grinning nervously, as he picked the first draft number out of a fish bowl—a ceremony which combines high tragedy and high comedy in about equal proportions and one which the newsreels have commemorated several times since 1917. It struck me at the time that this drawing of first draft numbers out of fish bowls is almost exclusively a news-reel ceremony, that before the invention of photography there wouldn't have been any fishbowls or any ceremony.

• — • — •

Much of the newsreel-land, in fact, appears to have been composed entirely for the cameras. You get the feeling that after the Kleig lights have been turned off, the sets are struck, Grover Whalen takes off his grease-paint and the little roll of film is the only memento of an event that never really took place. Following the fishbowl were the shots of the men in training in 1917, another sequence we've become tragically familier with—the men exchanging their civilian clothes for khaki, the calisthenics, and also my favorite shot of all, the troops at mess while the announcer says proudly that this army is getting the best food ever given to any army. It's a claim that the Army has been making over many wars now and one, I feel, they'll never sell in Duluth or even in Pittsburgh.

Then came the shot we were ll waiting for, Colleen Moore, one of the picture stars of her day, making a fuss over the doughboys just like Ann Sheridan in the last war, like lots of film stars in this one. When a movie star kisses a GI, as we're not supposed to call them any more, the cameras are always conveniently nearby; the osculation seems to be more a matter of public record than one of enjoyment between a boy and girl.

• — • — •

But, of course, newsreels have covered many things besides wars. Over the years, I should say the greatest and most changeless of newsreel stars has been the Chris Craft. In "News of Yesteryear," there was one 22-year-old shot of a pretty movie starlet on a surfboard, doing the "Black Bottom." You and I have seen many, many variations of the girl on the surfboard in the last couple of decades. The bathing suits are briefer, the hairdos are different, "The Black Bottom" has fallen in disuse, the tricks on surfboards have grown steadily more complicated. The Chris Craft alone has remained basically unchanged—trim, expensive, and apparently designed only to pull pretty girls and handsome boys on surfboards.

Oh, there were lots of other shots, none of which will surprise you. A fashion show, for example. A 1919 strip of film showing the latest techniques in women's coiffure. The newsreels have always gone in heavily for disasters of a pictorial nature—floods and earthquakes in particular. This one was no exception. There were 1930 shots of an earthquake in Italy—the ruins, the refugees, the nine-figure estimate of the physical damage. Then, of course, there was the latest invention, a newsreel standby. The latest invention—I think they dream them up in newsreel offices—is usually a device to shell stone crabs without getting your fingers wet or something equally pertinent to the stresses of modern life. This one, a 1929 film, was an umbrella automat—you pop a quarter into it and out pops an umbrella just as the rain starts—an invention that has got lost somewhere in the pressure of wars and economic revolutions.

• — • — •

There were a few things missing in these ancient newsreels. Not a single girl was crowned queen of the cherry festival, a serious omission; there weren't any shots of the new girl figure-skating champ—or queen of the ice, as we used to call her; there were no bobsleds, no battleships and not a single monkey dressed in tophat doing a tango. Otherwise, though, newsreel life hasn't changed a bit since 1917.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

I WONDER WHAT KNOBBY IS UP TO? HE'S SO SECRETIVE. WHEN I TALKED TO HIM FROM ROCHESTER HE SAID I'D BE A MILLIONAIRE BUT WOULDN'T TELL ME HOW... HE HAS A BIG SURPRISE WAITING.
I HOPE HE'S SUCCESSFUL. HE SEEMED AS ENTHUSIASTIC AS A LITTLE BOY WITH A NEW BICYCLE.

THAT HOUSE? A MR. ROE USED TO LIVE THERE WITH AN ONLY SON. BUT THE SON WAS WILD AND GOT INTO SERIOUS TROUBLE. MR. ROE LEFT HIS HOME BECAUSE OF IT.
ALL THIS LAND IS HIS. THE HOUSE IS EMPTY. NO ONE LIVES ON THE ESTATE NOW, THOUGH THEY DO SAY THERE'S A HERMIT LIVING SOMEWHERE IN THE WOODS.
NOBODY KNOWS WHERE HE CAME FROM NOR WHEN. HE NEVER SHOWS HIMSELF, BUT HE'S BEEN GLIMPSED A COUPLE OF TIMES.

Louis' Victory Proves Ex-Champ Definite Threat

Joe Given Ovation After Brion Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP) — Joe Louis' smashing 10-round victory over tough young Cesar Brion of the Argentine here last night convinced many boxing fans that he must still be considered a definite threat to regain the crown he wore for more than 11 years. Louis weighed 207 pounds, Brion 196.

The 37-year-old former king of the heavyweight ranks received a thundering ovation from more than 12,000 fans crowded into the Cow Palace after he had pounded out a convincing decision over Argentina's championship contender.

The crowd paid $66,525 to see the fight. An additional $10,000 was realized from sale of motion picture rights.

Louis finished the last four rounds of the battle with a steady barrage of blows that had the 24-year-old Brion groggy at times and seemingly ready to hit the canvas. Brion's gameness in taking everything that Joe had to offer earned him the plaudits of the crowd.

The fighter from the Argentine, employing a crouch which obviously had Louis puzzled, took the play away from the former champ in the opening round. He stayed on top of Louis for the first half of the battle, scoring effectively with left jabs and pummeling Joe on the body in the close-range fighting. His aggressiveness had him out in front on points as late as the sixth round.

Louis finally found the range and staggered Brion with left hooks to the jaw. He had the South American in a bad way in the seventh round.

Brion managed to weather the storm, however, and he stood up under heavy punishment for the remainder of the fight. Brion suffered cuts on the corners of both eyes. Several stitches were required to close one cut.

After the fight Louis paid tribute to Brion as a "rough, willing fighter." He expressed the opinion that Brion would develop into a strong contender for the title.

Woman In Black Is Sought As Fix Queen In Canada

FORT ERIE, Ont., Aug. 2 (INS) —Royal Canadian mounted police sought a mysterious "woman in black" today as the possible fix queen in a horse race scandal that has resulted in suspension of six jockey's two for life.

Meanwhile, the Ontario Racing Commission announced it will widen its investigation to cover every race run in the province this year. Commission member Donald Mac Intosh said the probe is "only beginning."

At Aylmer, Quebec, agents of five police bodies including the FBI, were reported on the alert for possible "fixes" at Connaught Race Track.

(FBI Agent Glen Bethel was reported checking possible activities of big-time U. S. gamblers.)

The woman in black — reported to be the wife of a big-time gambler—was said to have won $11,000 on two longshots, Saucers and North Drive, at the Fort Erie track. She left the track without cashing her second ticket.

North Drive's victory led to the race fixing investigation and the lifetime ban on Jockeys Bobby Keane and Bill Marchese.

REMEMBER PSYCHOLOGY

IT HAS been said that good play by a declarer is a matter of arithmetic and geometry combined—arithmetic to do the card-reading that places the assets of his opponents and that applies tables of probabilities to doubtful situations, and geometry to plan what shall be done about the situation. But there is a third important factor, psychology. It is needed to protect against hamstringing moves by the enemy and also to bamboozle them into mistakes.

George A. Alderton II, one of Detroit's greatest bridge masters, earned a terrific top on this national tournament deal by a series of deceptive plays. He began on the first trick, to which West led the heart 6. Making it appear he might operate on the spades, he discarded the club 6 from dummy and, when East played the 9, put on the J to create the illusion that maybe East had the 10.

Now he took the phantom finesse of the diamond 7 to the J, so West might think East held up the K or Q. Now he made his one risky play, leading the club 10 and, after East covered with the Q, winning with the K. That made both defenders sure he had four clubs for his opening bid. The rest was delightful smooth sailing to him. He scored the heart A, laid down the diamond K, overtook the Q with the A and cashed three more diamonds.

Sure that East had the heart 10, West discarded on these diamonds the heart 8, Q and K and then, in order to retain his spades, tossed the club 5 and 7. Meantime East decided he had to hold his three spades, so discarded down to those cards and the lone club A. Mr. Alderton thereupon threw East in with the club 9 to the A. The victim could score nothing now except his spade A and then return his J to the K. The heart 10 then took the final trick for a total of eleven. Only tricks won by the defense were with East's two black aces.

Admit Complicity In Eight Explosions, Fires, Train Derailments In Creek Section

Lie Detector Helps End Probe Of Two-Year Wave Of Mystery Crimes

Four Westernport youths, ranging in ages from 15 to 25, have admitted complicity in a series of train derailments, explosions in powder magazines, and arson, after being interrogated by Allegany County authorities since Tuesday.

The culprits include 18-year-old William David Taylor, who is serving a three-year sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville after being convicted of arson in the powder magazine explosion of the Harris Powder Company in Westernport, December 28, 1950.

The Taylor youth was brought to Cumberland for questioning by special authority signed by Associate Judge George Henderson of Fourth Judicial Circuit Court here at the request of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher. The others involved are Paul Russell Taylor 15, brother of William David; John Francis Humes, 15, and Arthur Leon Kerling, 25.

All reside on Kolberg Hill, Westernport with the exception of Kerling, who is married and lives on Westernport Hill.

Sign Statements

Fletcher, after a night questioning session which finally ended about 1 o'clock this morning, said the four youths admitted in signed statements they were involved in nine separate crimes in and around the Westernport area.

Listing the vandalism and crime wave as beginning August 11, 1950 with the derailment of extra engine 842 east, of the Western Maryland Railway with a broken lock and thrown switch at the west end of the West Virginia Junction yard, Fletcher said other offenses included another derailment at Foundry Siding August 16, 1950 in which an engine and five freight cars were overturned near Luke by a broken switch; another broken lock and cocked switch at the east end of Hampshire Mine Siding October 16, 1950; opening of the switch at the west end of West Virginia Junction again and east end of Westernport yards November 22, 1950.

Admit Explosions

Also confessed to by the young terrorists was an open switch at the west end of West Virginia Junction again on December 6, 1950; the first explosion at the Harris Powder Company magazine of which William David Taylor was convicted; another thrown switch at West Virginia Junction, May 29, 1951; an attempted effort to blow up a dynamite magazine of the Harris Powder Company June 7, 1951; and the explosion of 60,000 dynamite caps in a magazine of the same company June 11, 1951.

Investigating authorities said all four youths were involved in the crime wave until the elder Taylor was sent to the reformatory.

The others admitted the remainder of the terror reign except the attempted arson of the powder magazine June 7, when officials stated, two confessed complicity and involved the third, but Kerling denied having anything to do with the attempt.

Termed Terror Mob

Labeled the "Bar-Fusee Gang" by C. R. Cobb, arson investigator of the State of West Virginia Fire Marshall's office because of their use of a crowbar to break and enter and fusees to set off the fires and explosions, the group of vandals had held the town of Westernport and surrounding suburbs in a constant threat of terror of where they would strike next.

The apprehension of the gang was said by Cobb to be "the breaking up by the nucleus of a terrorist mob that had a beginning and would have gained momentum until nothing would have stopped it."

Cobb, an expert with a Keeler Polygraph, or lie detector, was instrumental in breaking down the defense of the four boys, Fletcher declared, adding that most of the crimes would not have been solved without its use.

Probe To Continue

No charges have yet been placed against the gang, Fletcher went on, pending further questioning and investigation into other acts of arson not yet solved.

Fletcher had nothing but praise for the efforts of all the law enforcement officials involved in the tracking down of the gang which had kept them on the jump since last August.

In a statement after the questioning period ended Fletcher said "Cooperation of the highest order between all agencies was responsible for the bringing to an end of the series of law violations.

"It is unfortunate there was no possible way for the public to know the extent of the law enforcement officers' diligent efforts to discover those responsible for the acts.

Praises All Officers

"We are all greatly relieved to know the source of the series of crimes is now known as it has been a constant worry to all responsible Allegany County authorities. This particular series of crimes was not a threat to private persons, as such, but to the lives and property of the entire community of Westernport and surrounding territory and we are indeed very grateful to have been able to apprehend those persons responsible."

Going on to extend congratulations for a job well done to the Maryland State Police under the direction of Lt. William E. O'Hara; assistance of Western Maryland Railway police, led by H. B. Clark, special agent; deputies of Sheriff Edward R. Muir's office, Westernport police under supervision of Chief Burza Hanlin, and Luke authorities led by Chief Joseph Wilks, Fletcher had a special pat on the back for the work done by Cobb with the lie detector, saying "it is doubtful if all the offenses would have been discovered if it wasn't for his excellent work."

Fletcher then turned and thanked Officer Howard R. Taylor, guard at the state reformatory who brought William David Taylor here for interrogation.

The officers appeared very tired but with happy expressions on worn and haggard countenances following the breaking of the crime cases.

Fletcher then added all law enforcement agencies in the county would "welcome any information from private citizens of Westernport and vicinity in connection with other offenses or arson not yet solved."

Pair Released On Bond, 2 Held In Wire Theft

Bullitts Charged With Larceny

Two men were released yesterday on $500 bond each and two others were charged with larceny and held in Allegany County jail, in connection with the theft of 650 pounds of copper wire, authorities said last night.

John Gordon and Eugene T. Bush, both of Frostburg, were released on bond in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who said Gordon's mother, Mrs. Idabelle Gordon posted bond for the two men. They have been released for appearance at court at the call of the State's Attorney, Dick stated.

The other two, Bermon and Nechona Bullitt, Eckhart, are being held in the county jail on a larceny charge after being interrogated in the State's Attorney's office.

Officials reported one of the quartet admitted stealing the copper wire and the others became involved when they attempted to sell the wire to a junk dealer in Somerset, Pa.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police said Pennsylvania State Police arrested the four Saturday after Calvin Nair, the dealer, notified them of the alleged attempt to sell him the stolen goods.

Pfc. Louis Pagler of the Somerset detachment picked up the quartet and held them for questioning. All were lodged in Somerset County jail and Pagler notified authorities Baker went to Somerset to question the men and brought them here after they waived extradition to Maryland.

Police said last night that questioning of the four men had revealed the place of business where the theft occured. Investigation is continuing in several other wire thefts which have been reported in recent months in the area.

The fourth automobile was driven by William Miley Jr., 718 Glenmore Street, the third by Ezra T. Shaffer, 200 Wills Creek Avenue, the second by Morris L. Barnes, 19 Washington Street and the lead car by Hamilton Radbaugh, 3 Springfield Street. The mishap was investigated by Officer Charles W. Thompson but no charges were preferred.

City police said the child suffered facial lacerations and a probable skull fracture when struck by an automobile driven by Charlotte T. McIntosh, 34, of 225 Bond Street, at the intersection of Cumberland and Market Streets.

Officer Louis D. Downey said the girl and her mother, Mrs. William O. Twigg, were crossing the Market Street bridge when the child stepped from the curb and was struck by the car. No charges were filed against the driver pending the outcome of her injuries, they added.

Mrs. Ethel Meredith, Chicago, who was injured Wednesday afternoon when her car went out of control and careened from Route 40 at the bottom of Sideling Hill, was reported "satisfactory" by Memorial Hospital attaches last night. Her son, Michael, also injured in the mishap, is listed as "good."

Delegate Urges State-Paid Teacher Salary Increases

Educator Seeks Standardized Earnings

A Republican Delegate today urged state-paid teacher pay increases before a Legislative Council subcommittee investigating the thorny problem.

Delegate Estel C. Kelley (R-Allegany) said since the state sets requirements for entrance of high school graduates into Maryland colleges and universities, it should also assume the responsibility of granting teacher pay increases.

Maryland's Republican Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has taken the position that teacher pay boosts are a local problem and not the responsibility of the state.

A teacher representative, Miss Frances Walsh, president of the Frederick County Teachers Association, urged the subcommittee to support a program to pay all Maryland teachers the same amount.

She said that teachers are attracted to those counties which pay the most.

State Ranks 34th

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools, pointed out that Maryland ranks thirty-fourth in the amount it contributes to its schools, and yet ranks seventh in wealth.

Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, president of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers, also argued in support of state-paid teacher increases.

And a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, Mrs. Stanley Buckley, said pay increases should be the full responsibility of the state.

She said 29 high school teachers and 17 elementary school teachers have left the county since last June for better paying jobs.

Allegany County has done its utmost in paying its teachers, she declared.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners submitted a statement to the effect that it has done all it possibly can do this year in the matter of teacher pay raises.

The board reported that it has granted $100 per year pay increases to all teachers earning less than $3,000 per year. The board indicated that 124 county teachers were affected by the raise.

Earlier, a Democrat and a Republican, both members of the subcommittee, joined to suggest two solutions to the pay problem.

State Senator Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Kimble (R-Allegany) suggested legislation that would (1) grant teachers a flat increase and (2) shorten the number of years required for advancing from minimum to maximum scales.

Also appearing before the group was Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College. She said she believed a 10 per cent increase in present scales would be satisfactory to most teachers.

Four Counties Represented

Educators and officials from Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties were at the hearing to present their views on the teacher pay question. It was the third in a series of hearings on the matter.

Other speakers included Eugene Pruitt, Frederick County superintendent of schools; State Senator Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County; B. E. Feete, president of the Frederick County Council of Parents and Teachers; Wick Burham, president of the Washington County Board of Commissioners and Commissioners C. V. Eldridge, Lester Mobley, Joseph Hoffman and Chester Delphy; Simon Clopper, supervisor of assessments for Washington County; Garrett County Commissioner Jonas Sines; S. R. Pagenhardt, secretary to the Garrett County Board of Education, and R. Bowen Hardesty, Garrett County supervisor of schools.

Celanese Talks Bogged Down On Monetary Issues

Conciliator Will Aid In Negotiations

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), yesterday asked the United States Conciliation Service to aid in negotiation of a contract with the Celanese Corporation of America.

Playford Aldridge, president, said Conciliation Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., is expected to be in Cumberland Monday at 2 p.m. when contract talks are tentatively scheduled to resume.

The TWUA official said negotiations are deadlocked and that the outlook is gloomy at present.

Aldridge said the company and the union were "bogged down" on all issues of a monetary nature when the talks broke off yesterday afternoon.

Under the 10 per cent WSB formula, the union is entitled to a 3.75 cents an hour wage increase at the Amcelle plant. A 10 cents an hour wage boost last fall brought the average wage at the plant to 1.489.

Some 4,600 hourly paid employes are represented by the union.

One of the monetary issues involved in the contract discussions is the union's request for a third week of vacation after five years of service.

The present pact provides one week's vacation, with pay of 2½ per cent of earnings for the previous year for workers with less than five year's service, and two weeks, at five per cent of earnings, for those with five or more years of service.

Fringe issues at the plant cost about 27 cents an hour per employe.

The present pact is due to expire August 8.

Herbert W. Payne, TWUA synthetic yarn director, is heading the union negotiators.

Aldridge said no meetings are scheduled before the one tentatively set Monday, but added the union indicated its willingness to meet at any time.

A membership meeting has been scheduled Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the TWUA hall, 34 North Mechanic Street, for a report of the negotiating committee.

Company States Issues

Givens stated that "discussions with the union which began early in June were terminated yesterday with little progress being noted toward reaching agreement on what the union terms the major points of its demands.

"These issues include a demand for a 25 cent per hour wage increase for all employes, three weeks' vacation for employes with more than five years' service, two holidays, Armistice Day and Armed Forces Day, in addition to six national holidays already recognized by the company, time and one-half for all off-scheduled work and time and one-half for all Sunday work.

Some Agreement Noted

Numerous other changes affecting various provisions of the present contract have been discussed and agreement reached in some cases.

"Several additional demands which were discussed in the early stages of negotiations are not now considered to be of major importance.

City Resident To Further Priesthood Studies In France

A Cumberland student plans to further his formal education in France next month. Theodore S. Rowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Rowan, LaVale, is studying for the Catholic priesthood and in June of this year completed three years education at St. Charles College, Catonsville.

Rowan received the appointment recently from Archbishop Francis P. Keough, head of the Baltimore diocese. The young student will sail for Europe on September 7 from New York, on the SS Liberte, a French liner and will study at Seminaire de St. Brieuc located in Brittany. He will receive his visa papers from the French consul in Baltimore and, according to Rowan, his stay will be possibly for six years.

Rev. John Duggan, chancellor of the Baltimore Diocese notified Rowan last Friday of his opportunity to study in France. The first two years will be spent studying philosophy and the latter four years theology. Another student from Baltimore will accompany Rowan on the September trip.

Rowan is a member of St. Patrick's Church and was active in the Glee Club while attending La-Salle High School where he graduated in 1948.

State To Ask Murder Charge If Shooting Victim Succumbs

Michael Critical After Emergency Operation

The State's Attorney said last night a murder charge would be placed against Margaret E. Gray, 39, in the event of the death of a 50-year-old Celanese worker whom he said she admittedly shot and critically wounded about 3 a. m. yesterday.

The shooting victim is Nile Jennings Michael of the North Branch section who underwent an emergency operation yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital after the shooting occurred in the old tollgate house near North Branch where the couple lived together. Michael, five years ago, faced charges of killing his wife, authorities added.

Hospital attaches gave Michael little chance to survive the bullet wound and listed his condition as "very critical."

Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, said the Gray woman admitted shooting Michael in the right groin with a .22 caliber single shot rifle. The bullet ranged up through his intestines and shattered the liver. The woman is being held in Allegany County jail awaiting arraignment.

Lived as "Man And Wife"

Criminal Investigator William F. Baker of the Maryland State Police revealed the couple had lived together as "man and wife" in the tollgate house. After the Gray woman shot Michael, he added, she went to the nearby home of Mr. and Mrs. John Emerick and reported the incident. The Emericks immediately notified authorities, Baker related, and he and Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, went to the scene.

Trooper Baker reported he found Michael lying in bed and bleeding profusely. An ambulance was summoned to rush him to the hospital.

Fletcher stated the Gray woman apparently shot Michael following an argument. She had been drinking, he added.

Baker declared the gun, owned by Michael, was kept in a room used as a bedroom and kitchen. The woman had been arrested six times on misdemeanor charges within the past year, police added, and had previously stated Michael had threatened to do her bodily harm.

Investigated Reported Shooting

Police noted an investigation was made last year on a reported shooting involving the Gray woman and Michael at the tollhouse. The woman had claimed she shot her common-law spouse with a .410 shotgun, but further interrogation then had revealed she and Michael were shooting at tin cans while drinking.

Michael also previously was involved in a slaying when he was arraigned in June 1946, in Trial Magistrates Court on a charge that he "did on June 13, with malice and aforethought, kill and murder his wife, Irene Michael." Authorities at that time debated as to whether Mrs. Michael fell or was kicked to death.

Former Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., held Michael for action of the grand jury and in November the charge was changed to manslaughter in Circuit Court.

After Michael was found guilty of manslaughter he received a suspended three-year sentence and was paroled by former Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Street Oiling Program To Be Completed Today

Over 30 Miles Of Roads Included

The Street Department today will wind up work on the oiling of this city's unpaved streets today.

Work on grading, ditching, rolling and oiling the some 30 miles of unpaved streets within the city limits began June 12, according to Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent.

The last of 32 tank loads of oil will be used by the work crews today as they complete work in South Cumberland.

The task has been unusually difficult this year, officials said, both because of heavy damage from the worst winter in years and heavy spring rains which delayed the opening of the annual oiling program.

At the same time, other crews have been busy preparing for the paving of Trost and Piedmont Avenues.

Corrigan said curbing of Trost Avenue, from its intersection with Holland Street and the City line, and Piedmont Avenue, from Edgewood Avenue to the city line, has been completed.

Men are working now on catch basins and final grading will begin next week, he added.

Bids for the blacktopping of the streets are being asked by the Mayor and City Council. They will be accepted until August 13 at 9 a. m.

Other street department crews have been busy this week cleaning catch basins and removing debris washed on city streets by last week's heavy rains.
